The editor of THE TIMES has received an invitation to participate in the celebration of "Missouri Day" and 'Louisiana Purchase Exposition Day' to take place at the South Carolina Inter-State and West Indian Exposition tomorrow. We highly appreciate this compliment from the commissioners from the State of Missouri, but on account of an engagement we will have the next day in Manning, we must forego the pleasure of going to Charleston. We much prefer the Missourian ban-quet table Thursday evening to the Signature decorated stand on Friday morning.

There are certain people going to great lengths to get their grasp upon our county affairs. Their motto seems to be, "Don't care how you get there, so you get there"; but we say they will not get there, because the people will have their eyes opened in plenty of time to prevent such a calamity. Sup-pliant tools in the General Assembly is what these greedy sharks want, but with men there who cannot be flattered or cajoled the taxpayers are safe. Within the last four years county taxes have been decreased nearly one half, and the county's credit is A No. 1, and for this, the green-eyed monster Greed has lost much of the discounts, hence One dollar's worth of goods for 75c, his hate for those responsible for such a condition.

Years ago when we first started business our entire stock amounted to a few hundred dollars. I dreamed one night that I had come in possession of a beautiful and well appointed dry goods store well filled with a large stock of goods, but when I awoke the next morning I found that it was only a dream.

Since that dream many years of toil and struggle have passed, but during all those years that dream was ever fresh in my memory. And now that dream has been fully realized. It is no longer a dream but a reality. The dreamer has brought his dream to pass. Round by round he has climbed the ladder of success until the Jenkinson Dry Goods Store is known far and near as the largest and most upto-date dry goods store in this part of the State, and it is also equally known for its reliable and straightforward dealings. No claptrap methods are resorted to in the management of this store. Nothing but the best class of goods find room upon our shelves.
