REPUBLICANS WIN AGAIN. The elections throughout the country are over, and the newspapers are endeavoring to tell the people how it happened that their predictions went wild. This might be expected of newspapers, because they must say something, but the party leaders, instead of being square and honest, and acknowledging, the Democratic party, being in the hands of incompetent leaders, they try to cling on by holding out hope. Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee after paying several visits to President Roosevelt in search of a position on the canal commission, and so far has not succeeded in getting the job, has now come out in an inter- The record however will be view, in which he pretends to against them, and it also shows inside of such a place. Alcohol first irritates and disturbs quilibrium then poisons and weakens the nerve system, and finally produces almost deadly relation. While the brain suffers, other organs depenlent upon it for nerve force, suffer with it in the punishment. For instance, it is no uncommon experience to meet an habitual drinker with drunkard's blindness, caused by want of proper nourishment for the optic nerve. causing a misty or cloudy appearance before the eyes. Then to the drinker let me say, stop, think, ponder and weigh the consequences, then turn to the right and keep in the middle of the road. It is a clearly proven fact that the habitual use of alcohol as a beverage cannot be indulged in even in very given in one of the meetings in his small quantities without injury to some of the bodily organism which will man-lest itself sooner or later. Read what that eminent surgeon, Sir Henry Thompson, said: "There is no single habit in this country which so much tends to deteriorate the quali-ties of the race, and so much disqualiies it for endurance in that competition which in the nature of things must exist." As a rule the drinkers judgment is impaired, thus his appetite is uncontrolled and drink seems to be the God he worships, and too often it predetermines his own physical condition and that of his children. Why is it that the majority of drinking men are not as keen of perception as the abstain-er? Because of the enlarged brain cells above mentioned. Strange that with such glaring facts before us warning us of the danger of alcoholic indulgence, it has so many devotees. How careful man is to inprove and strengthen the stock of his dumb animals by keeping them up to the demands of nature's wise So, too, have we improved the regetable kingdom almost beyond conception, and still we strive on for greater perfection. But man alone of all earth sinks below his nature by yielding to appetites and passions.
