While La Frochard is thus pleasantly engaged, we will, in a few brief words, explain what happened after Marianne was carried away into exile. Henriette remained at La Salpetriere until nightfall, and in the meantime the Count de Linieres had received notice that she had embarked in the prison ship. He at once gave Picard the necessary orders for the release of gether, discussing plans for the release of Louise.

Picard proved a valuable aid in the matter, and before Henriette had beenout of prison an hour, she was on her way to find the blind girl from whom
