Alphabetical Significance.
A writer in the Garden has discovered that many of the worst foes of the horticulturist begin with "w," and he instances worms, weevils, wind and other workers of wickedness. This, writes a correspondent, suggests a question as to whether there is any natural grouping of good or evil things under particular letters. Take "b," for example, and consider how many bombs and blessings to man begin with it. The baker and butcher bring him bread and beef. For additional foods he has bacon, beans, berrill, bloaters, broccoli, broth, bivalves, bananas, berries, biscuits, buns and butter. After a banquet of bonnes bouches he may bring out his briar and blow his baccy while he bestrides his bicycle. These are but a few of the beneficent things included under that blessed letter "b." Now, as a contrast, take "d," and among the first words we think of are damp, dark, dreary, dismal, dirty, despaired, and so on, the very sound of which is enough to drive one into doleful dumps.

The Hackney on Parade.
How a high bred hackney looks when he is put on exhibition at a big horse show is told by Sewell Ford in "Horses Nine." It was a very pretty sight presented to the horse experts lining the rail and to persons in boxes and tier seats. They saw a box built strawberry roan, his chiseled neck arched in a perfect crest, his rigid high muscles rippling under a shiny coat as he swung his hocks, his slim fore legs sweeping up and out, and every curve of his rounded body from the tip of his absurd whisker trail to the white snip on the end of his tossing nose expressing that exuberance of spirits, that jaunty abandon of motion, which is the very apex of hackney style. Behind him a short legged groom bounced through the air at the end of the reins, keeping his feet only by means of most amazing strides.

Much More Sensible.
"Jack, dear, when you are gone, I shall pine away."
"Don't pine away. Spruce up."—Life.

Rebuking an Organist.
An organist had for some time been trying to extract a compliment from Dr. Nathaniel Emmons, a well known divine of Franklin, Mass. The old doctor possessed a cunning wit, used sparingly, however.
"The organ is not as powerful as it looks," said the organist after one of the services. "Some of the pipes are false, placed there only for effect."
"Ah," exclaimed the doctor, his features brightening, "there are times when even a clergyman may prefer the false to the real!"

True Politeness.
Be careful not to confound politeness with the automatic following of social rules, says the Chicago Record-Herald.
Do not seek to do only as others do, even if it is the very makers of the social laws. Preserve your originality.
No one may more wholly according to rules and be natural. Remember that a bit of the milk of human kindness, a few grains of good common sense, mixed well with a desire to "do unto others," is a splendid recipe for success in most walks of life.

Does he interest himself in books?"
"No," sniffed Mrs. Newrick; "my husband has clerks to do that for him."

Saving.
More than 500 persons competed for the prizes offered by a Chicago company for the best thoughts on the subject of saving. The man who received the first prize wrote: "Saving produces a peace of mind unknown to him who in time of misfortune must depend on the bounty of his friends. Determine to save, for will power is the prime essential. Deposit regularly. Lay aside some portion of each week's or month's income. Deposit extra and unexpected receipts." It is a short but sound and comprehensive sermon on thrift and enlists in a good cause two forces that sometimes fight on opposite sides —will power and habit.

Presidents Ate With Their Knives.
All our earlier presidents ate with their knives. The stately George Washington, the irascible John Adams, the original Thomas Jefferson, the learned James Monroe—each shoved in his food with his knife. John Quincy Adams was the first president who ate with his fork. And his wife felt it necessary to explain to the guests at the White House that "Mr. Adams had learned to eat with his fork while in France and that he couldn't overcome the habit." Andrew Jackson restored the "republican simplicity" of eating with the knife. All of those who were named also poured their tea or coffee into their saucers to cool it. It is related of General Taylor that when he was president he could be seen in the streets of Washington early in the morning with a market basket on his arm going from one butcher to another and bargaining for a steak or a rib roast. If he had bargained less persistently, he might have served out his term, for we have heard it was owing to the inferior quality of the cherries he ate on the Fourth of July, 1850, that sickness attacked him and he died on the 9th of July.—Utica Observer.

Feline Ethics.
A correspondent sends the following story to Animal Life:
"I called the kitten," writes the correspondent, "who sprang from her basket where she had been lying with her mother and followed me into the next room. The cat followed, growling warningly, and taking it up by the neck, I replaced it in the basket. Again I called it, and again it came at my call. This time the mother, growling still more threateningly, followed us again, and this time she seized the kitten by the tail instead of the neck, evidently as a punishment, and pulled it roughly along, the kitten meowing helplessly. For a third time I called, and once more it came to me, but this time the mother was silent. She came, took up the kitten, dragged it off and then began to bite it again and again in order to secure its obedience. This method was successful, and the next time I called it was in vain."

The Lion's Roar.
Major Austin, writing of his travels in central Africa, says: "The grandest, the most awe inspiring, the most tremendous voice on earth issues from the throat of that king of beasts, the lion.
It is difficult to describe that mighty roar bursting out into the silence of the night and seeming to shake the very ground beneath one. It makes one feel petty, insignificant, of no account.
When his majestic voice his satisfaction at having dined well on some porcupine antelope which has allowed itself to fall under the clutches of that ponderous paw. The men huddle together; a deadly stillness follows; there is a catch in one's breath, and it is with a sense of relief a whisper perhaps of "Simba shiba" (the lion is satiated) arises, and conversation gradually resumes its flow."

Old Engraved Rings.
Among the legends of Greece it is told that the father of Pythagoras, the famous Greek philosopher, was a celebrated engraver of gems, and, according to classical history, both Helen of Troy and Ulysses of Greece wore engraved rings. Engravings on stones were partly precious was an art at a very remote age. The British museum proudly boasts the possession of a small square of yellow Jasper bearing the figure of a horse and the name and titles of Amenophis II., believed to date back to about the year 1450 B. C.
The very finest specimen of engraving seen now in existence is a head of Nero carved on a first water diamond by the brothers Castanzi in the year 1700
A. D.

A Curious God.
Among the most extraordinary pieces of symbolism known to have been used by the early Asiatics was a figure of a donkey or head as a representative of the deity. There is no doubt whatever that the same emblem was once used among the Hittites, the Egyptians and one or two other nations as a symbol of their god, Sut. The superstition of the yellow donkey of India, the story of the swift ass of eastern Asia and the ass of Dionysus and many other marvelous ass stories are all survivals of that curious form of religious worship, the adoration of the ass' head.

Where Ignorance Is Bliss.
Miss Inez Sautz—It's true I'm engaged to Mr. Rounders. The other night he told me I was the only girl he ever loved, and—Miss Truster—Where's the ring?
Didn't he give you one?
Miss Inez Sautz—Oh, yes, the very next day, but I sent it back to the jeweler to be fixed. The stupid engraver made the inscription "Jack to Green-doline" instead of "Inez"—Philadelphia Press.

A Busy Day.
Hallit—What's the matter, Klay?
You look all tired out.
Klay—And no wonder. I've had a hard day of it. I don't know when I've worked so hard. I looked at the men clean up the railroad station this morning, and after that I saw three safes raised into four story windows and our loads of coal delivered in barkets.—Boston Transcript.

Her Anatomical Experience.
Teacher (of class in anatomy)—How many bones are there in a chicken?
Mittie (youngest member of large family)—I can tell you how many there are in the neck. That's the only part I ever got.—Chicago Tribune.

Save the Children.
Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach, and these disorders are all caused by indigestion.
Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 705 Central St., Nashville, Tenn., says:
"My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have had the best doctors in Nashville, but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by The R. B. Loryea Drug Store.

Conducted by Paxville W. C. T. U.
National Motto—"For God, Home and Native Land."
State Motto—"Be Strong and of Good Courage."

Intoxicating liquors while I live.
From bad companions I'll refrain And never take God's name in vain."

The Flower Mission Department seeks to bring the uplifting and comforting, preventive and regenerative influences of God's beautiful world of nature unto everyone, and in this way to teach them the beauty of His love. The department aims to reach all the sick, poor, afflicted and erring with the ministrations of the Flower Missions. It is impossible to combine and give a comprehensive idea of the many gifts of the Flower Mission.
The general terms of fruit, jelly, food, ice delicacies, comforts for the sick, etc., are acceptable.

Again it gives assistance for village improvement and everything which tends to make the neighborhood more beautiful and attractive. Nativo work is becoming an important part of education and the public schools and college settlements are glad to receive buds, leaves, flowers, plants, seeds, mosses, seaweeds, etc. Anything pertaining to nature can be used in helping the children.

Flowers have their messages for White Ribboners as well as for those among whom we work.
If we love and feel the beautiful ourselves we will be better able to help in this mission.
The following encouraging words from a worker, who had been ill, emphasizes the fact that we should be mindful of those who are shut in:
"Especially did I appreciate the depth of the F. M. D. in our work. What it meant to me and for me earth will never reveal.
So many friends and white ribboners sent me these 'evangelists,' and they brought light and sunshine into the long hours as nothing else did. The roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, violets, etc., all seemed to talk to me and bring me nearer to my Heavenly Father. 'Tis the desire of the State Superintendent that all district, as well as local superintendents of Flower Mission work (which the editor out of the fullness of his kind heart has given for a noble purpose) God and Home and Native Land." May our women realize that the little things in life must be cared for, as they develop into larger things and as the days are going by rapidly these little acts of kindness may be performed.
Hoping other county papers may copy this column.

Woman's Struggle for the Home.
We are banded together as a great body of women for the purification of the home. It is Ruskin who has said that "Home is always around a woman. The stars only may be over her head, the glow worm in the night cold grass may be the only fire at her feet, but home is yet wherever she is and for a noble woman it stretches far around her better ceiled with cedar, or painted with vermilion shedding its quiet light afar for these who else were homeless." And here I think is the summing up of the work of the World's W. C. T. U. in the words of its great founder, Francis Willard minds that are graven upon her earthly resting place, words that are the very basis of our world-wide bond: "To make the world wider for woman and more homelike for humanity." There are many working in our midst to whom home, as a family hearth, is now only a memory. They are determined that the wide world shall be purified of that which must be the essential enemy of the home and that the one nature of home which is a place of peace and of shelter from injury shall be preserved by them. Moreover they are content to give up their own ease and pleasure and are prepared to make this great sacrifice because at this hour we cannot forget the terrible feature of our time the increase of drunkenness. What wonder then that women should be aroused? What wonder that they should band themselves together a great army everywhere to do battle with the greatest foe that the home knows.
And as I write these words I pray that each woman may re-consecrate herself and go forward, not in her strength alone, but realizing that she has around her the power of the Highest.
Let that power overshadow us.
This word is but a preparation surely for wider work. There those whose names we honor and whose memories we cherish, who we believe have learned so well their lessons here that they are entrusted and to teach in those wider realms beyond, and as the name of Francis Willard is bound up with this world-wide sincerity of women so I say let her motto be ours, everywhere at all times let us work and live in the spirit of it. "Womanliness first and afterwards what you will," for gentleness is our best strength and love our most forceful weapon and pity our most prized possession and our creed the command of Christ to love our brethren everywhere. Organization is well; education absolutely necessary; each department most important; but unless the Spirit is in the wheels the great organization is but a human machine and the results are not eternal.

Cures Eczema, Itching Humors, Pimples and Carbuncles.—Costs Nothing to Try.
Dr. H. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) is now recommended as a certain and sure cure for eczema, itching skin, humors, sores, scales, watery blis-ters, pimples, itching humors or joints, boils, carbuncles, itching pain in the head, itching sores, ulcers, etc. Botanic Blood Balm taken internally cures the worst and most despaired cases by enriching, purifying and vitalizing the blood, thereby giving a healthy blood supply to the skin. Botanic Blood Balm is the only cure to stay cured, for these awful, annoying skin troubles. Heals every sore and gives the rich color of health to the skin. Pulls up the broken down body and makes the blood red and morose. Especially advised for chronic, old cases that doctors, patent medicines and hot springs fail to cure. Druggists, $1. To prove it, B. B. cures, sample sent free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medical advice sent immediately. For sale by The R. B. Loryea Drug Store.
