Intense Excitement in Mining Region.

A pitched battle between the military and union miners was fought at Dunnville, the new mining camp, 13 miles out of Victor, Colorado, shortly after 3 o'clock p. m. Wednesday. John Carley, a union miner, was killed and five others. The troops returned to Victor at 8 o'clock Wednesday right bringing with them 14 captives.

Before the special train left Victor bearing the force under Gen. Bell it was reported that the miners in the hills about Dunnville numbered about 250 men, and that it was their intention to march into Victor Wednesday night in a body and attempt to liberate by force the inmates of the temporary "bull pen" in Victor. That the force actually consisted of but 21 men is the statement of one of the 14 who were captured by the militia. The train proceeded in the afternoon to the immediate vicinity of Dunnville without unusual incident. When about a quarter of a mile distant from the Dunnville temporary station the officers could see the camp of the miners. It included one cabin and six or seven tents. The officers left the train at the command of Gen. Bell and prepared to advance upon the camp of the unionis's in regular skirmish order. As they emerged from the cut in which the train had come to a stop they were greeted with a volley of shots which came from points of vantage surrounding the hills.

The deputies returned the fire and promiscuous shooting was indulged in for a period of ten minutes. From the character of the shooting from the hills Gen. Bell immediately recognized the fact that the strength of the miners had been greatly overestimated and that he had sufficient force under his command to make an immediate roundup and capture the entire opposing force.

The captured miners include John James, charged with shooting John Davis in the riot at Victor. Among the dead was John Carley, a union miner of Cripple Creek. Great excitement prevailed in this city upon the receipt of the news of the battle. The deputies secured the arms and ammunition of parts of the miners. As the special train bearing the deputies drew up at Dunnville the union miners, entrenched in the neighborhood, opened fire. Gen. Bell got his men out and stormed the entrench-
