Just a Word About the Undertaking Business.

We desire to impress it upon the minds of the people of Clarendon County that we carry a full line of Undertaking Goods and Coffins from the lowest price to a nice $75 Casket. We have received a new and will have here in a few days a brand new first class hearse. In purchasing this hearse we feel that we are furnishing something that has been long wanted in this community.

Our hearse will be sent to any point of the county whenever needed and our general director will go along with the hearse if needed.

We wish also to impress it upon the people of Clarendon County that we carry a full line of Furniture of every class, and what is better, we are in a position to sell our line of Furniture cheaper than the ordinary furniture dealer, for our salesrooms are upstairs out of the way and the same men that work in the dry goods department of the Furniture store, hence there is but little expense in selling, so you see clearly that we can and will and are selling Furniture cheaper than regular furniture dealers.

See our splendid prices on all classes of Furniture.

A Beautiful Marriage.

At the Methodist church last Thursday evening, in the presence of a large assembly, was witnessed a most elaborate and beautiful nuptial ceremony. Before the announced hour the church began filling up with friends, and the handsome young ushers, Messrs. Hermon Huggins, Homer Walker and Pressley Barron were kept busy seating the large crowd, and by the time the bridal party reached the church the edifice was filled to its full capacity, many having to stand in the side aisles.

The contracting parties to this union were Miss Elizabeth Rebecca Galluchat, daughter of M. C. Galluchat, Esq. of Manning, and Mr. Alfred F. Pauling, a young business man of St. Matthews. The officiating clergyman was Dr. C. S. Vedder, pastor of the Huguenot church at Chant. Mr. J. L. a quarter of a century ago performed a like service for the bride's parents.

To adequately describe this ceremony, one would need to possess of the word painting powers of Abbot the historian, whose word pictures of marriage celebrations of ancient royalty, with their magnificent costumes, and gorgeous decorations, pomp and grandeur, fill the mind with amazing splendor. This occasion was perfectly managed, and each person in the pleasing tableaux was with clock like precision.

The church was beautifully and tastefully decorated, the pulpit rostrum was banked with choice pot plants of ferns and flowers, the chancel walls covered with white, and garlanded with climbing ivy, the chancel floor and aisles were carpeted in white, the whole having a white and green effect so artistically arranged as to make the church edifice a bowery of flowers, and hid behind the bank of flowers the orchestra, composed of Mrs. G. H. Huggins, organist, Prof. W. S. Shoemaker, violin and John S. Cutting, cornet.

At a signal from one of the ushers the orchestra pealed forth Lohengrin's bridal chorus, the groom entered from the rear door and took his position before the altar to await the coming of his bride. The officiating minister then entered the chancel, gowned in the vestments of his divine office, from the front entrance came six choristers; Misses Ida Bradham, Lucy Johnson, Mary Wells, Blanche Strang, Kate Ingram and Gussie Appel, crowned in Nile green chanting the chorus as they marched down the aisle, the ladies gowned in white, with long trains, and carried bouquets of pink carnations, the gentlemen in Prince Albert suits with pink carnation boutonnieres, these were: Miss Julia Sproull, Miss Mary Allison, Mr. J. L. Griffith of St. Matthews; Miss Anna Herriot of Charleston, with Mr. Frank Weinges of St. Matthews; Miss Susan Richardson of Fulton, with Dr. J. H. Hawkins of Manning; Miss Nettie Weinberg of Manning, with Mr. L. B. Reed of St. Georges, with Dr. Chas. B. J. P. Sloan, Secretary of the State, J. P. Gantt, Attorney General, U. X. C., in the presence of a few special were Mr. Robert Hartman Gamble, of Turberville, and Miss Mary Allison Baudin, formerly of Sumter. Rev. J. M. Rose officiated.
