Policy has had a trial to show whether or not it is beneficial. We therefore think it a useless task to attempt to abolish the immigration department of the State so soon after its establishment. It is a waste of time and to make it an issue in our primary only gives crafty politicians a hobby to throw sand in the eyes of the people, and take their minds away from matters they have tried, and wish maintained.

In all candor we say to our readers, regardless what candidates for office might say to the contrary, the issue is "Liquor Control," and it is up to the voters to decide whether or not they want the present dispensary system to stand. Biennial sessions was fixed by the last legislature, and it has no place in our primary, and candidates harping on that question know full well the people will vote upon this question in the general election, and not the primary; it is therefore no use to obscure the mind from the vital issue.

If the people favor prohibition they should have candidates bold enough to stand flatfooted on the principle, and be outspoken against the dispensary like the fearless Senator Brice, and those who favor the dispensary should not vote for any man who is trying to get into the legislature in his sock feet; they should not be satisfied with any assertion that "the liquor question is settled." Because it is not settled, as every observer must see, when candidates like Senator Brice openly and boldly boast, the object is "not to help the dispensary, but to kill it." After such a declaration from such a source, to say the liquor question is settled, is a reflection on our intelligence.

Pool who? Surely not the voters who know, if prohibition is a religious principle no candidate who advocated prohibition can be true to his religion who is willing to desert his cause to gratify a political ambition. If a candidate deserts a religious principle to get votes, what can the voters expect should he be successful.

It is our business as a publicist to present our thoughts to the people, and it is their business to either accept or reject them. No man should claim the suffrages of an honest people, whose religious principles are made of india rubber, and any man who, after becoming a candidate, places a higher fealty on votes, than he does to a religious principle, either does not appreciate the value of a religious principle, or his professions of religious principle, are empty vapors.

Bamberg county has sent to market the first bale of cotton for the season. It was shipped to Charleston, and sold for 15 cents per pound. Now if Charleston would have the rest of South Carolina's crop, all that is necessary is to make her market the equal of other cities. It is not right for our natural cotton market to allow Wilmington and Norfolk to pay more for cotton.

If the business men of that city will be as active in building up a market for the State's principal product, as they are in looking after the navy yard, Charleston, would soon be the people's market.

Editor The Manning Times:
The following questions might be asked of candidates for the Legislature. It is a catechism that will force them to show their hand and put the people in a position to vote with their eyes open. These questions will aid voters in reaching a conclusion, that is, if they want to vote like free white men should:

1. Do you favor, or are you opposed to the present dispensary system?
2. If elected, will you make an honest effort to abolish the dispensary? Will you make an honest effort to sustain the dispensary?
3. Are you a Prohibitionist from religious conviction or principle?
4. Is a ballot of the people on a question, higher than a religious principle?
5. Did you or did you not scratch the name of B. R. Tillman last time he was a candidate for the United States Senate?
6. Did you attend the immigration convention called by Senator C. M. Davis, and did you at that time express any opposition to the immigration movement?
7. Did you ever declare yourself a Prohibitionist from religious conviction after the people voted for the dispensary several times?
8. Do you think the people should vote for any man who has proclaimed himself a Prohibitionist from religious principle, afterwards becoming a candidate for office, and then tells the people the liquor question is settled and he accepts the verdict?
9. Is it not a fact that in several counties the liquor issue is paramount?
10. Why is it if the liquor question is settled, that the religious papers, leading Prohibitionists, the News and Courier and many of the county papers are advocating the election of Prohibitionists to the Legislature, and many of them openly advocating the dispensary law from the statute books?
11. Did you publicly declare before you became a candidate that you accepted the dispensary as a settled question?
