Carlyle's Courteous Side. In the "Retrospects" of Professor William Knight of the University of St. Andrews are some interesting anecdotes. Among these is a bit from a letter by Dr. Maclagan, who attended Thomas Carlyle during Carlyle's last years: "My personal experience of Carlyle was this: He was the most courteous man I ever met. Never once did that old man fail to rise up to receive me nor allow me to leave his room without walking to the door with me while he had strength to do so. After death all the ruggedness and the wrinkles disappeared from his face. But for the beard it was like that of a woman, so delicate and beautifully molded it was."

Our great-grandfather, Colonel Joseph Williams, the revolutionary hero, established this business, right on this spot, in 1768—more than 100 years before dealers advertising themselves as "old houses" dreamed of going into the whiskey business. Ours is the original mail order whiskey business, after which many small dealers pattern in an attempt to duplicate our success. They cannot compete with us in quality because they are not distillers, and in attempting to meet our prices they put on the market terribly injurious and dangerous concections— many which contain the deadly wood alcohol.
