The Manning Grocery Co.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.) (Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

A Woman's Criticism.

"Women generally go against their own best interests, don't they?" a blond girl asked reflectively. Her companion at one of those cozy little tables in a downtown shop that give one a chance to rest a few minutes after the matinee and talk over the play over a cup of chocolate only smiled, and the blond continued: "Do you see that little one set comely at the table across the room? Madam over there came in with her husband and a cross frame of mind awhile ago. Perhaps it was a new hat she couldn't have, but anyway she wouldn't talk to him at all, and he made innumerable efforts to be pleasant. I was thinking what a goose she was when another man came in, the one she is smiling at now. Both bowed to him, and madam's husband invited him to their table, and madam, for the sake of appearances, of course—she couldn't afford to be disagreeable before him—began to chat brightly. Chances are she doesn't really care a straw about this newcomer, but she is nice to him. If she had as much wisdom as I," continued the blond, "she would have been as sweet to her husband—much more worth while."—Minneapolis Tribune.

THE PRICE OF A LIFE.

How It Was Fixed Under the Old Anglo-Saxon Law. According to Anglo-Saxon laws, every man's life, including that of the king, was valued at a fixed price, and any one who took it could commute the offense by a money payment upon a fixed scale. The life of a peasant was reckoned to be worth 200 shillings, that of a man of noble birth 1,200 shillings, and the killing of a king involved the regeinde in a payment of 7,200 shillings.

It has been pointed out that the heir to the throne could thus get rid of the existing occupant by murdering him and thereafter handing over the fine, according to the scale, to the exchequer, when his offense would be purged and his money would come back to himself, for in those days the sovereign received all fines, as personal perquisites. There is very little doubt that these rough means were practically applied in the case of some rulers of England in the pre-conquest period.—London Telegraph.

Parions Fighting!

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffman, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases, by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recommend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold under guarantee to do the same for you, by The R. B. Loryea Drug Store, 50c a bottle. Try them today.

Honors Easy.

People who were present smiled at the little passage of arms which took place between two young ladies at a luncheon recently. One of them, a bride, shaking hands in her characteristically cordial way, said to the other: "I'm so glad to meet you! You have afforded me so very much amusement just lately."

"Amusement" said the other. "Oh, yes," went on the bride. "I've been through my husband's desk and have read all his old love letters. I found several very affectionate letters from you, and I enjoyed reading them really ever so much."

"I'm so glad you enjoyed them," replied the other. "But do come and see me very soon. Here is my card. I have the answers to all those letters, and you might like to read them as well. Mr. X's letters are so much more affectionate than those I wrote to him. I know you'll enjoy reading them ever so much more than you did mine."

On the special occasion of my recent attendance as Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Nashville, I was taken with a severe dysentery, accompanied by great pain. Two doses of Dr. King's Dysentery and Diarrhoea Cordial gave me permanent relief and enabled me to be in regular attendance and participate in the leading movements of that body.

In the early summer of last year an emergency arose which Mr. H. M. Moore, of Marion, S. C., was equal. He writes: "Dr. King's Diarrhoea and Dysentery Cordial is the best medicine for bowel trouble I ever saw. I saved the lives of three children in my neighborhood in the last few days, after the doctor had given them up to die. It's the best and surest on earth. 25c, the price. Sold by Dr. W. E. Brown & Co."

Fig Sunday.

Palm Sunday is known in England as Fig Sunday because in many districts figs are freely eaten on that day. The custom is common in the villages of Bedford, Bucks, Hertford and Northampton and is found in some parts of north Wales. As Palm Sunday approaches the shop windows of Dunstable are filled with figs in readiness for the crowds who go to the top of Dunstable downs to regale themselves on that day. At Kempton, in Hertfordshire, to "keep wares" is to feast on figs or fig puddings with your friends on Palm Sunday. Fig Sunday is probably connected with the story of the barren fig tree, which forms part of one of the lessons for the day.—London Mail.
