He was reviled He reviled not again; So by the aid of that momentarily when He suffered He threatened not, borrowed greatness I made a friend inbut committed Himself to Him that stead of an enemy-two friends, I may judgeth righteousiy (I Pet. ii, 21, 23). He was not allowed the semblance of a fair trial. A prison and the law would today protect even a criminal from such treatment as He received, but He was no criminal, even as Pilate repeatedly testified, "I find no fault in Him;" his wife said, "That just man," and even Judas Iscariot said, "I have betrayed innocent blood." Verse 9 would almost seem impossible of literal fulfillment, but how literal the fulfillment was-a place for His body prepared with the malefactors! But it found a resting place in the tomb of a rich man, where Joseph and Nicodemus placed it, the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea. For how else could one who died prolong his days and see his sced? The great truth of resurrection is seen in the cherubim of Eden, in Isaac given back to his father, in many Petersburg." an Old Testament type as well as in the plain statement of Ps. xvi, 10. Compare Acts ii, 31. In verse 12 there is certainly an intimation of His sharing His glory with the overcomers, as He afterward said more plainly in John xvii, 22, 24, and in the promises to the overcomers in Rev. ii and iii. So we have in this wonderful portion His humiliation, His sufferings, His death and burial and resurrection, His coming again and His reign over the kings and kingdoms of this world, and as truly as the sufferings have been literally fulfilled, so sharply shall the glory be.
