A Dead Beast of Vast Magnitude.
Olaus Magnus, bishop of Upsala, tells how a certain noble Englishman saw on Aug. 27, 1332, "a dead beast of vast magnitude" which had been cast up on the shore at Teignmouth. It was ninety feet long and twenty-five feet in thickness, and evidently a whale from the mention of its blowholes, and the fact that instead of teeth "there grew to his palate above 1,000 plates of horn, hairy on one side." The noble Englishman noted that it had "three bellies like vast caves and thirty throats, whereof five were very great." On Aug. 28, 1736, an Englishman with business instincts saw two fights of birds collide with such force near Preston that 180 of them fell to earth. He picked them up and sold them in Preston market forthwith.

But Few Are Free.
But few people are entirely free from indigestion at this time of the year. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not only the best remedy to use because it digests what you eat but because it also enables the digestive apparatus to assimilate and transform all foods into tissue-building blood. Kodol relieves sour stomach, heart burn, belching, and all forms of indigestion. Sold by The R. B. Loryea Drug Store.

Sincere Admiration.
"Why do you insist on keeping apart?"
"Because," answered the lonely man, "I like to hear it talk. The parrot is the only creature gifted with the power of speech that is content to repeat just what it hears without trying to make a good story of it."—Washington Star.

An Ideal Woman.
"She manages her husband without letting him see she does it."
"Oh, more than that. She doesn't even try to let other people see she does it."—Brooklyn Life.

Femininity.
De Style—Was she surprised when you told her there was a price upon her head? Detective—Yes; she asked me if it was on straight.—SmartSet.

Nature Needs But Little.
Nature needs only a little Early Riser now and then to keep the bowels clean, the liver active and the system free from bile, headaches, constipation, etc. The famous little pills, "Early Risers," are pleasant in effect and perfect in action. They never gripe or sicken, but tone and strengthen the liver and kidneys. Sold by The R. B. Loryea Drug Store.

The Cool Man.
The superiority of those men who keep their tempers in public bodies is so apparent that coolness should be one of the first virtues to be cultivated there. The discreet member will regard public life of this kind as a school for such a purpose. There are trials for nervous or impulsive men often in these positions, but a part of their tactics must be to resist them if they are to have hope of success. Nothing can be clearer than that it is for their interest to do so. The debater who keeps cool is sure to have his opponent at a disadvantage. The cool man is usually a master of sarcasm, which is an effective weapon in annoying an adversary, but a dangerous one also, because there is always the temptation to carry it too far. The men who have the widest influence are the good natured men, whose words leave no sting behind them.

A Fish Restaurant.
A "fish restaurant" is not one at which fish is served exclusively or even chiefly, but a restaurant at which a specialty is made of the service of fish and at which usually some special fish dish is offered to patrons each day. In London and Paris such restaurants make as their chief specialty sole, as popular in England as in France. The Paris restaurants, in addition, make a feature of crayfish, cod and mussels and the London restaurants of white-bait and shrimp. The variety of fish procurable in these two cities is almost without limitation, but a different fish each day requires, in fact, only seven varieties, in the preparation of which there are many specialties.

A Dash of Bulls.
There are several interesting bulls in the following serious paragraph from the Western News of Galway, Ireland: "To rob a man of his purse and then maltreat him for not having it would pass muster among pitiless brutal crims, but to kill and slay a man to the point of death and then murder him for not dying quick enough is one point better in the catalogue of human infamy. It is enough to make Irishmen set their teeth and talk silently in groups."

The Effect Inevitable.
"Borrowing money," remarked the man who comments on things, "is not a good plan."
"Quite true," said Senator Badger. "I've always noticed that the man who lends money will sooner or later become sensitive to the touch."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

CASTORIA.
