The preliminary hearing in the case of E. L. Lee charged with abduction was held yesterday by Magistrate A. J. Richbourg of Summerton. The case was remanded to the Summerton Magistrate upon the affidavit of the defendant asking for a change of venue. Lee was represented by J. M. Woods, Esq., who took the position that the charge of abduction should not hold, because the defendant had not gotter away with the girl. The Magistrate, however, found enough in what evidence was disclosed to bind the defendant over to the court of General Sessions in the

The employees in the store of Mr. J. H. Rigby were given a manifestation of their employer's appreciation of their faithful service. On Saturday night he made each of them a present of a $5 Stetson hat with his good wishes that they spend a merry Christmas. Mr. Rigby, in thus recognizing the service of his clerks has set a good example. It has a tendency to make the relationship between the employer and employee closer. It is a good investment to have consideration for those who are a part of the machinery of a business. How often is it that employers care no more for those in their employ than they do for a brute; all they want is the work they can squeeze out of them. It is because of this that so few employees study the interests of their employers and because the employer cares nothing for them, they become indifferent also and only work for the money there is in the job. Mr. Rigby in thus presenting his employees with a testimonial of his regard deserves to be commended for his kindness.

Under instructions from Harvie Jordan, President Southern Cotton Association, a convention is called to assemble in Manning, Saturday 30th day of December, for the purpose of electing delegates to the New Orleans Convention, I hereby request all collectors who have books, to please bring them in on or before the 30th, together with the monies collected by them. E. D. HODGE. President.

It is rumored here that G. is expecting a job over in Columbia, and I hope he will get it and hold it down statisfactorily. #### Summerton Budget.

Editor The Manning Times

Forty years ago, the section of country surrounding the town of Summerton, like other portions of the Southern part of this Republic, was desolate and stricken with poverty and the want of hope, which followed as a necessary aftermath to a great civil war. At that time, necessary clothing apparel was hardly to had: farms and sided over by the Presiding Elder, and homes had fallen in ruin and good gov- at the last Quarterly Conference elects vernment was a myth; the cattle on a a steward to represent it in the District thousand hills lived in the memory of Conference. This District Conference mule had either been taken or eaten, and labor was in a state of anarchy: whoever stole the purse of the business man of that day, stole trash; even the meeting of the Quarterly Conference of swine, the ever essential of the laboring man, had fallen under the wave of war and the friendly dog had bleached in favor of a readjustment of the salary his bones upon the plains; men and question. women were little given in marriage in those dark days, few babies were brought into the world, and the practical burden of making a livelihood of people.

The future of Summerton is assured. and we await the coming New Year with faith and the determination to accomplish better than before. Our streets have been dotted with new lamps here and there and the night visitor to our town will behold a well lighted city, amid the oaks and the pines and the cedar. At the instigation of your correspondent, an effort will be made to have the Postmaster General place a posta agent on the Northwestern Railway between Wilson Mill and Camden; the placing of a mail agent on this road will prove a great benefit to the patrons of said route: under the present arrangement, if for instance a citizen of Summerton directs a letter to St Paul, a distance of three miles, said letter must take a trip around by way of Sumter or Charleston, and possibly require twenty-four hours to make said trip, before reaching its destination; the difficulty in securing such a convenience is the inability of the ordinary member of Congress to accomolish anything of value to the people: for instance, Mr. Editor, we need in our own Congressional District a good representative, who understands the needs of the people and who will make a strenuous effort to supply these needs; since the district of which Clarendon is a part includes both city and country folk, we should have a representative in Congress, who can do something more than talk about the Charleston harbor: our friends in the city of Charleston make much ado about the Federal Government having made an appropriation of near a milion dollars in behalf of the naval repair shop at that point, as though the Federal Government makes a habit of not paying for what it has already enacted should be done; everybody knows that the Federal naval repair shop was established at Charleston at the instigation of the Senior Senator of South Carolina and the making of the necessary money appropriation for the completion of same followed as a matter of course and no one individual could claim the honor of having securing such an appropriation; furthermore, each member of the Federal House of Representatives from this State is a grafter and nothing more nor less and has proved himself thus by his own vote; for instance, in the month of November in the year 1904 an extra session of the Congress convened and one month later this same extra session adjourned and gave place to the regular

The Salary of the Presiding Elders.

The Yorkville correspondent of the News and Courier tells of an interesting development at the Mcthodist Quarterly The facts of the case escaped the rethe time, but the matter at issue seems to be of sufficient interest to warrant the publication of a condensed reproduction of the story as sent to the News and Couier by its correspondent.

It appears that a controversy has de veloped out of a difference of opinion as to the salary that should be paid to the Presiding Elder of the Rock Hill district, that official, in the opinion of many members of the Church, now receiving rather more than his share of pay as compared with the pay of the average minister of equal ability,

Some years ago, according to the statement as related to the correspondent by a churchman who is ia close accord with the facts, the district stewards, after a conference, decided that the Presiding Elder of this district should have a salary equal to about $1,200 and necessary expenses, and to raise this sum levied an assessment on the churches on a basis of $14.50 for each $100 paid their respective pastors.

As time went on and the churches grew in numbers and strength the salary of the Presiding Elder increased to about $2,000 and expenses, and quite a respectable proportion of the membership is beginning to arrive at a conviction that this is at least quite liberal. Each church holds its Quarterly Conference, composed of the stewards, preman as a mere poem; the horse and the is charged with the supervision of district affairs generally, including the fixing of the pay of the Presiding Elder, and it is understood that at the last the Yorkville church there was a pur-pose to elect a district steward who was
