We understand that the county executive committee will not be called together before the latter part of this month, and when it does meet and fixes the assessments and rag-chewing itinaries, we look for the candidates for the various offices to come out in full force.

In our account of the exercises of the Moses Levi Memorial Institute last week, we got somewhat mixed. Instead of Miss Mabel Trescott being second honor graduate, we should have stated it was Miss Lillian Tisdale. The honor graduates were Misses Ruth Touchberry, Lillian Tisdale and Mabel Trescott.

The trustees of the Moses Levi Memorial Institute have elected the following teachers: Prof. J. C. Daniel, principal; Misses Lida Scarborough, Jessie McLean, Pat Wilson, Katie Plowden, Fannie Davis, Nannie Hodges, Annie Cunningham, Octavia Dove, Nina Riser. This gives a teacher for every grade, and an improvement in the service is expected.

Ball News.

Baseball is all the go now, and it so monopolizes public attention that work is forgotten. The old, the young, male and female, the fat and the lean get sporty, and will give but very little thought to anything else. If you are not a "fan" you are rare.

A series of games was played here Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week between the United States Marines and Manning, resulting in a victory for Manning of the best two out of three games. Thursday Manning shut out the Marines, Score, 16 to 0, and in this game Girard, the Maine arm fractured which disabled him.

Friday, Manning lost by a score of 6 to 7, and Saturday Manning again won by a score of 16 to 10.

Thursday's game showed fine work on the part of Manning. It was nearly errorless, only one error being made and it was caused by the sun in the eyes of the player.

Friday Manning gave the Marines John Odiorne to take the place of Girard, their disabled man, and Odiorne's playing won the game for the soldier boys. Friday, notwithstanding John Odiorne played again with the boys in blue, Manning mopped the earth with them. The following is the line up:

U. S. MARINES. Singleton, 3b.; Woody, p.; Girard, ss.; DuBois, c.; Erdman, 1b.; Odiorne, J. D.; Smith, cf.; Miller, 1b.; Smith, p., sub.

MANNING. Furman, c.; Ervin, 3b. and p.; Odiorne, G. p.; Brouthers, ss.; Truluck, c.; Flord, 1b. and p.; Roulmillat, 1b.; Barfield, cf.; Bultman, 2b. and p.; Miller, 1b.

The Marines were a jolly lot, and their conduct was so gentlemanly that they won the hearts of our people. "Old Red," who "boosted" the boys, has indeed a grand big heart, and his headed jolliter. He made fun for the crowd, and all of his witticisms were mirth provoking and clean. The visitors will always receive a warm welcome in Manning. They play good ball, but this was one time they lacked a hard proposition. It was no fault of the boys, nor their manager that "Spot" couldn't hit a balloon.

CAMDEN VS. MANNING. The State League games opened here Monday, and a fairly good attendance greeted the players. From the arrival of the train which brought the visitors, the "fans" were looking for their favorites. The Camdenites brought with them some lusty rooters, and they surely did root after the seventh inning. Julian Weinberg was one of these, and when he saw that Camden had a tough proposition it had a money effect upon him when he woke up at the end of the seventh and realized what luck befell Camden, the sleep left his eyes, and put his lungs to pumping warm air.

The ball was sent over the plate promptly at 5 o'clock and with the precision of clockwork each team shut the other out. The score board indicated "goose eggs" until Geo. Odiorne hit a two bagger, in the sixth inning, and with the speed of a deer, Billy Furman crossed the home plate, making first blood for the locals.

The seventh was Manning's Jonah, a couple of errors gave the visitors two runs, which had a dampening effect to the extent that Camden scored five runs in that inning, but Manning got a money effect upon it when he woke up in the eighth and were themselves shut out in the eighth and ninth, while Camden scored one run in the ninth, closing with a score of 6 to 1 in favor of Camden.

There is no doubt about Monday's game, with the exception of the seventh inning, being a most excellent game of ball, and as good as any games played by the National League. Roulmillat made a magnificent one-handed difficult catch in center field, which made the rooters paw the earth and the grand stand go into ecstasies. One girl remarked: "I could love Romey, if he is black."

Mr. S. W. Barron umpired, and in his anxiety to treat the visitors square, on every person who is fond of "the game" here. Here is a practical demonstration of "the cup that cheers," often it is "the cup that poisons the soul and huris it into damnation." Charles F. Jenkinson, a giant in physical strength, is a mere wisp of straw, "drink monster's hands." Cup that crushes manhood, bows down in sorrow loved ones, breaks the hearts of widowed mothers, and blights the future of family, and causes friends to blush with shame. There is, however, a chance for redemption, it will take manhood to do it, and we sincerely hope Charles F. Jenkinson will be equal to the occasion.

The Solicitor took out general orders in which the clerk of court was ordered to issue warrants of arrest for the parties presented by the grand jury on the charge of adultery, and a rule for Magistrate Keels to show cause why he should not be indicted for malfeasance in office.

Continuation of Court. The case of Wade Butler, charged with the killing of William Bruson on Santee, was on trial when we went to press, and to the surprise of many, the jury returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter, with a recommendation to mercy. The sentence was four years on the chain-gang or like period in the penitentiary. Before the trial it was regarded by those who knew the bad reputation of the deceased that the defendant would be acquitted. Woods & O'Bryan represented the defendant.

The case against Charles F. Jenkinson was for the second time put on trial. Two extra venires had to be drawn before a complete jury panel was obtained. The defense relied upon the temporary insanity plea and the State endeavored to refute the plea, of the defense, and strongly claimed the defendant at the time of the killing was drunk, crazy drunk, a condition voluntarily brought on himself by his own free will. Solicitor Wilson was assisted by J. J. Canney, Esq. The defense was represented by Captain W. C. Davis, J. M. Woods, and S. O. O'Bryan. The case was fought hard and strong by both sides, neither side failing to make every point possible. The judge's charge was clear, and the whole case hinged on the character of the defendant acted under the influence of delirium tremens when he fired the fatal shot, or was he crazed with liquor, and under the law responsible for his deed. The argument of the defense was to show the defendant's irresponsibility, taking the position that from constant drinking his mind was impaired and at the time he fired the shot which killed Robinson, he was a lunatic.

The State showed that Jenkinson was sane the day before, left Mayesville sane, reached Pinewood sane, transacted business there, drank liquor on the train, and at Pinewood, hired a turnout, drank more liquor on the road, and at the home of his brother, in the evening, when he reached Manning, he did not show signs of insanity, and the rest of the day his mind was apparently clear.

The speeches were strong and eloquent. The jury took the case and after remaining out about 19 hours returned a verdict of not guilty.

Our information is that the deadlock was caused by four of the jury favoring conviction of manslaughter, these four, however, yielded after an all night's sweat of it. One of the jurors told us that there was a doubt on his mind as to whether Jenkinson fired the shot which killed Robinson, as only one witness testified that he fired the shot, and she was the wife of the deceased. The verdict was the subject of much adverse comment on the streets, but so far as we are concerned, we are glad the case is over. It was expensive as well as distressing. The defendant has a large family connection which has the respect and sympathy of the whole community, and it is to be hoped that after having passed through the fiery furnace, from the result of drink, Charles F. Jenkinson will realize his weakness and from henceforth shun the monster, and so live in the future that he can redeem himself in the public estimation.

The fearful ordeal that Jenkinson has just emerged from is a lesson which should make its impression upon every person who is fond of "the game" here. Here is a practical demonstration of "the cup that cheers," often it is "the cup that poisons the soul and huris it into damnation." Charles F. Jenkinson, a giant in physical strength, is a mere wisp of straw, "drink monster's hands." Cup that crushes manhood, bows down in sorrow loved ones, breaks the hearts of widowed mothers, and blights the future of family, and causes friends to blush with shame. There is, however, a chance for redemption, it will take manhood to do it, and we sincerely hope Charles F. Jenkinson will be equal to the occasion.
