

THE MILK IN THE COCOANUT

What is safer than a National Bank Note? Nothing. Why is a National Bank Note accepted without question in any part of the country in which it may circulate? Simply because it is secured by a deposit with the Government.

As Safe as a National Bank Note.

A policy in the Greensboro Life Insurance Company is as safe a National Bank Note because it is secured by a deposit of its entire reserve with the Insurance Department of North Carolina. Every policy issued by the Greensboro Life carries this certificate above the signature and seal of the Insurance Commissioner:

"This Policy is registered and secured by pledge of bonds, stocks or securities deposited with this department as provided by law."

A National Bank Note is secured by a deposit of Government Bonds. A policy in the Greensboro Life is secured by a deposit of the entire Legal Reserve, the Legal Reserve being the funds provided for the maturing of all policies.

The Difference to Policy-Holders.

The difference to policy holders in a Life Insurance Company depositing the Legal Reserve and one that does not deposit the Legal Reserve is practically the difference between a man holding a National Bank Note and a man who is merely a depositor in a National Bank. So long as the bank is solvent, the deposit is good; but whether the bank is solvent or not, the National Bank Note is good because of the bank's deposit with the Government. The note of a National Bank continues to circulate as currency and is redeemable by the Government, even after the bank may have failed.

The Law of North Carolina.

The Greensboro Life operates under the Registration Law of North Carolina. This law prescribes the kind of investments Life Insurance Companies may make and stipulates the companies availing themselves of the advantage of this law shall deposit with the Insurance Commissioner the net value of all policies in force.

Under such a law, governing the investment of funds and their custody, solvency is absolutely guaranteed. The funds of the Company cannot be squandered in extravagant management or invested in doubtful securities.

Always The Leader.

Since beginning business the Greensboro Life has ever been the acknowledged leader of all of the Life Insurance Companies operating in its territory. The Greensboro Life not only leads in volume of business, but also in liberality and attractiveness of policy contracts. During its first four weeks in business (24 working days) the Greensboro Life wrote over $500,000.00 of business. At the end of its first 12 months the business in force amounted to $4,577,258.00. When two and one-half years old the business in force had reached $8,400,000.00, while the assets had grown from $125,000.00 to $324,679.76. These are the figures that show the Greensboro Life's leadership. The terms of its policies demonstrate the Greensboro Life's superiority over all competitors.

A Wonderful Dog.

I ran a news stand at Port Jervis, N. Y. I owned a common shepherd dog which was a very intelligent animal and was of great assistance to me in the newspaper business, running across the street with papers in his mouth to customers. He attracted much attention, and he got me many new customers, for everybody liked him, he was such a business dog. I was sick one day and not able to sell my papers. My dog came in my room where I lay in bed. He fumbled around in my pants pockets and took the keys to my news stand and ran out of the house, and the first thing I knew he had the newspaper stand opened up and doing business. He was very clever in making change, changing five and ten dollar bills without a single mistake, working the cash register with his paws, and everything ran smoothly until a man came up and passed him a lead quarter. My dog got mad and lost his temper entirely, and I was forced to interfere. With much trouble I managed to pull them apart. If this dog had not had such a quick temper I would have started him in business for himself. This dog is still living.—Boston Post.

The Overruling of a Judge.

A judge once awoke in the night to find his room in the possession of two armed burglars. Covered by the pistol of one of the marauders, the judge watched the proceedings with his usual judicial calm. One of the deprecators found a watch. "Don't take that," the judge said; "it has little value and is a keepsake." "The motion is overruled," replied the burglar. "I appeal," rejoined the judge. The two burglars consulted, and the spokesman then replied: "The appeal is allowed. The case coming on before a full tribunal of the supreme court, that body is of the unanimous opinion that the decree of the lower court should be sustained, and it is accordingly so ordered." Pocketing the watch, court adjourned.

Logic and Metaphysics.

Joaquin Miller was once conversing with a learned professor who was visiting California. To the poet's query, "What do you do?" the professor answered that he held the chair of metaphysics and logic at a New England university. Whereupon the venerable Miller, with an encouraging smile, reassuringly patted the professor on the shoulder. "Logic and metaphysics, eh? Well, I suppose we must have people to look after those things, even if they don't exist."

PANBESA'S LETTER.

An Account of an Egyptian City Thirty Centuries Ago.
Probably the oldest letter in the world is the letter of Panbesa, written fifteen centuries before Christ to his friend, Amenemhat, a scribe. The manuscript is of perishable papyrus, and it is amazing that it should have survived for more than thirty centuries and still be legible. It is preserved in the collection of the British Museum. It has been several times translated. It presents an interesting picture of life in Egypt in the time of Rameses II. It is more in the nature of a literary production, a poem composed in celebration of the visit of Pharaoh to the city of Panbesa, than an ordinary letter of today. Panbesa "greeted his lord, the scribe Amenemhat, to whom he bore life, health and strength," and then goes on to describe the vacant fields, the thrashing of the vineyards, the groves of olive, the orchards of figs, the great daily markets, with their fish and waterfowl and swarms of purchasers. The citizens had their "sweet wine of Kheini, pomegranate wine and wine from the vineyards," and to these they added "beer of Kati." There was music in plenty furnished by the singers of the school of Memphis. On the whole, Panbesa seems to have been a pleasant place to live in. "The lesser folk are there equal with the great folk and Panbesa writes that its maidens were "in holiday attire every day," with locks "redolent of perfumed oil."

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more the twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs. in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and I was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than I have for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904. Sold by W. E. Brown & Co.

ENTERTAINING THE DUKE.

Rudely Interrupted While He Was Chatting With Royalty.
The daily papers do their best, but not even their ubiquitous representatives garner all the store of good things which attend a royal visit to Ireland, says the London Sketch. No paper at the time printed the cream of the stories which grew out of a visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Emerald Isle. "Welcome to Ireland!" said a man as he saw the duke on the steps of a hotel in the little western town in which he was staying. "Welcome to Ireland, your royal highness. I hope I see your royal highness well." "Quite well, thank you," answered the duke. "And your noble mother, the queen, I hope her old ladyship is enjoying the best of health?" "Yes, thank you. The queen is very well indeed," said the duke, vastly amused with the easy familiarity of the peasant. "It's glad I am to hear it. And tell me, your royal highness, the other vent on, 'how are all your noble brothers and sisters?' Before the duke could answer an aid-de-camp appeared, with, "Here, get along there." The peasant looked up with infinite scorn. "Arrah! What are ye interruptin' for?" he exclaimed. "Can't you see that me and his royal highness is holdin' a conversation?"

Too Much to Expect.

Camp Meeting John Allen, the grandfather of Mme. Nordica, was for many years a picturesque figure among the Methodist ministers in the state of Maine. He was a good deal of a wag, and his utterances were much appreciated by both saint and sinner. At one time, having gone to Lewiston to attend a quarterly meeting, he was approached in the street by several young men who were evidently out for a good time. "Camp Meeting John," said the spokesman, "who was the devil's grandmother?" "The devil's grandmother?" replied the old man in the quick, sharp tone so characteristic of his speech. "Oh, the devil's grandmother—how do you expect me to keep your family record?"—Cleveland Leader.

Peanut Meal Bread.

Peanut meal has been for a long time a staple article in the dietary of the poor classes in Spain. Bread made from pure peanut meal is light and porous, but it is said to be unpalatable because of a persistent, peppery taste. Rye bread containing 25 per cent of peanut meal cannot be distinguished from ordinary rye bread, while far more nutritious. Skim milk cheese is the only ordinary article of diet comparable to peanut meal in its percentage of nitrogenous matter.

Put Craps in Windows.

Passengers on the Second avenue elevated road witness one custom that seems peculiar to the people living in the flats along that line of travel. They frequently see streamers of craps tied to the second and third story front windows that open on fire escapes. Somehow the bereaved relatives feel that craps on the flat house door will not indicate with sufficient clearness which family has suffered loss, so to point out exactly the rooms where mourning exists the windows are hung with craps.—New York Press.

As London Sees Us.
In an article on smoking the Westminster Gazette of London says: "At Washington senators not only smoke in committee rooms, but in the senate itself. Often a Washington 'orator' has been known to deliver a peripatetic speech, attending to his cigar at regular intervals, and followed by a crowd of reporters eagerly taking down his utterances."

"OLD GLORY!"

The Way This Name For the Stars and Stripes Originated.
The term "Old Glory," used to designate the flag of our country, is a favorite, and the expression is a very happy one. It is said by those who claim to be well informed that the name originated with William Driver, captain of the bark Charles Doggett. This statement appears in a history of the Driver family, and from this we find the following facts: Driver was a successful deep sea sailor and was at the time making his vessel ready for a voyage to the southern Pacific. In 1831, just as the brig was about to set sail, a young man at the head of a party of the captain's friends saluted Driver on the deck of the Doggett and presented to him a handsome American flag 10 by 38 feet in size. The banner was done up in flogs, and when it went aloft and was stuck to the breeze Captain Driver, says the tradition, then and there named it "Old Glory." The flag was carried to the south seas and ever afterward treasured by his owner. Driver removed to Nashville, Tenn., in 1837 and there died in 1836. Before the outbreak of hostilities between the north and south Old Glory flew daily from a window in the captain's Nashville house, but when the rumors of war became facts it was carefully sequestered. When the war broke out the precious flag was quilted into an innocent looking comfortable and used on the captain's bed until Feb. 27, 1862, when the Sixth Ohio marched into Nashville. Then the flag came out of its covering, and the captain presented it to the regiment to be hoisted over the capitol.

There it floated until it began to tear in ribbons, when it was taken down and a new one placed on the building. After the death of Captain Driver the first Old Glory was given to the Essex Institute at Salem, where it is still preserved and may be seen by the curious.—Kansas City Journal.

Explanation Was Necessary.

As the Frantz dog was at last detached from the trousers leg of the new milkman by Mr. Pratt's vigorous efforts the victim of the onslaught began to express his mind with considerable freedom. "I wouldn't keep a dog like that," he said indignantly, but Mr. Pratt broke in before he had time to say more. "He's only playful, that's all," he insisted, and at the same time he pressed something into the new milkman's hand. The man glanced at the wad of green, and then as he transferred it to a safe pocket his expression changed. "I guess I can take a little fun as well as anybody," he said dryly. "But till you explained it I had a notion that dog was in earnest when he bit that piece out of my trousers."—Youth's Companion.

A Bismarck Duel.

A duel in which Bismarck was once engaged had a very amusing origin. It occurred when he was chief of secretary of the Prussian legation at Frankfurt. He went much into society and one Christmas attended a big ball. During the height of the festivities Bismarck's attention was directed to an exceedingly pompous individual who strutted about the room. "This was a M. de Clancy, a noted French duelist. Later on this important individual took part in the dance, but having omitted to leave his hat at the proper place had perforce to hold it out almost at arm's length while he danced. The spectacle tickled Bismarck immensely, and, as the Frenchman came sailing majestically along, Bismarck stepped forward and dropped a coin into the hat. A duel was one of the next day's events. Though it was with pistols Bismarck escaped unhurt, while his adversary was wounded.

Home Grown Motors.

Even a book agent sometimes falls of achievement through unforeseen misunderstanding. "Colonel," said one of them aptly to a Texan whose record he had looked up beforehand, "those are mighty fine boys of yours." "The finest in the country, stranger," said the colonel. "The finest in Texas."

"I reckon you buy them anything they want?" "Why, stranger, I buy them anything they need, whether they want it or not." "Then, colonel, let me sell you a cyclopeda for them. There's nothing else will do them so much good." The colonel looked at him in astonishment. "Why, stranger," he said, "them boys of mine don't need any cyclopeda. They ride mules."—Youth's Companion.

Keep to the Right.
Bishop Wilberforce was out driving one day when a man on horseback stopped him and, thinking to have a joke, asked: "Excuse me, bishop, but could you tell me the road to heaven?" "Certainly, sir," the bishop answered. "Turn to the right and keep straight on."

What He Said.
"I once gave a writer a two dollar tip."
"What did he say?"
"To me he expressed his thanks, but I heard him say to another writer that I couldn't have real good sense."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Weak Kidneys

Cause more trouble than any other organ of the body. The function of the kidneys is to separate inorganic salt and water in the process of circulation, and to remove them and their attendant poisons from the body through the bladder. Therefore weak kidneys are naturally unable to perform their work properly, and cause in the back, inflammation of the bladder and urinary disorders are the result. It is imperative that a prompt relief be afforded, which is impossible unless you remove the cause.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills promptly eliminate poisons from the system and at the same time make the kidneys well and strong.

For Weak Kidneys, Backache, Inflammation of the Bladder and all urinary troubles DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are unsurpassed.
