Mr. Jerome Chase of Florence is visiting his uncle Mr. W. McLeod.

Clarendon was well represented in Sumter last Friday at the farmers meeting.

Mrs. Dr. Clarendon Barron of Columbia, is visiting the family of Mr. A. I. Barron.

The Workman school closing got in too late for this issue, but will appear next week.

We direct special attention to the advertisement of Perry Krasnoff this week. It is a corker.

Died at Acolu Sunday night 3rd inst., a six months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ard.

Since the arrival of Mr. W. G. King in Manning there has been a considerable activity in cotton.

Mrs. F. E. Harrison of Abbeville, is in Manning on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ingram.

The picture show is the most popular resort in town. The audiences and pictures are getting better and better.

Died at the home of his daughter Mrs. A. A. Thames last Sunday, Mr. John Corbett, in the 83rd year of his age.

All ye that are heavily laden with the desire for office, come ye now to THE TIMES and it will gratify that desire.

Clerk of Court Barron and Sheriff Gamble have broken the ice, and set the pace for candidates for office. Read their cards in this issue.

Labor contracts drawn upon the new contract law now on hand at THE TIMES office at 5 cents a piece, or 50 cents per dozen.

Married by Magistrate J. E. Richardson at Foreston last Thursday night, Mr. Luther Barnes and Miss Amanda T. Hodge, daughter of Mr. Henry T. Hodge.

At the picture show last Saturday night, there was a sweet voiced singer, who Fin Coffey says made the voice of our local favorite sound like a tin pan filled with water hit with a paddle.

The election in school district No. 1 held at Pinewood last Saturday upon the question of issuing bonds for a school building resulted in favor of the school issue by a vote of 60 to 2. Good. Let other school districts follow suit.

Hon. LeGrand G. Walker of Georgetown, who will deliver the address at the closing exercises of our local school has also been chosen to deliver the annual address at the commencement exercises for the South Carolina University.

Died at Summerville 8th inst., Mr. F. M. Sires, a former resident of Manning. The burial took place Sunday in Magnolia cemetery, Charleston. The deceased was at one time engaged in the furniture business here with his son-in-law, the late W. C. Chandler.

Boys, it does not cost but a dime to pay a girl's way into the picture show, why do you stand around the front door under the glare of the electric light. Your clothes will show off better on the inside, and there will be less odor from cheap cigarettes.

The court house commission has accepted the plans for the court house, and it is proposed to advertise for the contract. If there is no hitch, the work on the building will begin right after the next term of court. Judge John S. Wilson will preside at the coming term.

There will be a picnic at Rehobath school house, Friday 22nd inst. The school term has been very successful and it is proposed to celebrate it with a picnic. The trustees urge all of the patrons and scholars to bring well filled baskets, and there will be speeches on the occasion.

After an all night work last night in assisting in the instituting of Zola lodge of Knights of Pythias at Sardinia, THE TIMES editor will be excused for not having a more readable editorial page this week. Twenty-one candidates were initiated and Zola bids fair to be one of the best in the county.

Governor Ansel yesterday officially notified Clarendon's Senator of a vacancy on the county board of registration, caused by the death of Mr. W. T. Kelly. The other members of the delegation have been communicated with in his letters the senator stated that he would recommend for the place Mr. C. T. Ridgeway, if his recommendation was not concurred in, he would select a date for a meeting of the delegation. The members of the board of registration are appointed by the governor, by and with the consent of the Senate, which virtually makes the appointment with the Senator, but as a matter of courtesy he refers the matter to the delegation.

The colored graded school has been conducting its closing exercises with three nights of splendid entertainment. The training of the scholars of that school is under the guidance of Prof. B. E. Brogdon, and a competent corps of assistants. The program was elaborate and well carried out. The exercises were conducted in the Peoples' warehouse, and all three nights there were large audiences. The colored population is fortunate in having such a man as Professor Brogdon at the head of their school.

Beginning Monday, May 25th, at 8:30 p. m. the Rev. T. Tracy Walsh, Archdeacon of the Episcopal Church, will deliver a series of lectures on some principles and customs of the Episcopal Church. These lectures are not to be of a controversial nature, but explanatory. Those Episcopans are specially and cordially invited to attend. They may be assured that nothing will be said that would offend a fair-minded person. If possible, some musical features will accompany the lectures. All of the lectures and pieces will be at the school auditorium.

Died at his home in Foreston last Friday morning Mr. W. T. Kelly aged about 35 years. The deceased was in Manning the day before, complaining of feeling unwell. He went home and when he went to bed seemed to be in about his usual health, when his wife awoke in the morning she found Mr. Kelly unconscious and gasping, and in a few moments he was dead. Mr. Kelly was an active worker in politics in his community, and his death leaves a vacancy on the board of registration. The governor has been officially notified, and he will probably confer with the delegation about the appointment of a successor.

The Chapter of the Eastern Star is to be instituted in Manning the latter part of this month. This is what might be termed woman's masonry, only the wives, widows, mothers, sisters or daughters of the members in good standing can become members. The Chapter is to be instituted by Mrs. Mary Ouz of Greenwood, grand matron of South Carolina. Just think, Manning is to have a lodge of women masons, and when won't some of us have a fine get-out at night. We hope the dry goods merchants will not take advantage of the demand for hosiery to advance prices. Turning hand-springs, riding an Angora, climbing greasy pole and walking on a tight rope is a serious proposition for a man although branded, but when it comes to woman, gee whiz. We know of one lady who declares, if the writer, Captain W. C. Davis and Oliver O'Brien, are to be permitted the initiation she won't go a peg, because they will make sport of the freckles on her feet.

They Will Camp at Brewington. Harry Benbow Camp of Confederate veterans assembled in the court house last Saturday with an increased attendance, but still in a somewhat small hall. It should have been, had it been a political camp, the court house would have been crowded, but as there is no politics in the meetings of the veterans, but instead, it is the keeping alive the coils of patriotism, and it is intended to be a memorial to those who were alive to the meeting's purpose, and were much interested in the proceedings.

At the former meeting on account of the small attendance the officers were only temporarily chosen, but Saturday the permanent officers elected, are as follows: Commander A. J. Richbourg; Vice Commander I. N. Tobias; Adjutant L. W. Wells; Secretary Geo. R. Jones; Chaplain Rev. James McDowell.

The adjourned question was, shall Harry Benbow Camp go into camp for two days in the county? The matter was discussed by several of the aid soldiers and upon invitation, THE TIMES editor made a few remarks favoring the home camp. J. H. Lessee, Esq., representing the sons of Confederate veterans was present and he too addressed the soldiers in a very fine manner in their favor.

It was finally decided that Harry Benbow Camp of Confederate veterans go into camp at Brewington Lake on the 6th day of August, for two days. Commander Richbourg, D. M. Bradham, P. T. Floyd and I. N. Tobias are a committee to appoint sub-committees for the arrangements.

When this is done Commander Richbourg will publish an order, stating the necessary requirements, rations, blankets, tin plates, knives and forks, tin cups and spoons, etc. He will in this order, invite all Confederate veterans to join in this two days of pleasure.

The selection of Brewington was an ideal place, and every old veteran who can possibly get away from home will miss the treat of his life, if he fails to take advantage of this occasion. It is sincerely hoped that every effort will be made to make this camp a source of enjoyment to the old veterans. There will be speaking, fishing, frolicking, plenty to eat, and lemonade and coffee to drink, no intoxicants will be permitted.

The young folks will join in this festivity and they will be on hand with music and mirth, and sit around the camp fires listening to the yarus that will be spun by the men who snuffed the scent of battle from afar. Let us all get into the spirit, and make the two days camp at Brewington something to be long remembered. Hurrah for Harry Benbow Camp and forward march to Brewington Lake.

Mrs. Chas. C. Thames. In loving memory of our dear mother, who departed this life on March 29th, in the 75th year of her age.

OH, MOTHER, HOW WE MISS YOU. A precious one from us has gone. A voice we loved is still.

A place is vacant in our home That can never be filled.

Through all her pain at times she'd smile A smile of heavenly birth.

And when we leave this world of homes, She smiled farewell to earth.

And when we leave this world of homes, She smiled farewell to earth.

Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep, From which none ever waken to weep.

A faithful and undiminished repose.

HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. Silver, S. C., April 28, 1908.

Essay by Miss Fannie Broadway.

Intemperance is the offspring of so many and such various causes, that it seems impossible to enumerate them, or even reduce them to anything like scientific order.

I will commence my remarks on intemperance, which in its broadest signification means excess in the gratification of our propensities, by emphatically observing that it is generally found in strong and intimate connections when really traced to its origin, with the pleasures and enjoyments as well as with miseries and misfortune of mankind.

Every capacity or power of the human system physical and intellectual, when exercised in moderation, and with strict conformity to the laws of nature is productive of enjoyment and happiness; this natural and moderate exercise of our propensities, passions and mental energies, when matured into habits of life, give character, and create nobility, and it is the abusive degradation of those same intellectual powers, passions and propensities, by their unrestrained excessive indulgence to the destruction of health and happiness, that we call intemperance.

It is not confined to no rank or class of life, but is a general curse, and is found in the hut of the savage, the huts of the wretched and the palace of kings, its causes are as various as the capacities of man for enjoyment and pleasures, and as multiplied as the various miseries and misfortunes to which he is subjected through life.

The habit of intemperance is of slow or rapid growth in proportion to the strength or weakness of our resolution to withstand temptation. Where many and strong motives impel us toward intemperance, we advance slowly and almost imperceptibly to self-destruction. When the animation of youth, and the curvilinearities of conversation are sufficient for the production of such pleasures, we are highly susceptible of impressions from the varied charms of nature; and while the brilliant prospects of a long and animated life seem to us, temptation to degrading intemperance are only those which enhance the intensity of our pleasures. But, in proportion as all these fair prospects fade on the vision; in proportion as the repetition of these enjoyments causes us to lose the sentiment of novelty, we invariably descend to more sensual and intense expedients, for renewing sensations of pleasure; and unfortunately, for mankind, these expedients are too often connected with the dissipations and intemperance of the glutton, the drunkard, the opium-eater and the drunkard.

This descent to confirmed habits of intemperance in all its varied stages of degradation need not delineated these graduated debasements are visible in every department of society, and are so common, as almost everywhere to have lost their novelty, and to be considered as the natural and necessary concomitants of the degradation of the human mind. It is not until the poor unfortunate drunkard, God pity him, the dispensary does not, for it is making more drunkards as fast as it can. This class reasons thus: "The only way for me to get out of my family from poverty and further disgrace, and my soul from a drunkard's hell, is to get the overmastering temptation, the dispensary run by the clever people of the county, away and so I am going to vote."

Second, the social drinker is thinking thus: I see that the appetite is gripping me, tighter and tighter all the time, and that I am tending towards the awful rapids of the Niagara of ruin and despair, and I am going to quit while I can, and vote against the sale. Third, the business view prohibitionist knows that the liquor business is a foe to every other laudable enterprise in that it demoralizes labor, and takes out of every other art of trade millions of ready cash, which would go to develop the great resources of the country, and to enrich those who would use the money to bless, and not to curse humanity and God. Fourth, the total abstainer reasons; it is not hurting me, personally, except the sad heart I have to carry, incident to the ravages of the dispensary on some of my best friends. One of the great reasons however, for voting against the sale, is my own peace of mind. I do not know what my vote for sale might cost them for time and eternity. Fifth, the patriotic prohibitionist, says: I will not drink it, but I am going to write, work, and urge against the sale, because the dispensary is a deadly enemy to good government, clean morals and pure religion. Liquor is the greatest foe God and humanity. It's pretenses are stamped with falsehood on the very face claiming to minimize the sale and yet establishing dispensaries all over the county, advising the young men and poor drunkards to try "Real Lion Courage Gin." God pity the poor man whose column is for sale to help to people the eternal pit of despair and ruin. Sixth is the Christian prohibitionist.—Listen at his platform. "My Bible is against the dispensary, my conscience condemns it, my church and pastor, my spiritual father are against it, my association, convention, conference and entire denomination are against it and so I am heart and soul against the sale. I do not want to get lost in my weakness and my sins, and live up with the modern Esaus who stand ready to sell their birth-rights and all that is holy and good for a little bread money which will burn their consciences here, and in their souls hereafter." "Wee unto him that buildeth a town with blood, and establisheth a city by iniquity." Is not the sale of liquor iniquity? The drunkard is as long as he remains a drunkard, doomed financially, physically, mentally, morally, spiritually and eternally. Many young men and women think that they are safe from such an end, but history is every repeating itself. The Bible tells us very plainly that a drunkard cannot get into the kingdom of heaven. The doom then of the poor drunkard is complete. There is no chance for repentance and redemption after death.

Let us give no hope; Christ did not say that there would be another chance to get into harmony with God when once a person did out of harmony. And surely the drunkard is out of harmony with him. The drunkard of today is the drunkard of tomorrow. There can be but one safe plan, let it alone completely. Total abstinence is the only safe way. And for that purpose, let us all pledge our names to the applied grace of God. There may be aids to the will power, but the only thing that can save and keep the drunkard from the habit of drink is God's grace.

Dear friend, if the demon has hold upon you flee to him now before your "doom" is eternally fixed.

Preaching at Brewington.

Communion services will be held at Brewington Church on Sunday, May 17, at 11:30 a. m.

A second sermon will be preached after lunch. The public will please take notice that there will be no preaching on Saturday as is the usual custom. All are cordially invited to attend on Sunday.

Notice to Teachers.

The 100th anniversary of the birthday of Pres. Jefferson Davis will occur on June 3rd 1808. The Confederate Veterans Association and various other Memorial Associations have suggested that this day be observed throughout the South to teach important lessons connected with the life and work of this citizen. It is a good opportunity to impress important lessons in connection with the history of the South-Confederacy and the period immediately preceding it.

Some of the schools will close before that date, however let me urge the teachers to take such times as may suit best for each school, for some important lessons and exercises of this day.

ON THE CORNER

We are proud to inform our friends and patrons that we have moved over on the corner of the block, where we will be able to take care of all our patrons. We will carry a larger line of up-to-date goods than we ever did before, and as our endless chain of bargains is known to everyone in the county, now with the additional room at our disposal, we propose to increase our line of bargains, so that it will make little difference how large or how small your demands will be, we will be able to supply your wants. We are now at McLeod's Old Stand.

Beginning from the first of next month, we will have two resident buyers in New York, who will always be on the alert for bargains to supply the needs of our mammoth establishment. In addition to our present, S. L. KRASNOFF, whom you all know as the only and original of this part of the country, and who furnished the best homes in the county with Household Goods for the last six years, will from now on represents us at the New York, Baltimore, Buffalo and Jamestown Furniture Exchanges. Having these men in the market all times of the year, the advantage we will have over our competitors, and the benefit for our patrons cannot be estimated, it will be absolutely necessary for you to do business with us in order to know the results.

In addition to our now extensive line of merchandise we have added a full line of and Household Goods, and if you are in need for anything in this line we will be glad to figure with you.

When in town make your headquarters at our store, at McLeod's old corner, take a walk upstairs and look over Line of Furniture.
