Sheridan's Star Actor.

When Sheridan was a manager he even indulged in such catering to the public taste as offering to the public a dog piece by Reynolds, entitled "The Caravan; or, The Driver and the Dog." that Sheridan after witnessing the performance suddenly entered the greenroom, shouting: "Where is he? Where is my guardian angel?" Presuming he meant to congratulate the author, Reynolds replied, "Here I am!" "Pooh." replied Sheridan, "I don't mean you; I mean the dog." Later one Dignum, who played in the piece, approached Sheridan one night with woeful countenance, saying: "Sir, there is no guarding against illness. It is truly lamentable to stop the run of a successful play like this, but really"- "Really what?" cried Sheridan, interrupting him. "I am so unwell that I cannot go on longer than tonight." "You!" exclaimed Sheridan. "My good fellow, you terrified me. I thought you were going to say the dog was ill."

The Life Plant.

There is a strange wild plant in Guadeloupe called the "life plant." If a leaf be broken off and pinned by the stem to the wall of a warm room, each of the angles between the curves of the leaf margin soon throws out a number of very white tentacles, or roots, and soon a tiny new plant begins to sprout and in the course of a week or two attains a height of two or three inches. When the old -leaf shrivels, the new plant is cut off and planted. When carefully cultivated, the life plant produces curious red and yellow blossoms. As a plant freak it certainly is as interesting as the everlasting plant of Why Go to Bed?

It seems to me we make a mistake in prescribing special hours for going to bed and for getting up. Why should we thus gorge ourselves with slumber? Why should we not follow the example of the dog and take an occasional nap when we have nothing better to do? Why should we go to bed when we don't feel sleepy? Why should we not take forty winks when inclined thereto? It strikes me there is too much method and regularity about our somniferous arrangements. - Ashby-Sterry in London Graphic.
