"To our Representatives in the General Assembly of South Carolina: Whereas, an election was held in November, 1908, at which the voters of Clarendon county, by a majority of three to one, expressed their will that the dispensary at Manning should be closed, pursuant to which the said dispensary has been closed for more than

Now we, the undersigned, business men of the town of Manning, respectfully enter this as our protest against

There are a number bills to create most of these are expensive luxuries and of no good to the State. There are also a mass of wildcat measures, for ed a bill looking to relieve the present instance, to create a commission to guarantee bank deposits, another to secured to a stake. The total length compensate for loss of property by theft; still another to whip the devil around the stump, to take away the right of trial by jury. Then there are any quantity of bills to operate the railroads by legislation, the legislators ble to investigate they will reach the to supply the Statutes, while the stockholders supply the money. A reading of many of the titles to bills introduced strikes me that there are men in the General Assembly who are imbued with the dog-in-the-manger spirit. They act as if, because they have not, they would deprive the rest of the countay, and are always seeking to throw obstacles in the way of progress. Such men should amend the free school Acts, as to age limit. During the week Supervisor McFadlin and Commissioner Broadway were here in attendance upon the good roads onvention.

The latter was present in the enate gallery during the debate on a bill providing for a county attorney. have no doubt Mr. White was impressed with what he saw and heard, and will use it in the future, as it is umored he has legislative aspirations. Mr. F. C. Thomas was on the United States petit jury all of the week. No doubt he was charmed. On Saturday Mrs. Thomas and her daughter came to Columbia and spent the day.

Harking back to the political side of prohibition, there is a strong and growing belief that the probibition leaders are shrewdly working for a combination of the influences of the Methodist and Baptist churches. The supposition now is they will put up Featherstone, a Methodist, for governor; C. A. Smith, a Baptist, for lieutenant governor, and takes a majority to say where and when the mail order whiskey houses are not complaining and want prohibition to win in all of the Southern States, but Congress must not interfere with interstate commerce. I am amused at the movements of certain individuals whom know. I can read them like a book. They may, by their hypocritical professions fool some good men, and they are fooling them at this time, but al of these good, sincere men, cannot be fooled always. No longer than Saturday a certain minister told me that "if a certain fellow continues his brazen deception he will feel it his duty to expose him." "Why," says this minister, that fellow is hobnobbing around with prohibitionists and the scamp is cheekby-jowl with the scurvey politicians and blind tigers. He is a pretty prohibitionist." Then he went on and expressed the opinion that "many a fellow who now expects to climb up to political fame on the prohibition ladder will find its rungs too weak to hold up his hypocrisy." During the week a delegation of Clarendon and Williamsburg gentle-men, Messrs. J. S. Evans, and S. M.

Haynesworth from Clarendon; Mr. E. ville, came up to try to get the two dele- hauled. building of a new road from a point near Workman, across to Black river, the Manning and Kingstree road, openundeveloped section and shortening, by several miles the distance to the railroad station at Greely- rope with which the captured ship ville or Foreston. RELIGIOUS ACROBATS.

Dangerous Aerial Slide Annually Performed In India.

India offers many curious things in the way of religion, and the strangest of them all is the aerial slide, which is performed annually at Kulu, in the Himalayas. At a point where there is a cliff overhanging a precipitous gorge commissions, which ought to fail, as several hundred feet in width and a hundred feet in depth a rope is made fast to the rock. The other end of this is carried across the gorge and there of the rope between the two points is when drawn taut 2,500 feet, and the end attached to the cliff is several hundred feet higher than that fastened on the opposite side of the ravine. Thus a slide is contrived, and it is a dangerous one to all appearance. It is down this incline that the performer has his path. For the lofty journey a sort of saddle is provided made of wood, with holes in it, through which the rope passes. But before a start is made the whole length of the rope is wet to prevent the saddle from catching fire from the friction. The performer sits astride this seat, and to his legs are fastened bags of sand, which serve two purposes-they enable him to maintain an upright position during his lightning-like descent, and they increase the momentum. The lower end of the rope is carefully wound with bits of carpet to check the speed before the stake is reached. Without this precaution the performer would be dashed to pieces. The terrific velocity of the descent for the first few hundred yards is shown by the stream of smoke that trails from the wake of the saddle, despite the fact that the rope has been wet. Afterward the incline diminishes somewhat, and the pace becomes correspondingly slower. By the time the goal is reached the jheri, as the performer is called, is able to come to a standstill without disaster.

This slide in the air is supposed to reveal the will of the gods as to the crops of the approaching season. If the perilous trip is accomplished in safety a plentiful harvest is assured. Naturally, therefore, every care is taken to minimize the dangers of the performance. The ceremony is of ancient origin, and those who engage in it as jheri form a small caste apart.-New York Tribune.

A MEDFORD STORY.

Legend of the Phantom Ship and Its Mad Pirate Captain.

The town of Medford, Mass., has a legend of a phantom ship beside which the Flying Dutchman is only a peaceful merchantman. The Medford story runs that a ship laden with rum and gold and silver bars put out from that place in the days when the Spanish main was infested with pirates. It was headed for a West Indian port, but got into the doldrums and was so long becalmed that water and provisions gave out, and all hands perished of thirst and starvation. When the wind came up again the ship sailed away with her ghastly crew, was seen E. Rhodus and Mr. Gourdin, of Greely- by a buccaneer, chased and over-
