Tobacco Culture in Clarendon County, as a Money Crop.

In my last article I called attention to the importance of a proper selection of soil and plants for a profitable crop.

I am aware that too much stress cannot be placed upon the consideration of these two points. Those who are careful enough in other matters may utterly fail in raising profitable crops of tobacco and become discouraged, because they were heedless of these two demands as a starting point to success. My observation of the soil of this county with my former experience as a planter convince me of the certainty of its being made a profitable business here.

Already in the short experience of those who have started the production of the crop in the county we have am-ple evidence of its value as a money crop. Only those succeed, however, who go into it with a mind to master its production by that attention to details periods and produce a small return to the farmer, if by no means a profitable one, but tobacco raising must be a success or it is generally worse than a failure. Leaving these points which have been barely hinted at in the former discussion. I now advance to the question of PREPARATION OF THE SOIL, MANURING AND PLANTING THE CROP. In this climate the farmer will begin to house the bottom leaves of his crop but the effect would be to put them out writer, and there is no one who is more hasty growth of the crop will require great skill in proper preparation of the soil and nourishment applied to cause a development in quality and quantity there should be any and to permit the humus supplied from the former year's growth to decay and become fully assimulated in the soil. This, too, is profitable in destroying the cut-worm which often proves so troublesome to the earl setting. But this is by no means a sufficient preparation for planting the crop. Just before the plants are ready Hon. O. C. Scarborough, of Summer- to be set and the season has come for ton was in Manning last Monday, and setting the plants, the soil should again

When the drill has been opened and the manure put in let one furrow be thrown on it to protect it from the weather, and when ready to insert the plants, if rain has fallen since the manure was drilled in, run two furrows to list the soil over the manure before setting the plant.

The quick growth of the crop and the wanted will indicate to the quality grower that it will take a larger quality of manure than most crops to make a rofitable crop of tobacco. Then you need a fertilizer that will give body to the plant and histen a uniform growth and maturity of the plant. The soil and climate will have to largey help the planter in arriving at a satisfactory solution of this problem, generally about 1,000 pounds of "specia tobacco fertilizers" will be the proper quantity to use when commercial fertil izer is used exclusively. This is often the best where lying-out land is used for the crop. In my next I will discuss the planting of the stalk and the cultivation of the C. W. BLANCHARD.
