Regatta in England.

The first regatta in England was in 1770, and it was imported into this country by Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, who had been impressed by the water show of Venice. There was no series of races. There was a procession of city barges to a "temporary octagon," where there was revelling that night and well into the next day. Only seven of the company were drowned on the return journey, which speaks well for the average sobriety of the crowd.—London King.

Breakfast Hours.

A traveler stopped at a hotel in Greenland, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk.
"What time do you have breakfast?"
"From half past March to a quarter to May."—Harper's Weekly.

Boring the Bore.

"What do you do to get rid of bores?"
"Just as soon as they come into my office I start in telling them of the latest cure thing my baby said."—Detroit Free Press.

But He Did.

Her Mother—I saw him kiss you! I am terribly shocked. I did not for a moment imagine he would dare take such a liberty. Herself—Nor did I. In fact, I bet him a pair of gloves he doesn't!

Look After Your Property.

It is a safe rule in this world to look carefully after the details of your own property. Be sure your title deeds are recorded, that your insurance is kept up, that you alone have the key to your strong box in the safety vault. Do not leave your securities with your broker. If he is doing a conservative business, he has no need of them. If he isn't you don't want him to handle your property. The wonder is that with all the confidence reposed in financial matters there are so few defalcations. There is no use in making it easy for some one to get your property. In this world it is hard for most persons to acquire anything, and they should be careful to the last degree in seeing that they are fully protected in it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Britain's Greatest Precipice.

Writing to the New York Journal in regard to the drowning of three bird catchers at St. Kilda, a correspondent says the wild fowls of St. Kilda find nesting places that enable them to bid defiance to the sportsman and to the most daring of bird catchers. There is, for example, the precipice called Conagher, the same being far and away the greatest precipice in the British Isles, the deepest perpendicular precipice. It rises from the sea level to a clear height of 1,230 feet. Consider that a man might jump from the top of Conagher into the sea without getting a scratch by the way.

Testifies After Four Years.

Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. B. Barham, writes: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of those symptoms, and I am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you. W. E. Brown & Co.

A Rhineland Legend.

There is a Rhineland legend of three German robbers who, having acquired by various atrocities what amounted to a very valuable booty, agreed to divide the spoil and to retire from so dangerous a vocation. When the day appointed for this purpose arrived one of them was dispatched to a neighboring town to purchase provisions for their last carousal. The other two secretly agreed to murder him on his return that they might divide his share between them. They did so. But the murdered man was a closer calculator even than his assassins, for he had previously poisoned a part of the provisions, that he might appropriate to himself the whole of the spoil. This precious triumvirate were found dead together.

Salt Codfish Omelet.

Soak a piece of salt codfish about six inches square overnight. Split six crackers and lay them in cold water. Then cook the codfish in the water. In the morning pick the fish fine and mix well with the soaked crackers, three well beaten eggs and a piece of butter the size of an egg, also salt and pepper. Take one quart of milk and add to it one dessertspoonful of flour. Boil five minutes and pour over in the dish in which it is to be baked. Bake twenty minutes.—Boston Post.

A Narrow Escape.

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was then and sick, and had some consumption, it was near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar." W. E. Brown & Co.

A New City a Thousand Years Old.

Budapest, whose front is circled with lights and festivity above the river, whose parliament buildings run along the bank and are second to none but Westminster—Budapest, bright, flashing, gay, beautiful, modern and rich, ardent and executive, close built and amalgamative, blunder of peoples—is the product of only a few decades, and yet at its last exposition it celebrated its thousandth birthday. Pest, to the right of the river—for the cities are twin and divided by the Danube—dates back to 1200, and Buda was the Open of the Romans. Buda climbs up the opposite hill, today magnificently new, but sown round with green crumbling walls that mark the passing of the original founders whose painted galleys came up the Danube from the Black sea. The twentieth century civilization, sharply new and powerful, must for a moment be brushed aside and the Buda of medieval times put in its stead.—Marie Van Vorst in Harper's Magazine.

Choosing a Builder.

The selection of a builder is quite as important a matter in putting up a house as the choice of an architect. Don't choose the cheapest bidder. Don't merely because he is cheapest. If you accept his bid, find out the reason of the cheapness. Frequently the builder is a man of little means, and often he operates on borrowed capital. Should the builder become bankrupt or fail to pay for his labor or materials the owner, under the mechanic's laws of most states, becomes liable for the builder's debts. This is true even though the owner has paid the builder for his work. In order to obtain his house free and clear in such a case the owner must meet the builder's obligations. The prudent owner will, of course, pay for his house only as it is constructed. Even then it would be a useful caution to make sure that the builder has paid his indebtedness on the house. Payments are usually made the builder when the foundations are done, when the frame is up, when the house is closed, when the plastering is finished and when the completed house is turned over to the owner.—Circle Magazine.

Ancient Castle, Curious Clock.

Brushen castle, Castledown, Isle of Man, is the ancient seat of the kings and lords of Man. The castle is a veritable curiosity both historically and otherwise. The first mention of it dates to the year 1257. It was taken after six months' siege in the year 1315 by Robert the Bruce. The castle is built of limestone and is not a ruin. Until a few years ago it was used as a prison. The town clock seen in the castle wall was presented by Queen Elizabeth in the year 1597. It has only one hand on the dial. This is the hour hand. The minutes are judged by the hours. The works of this clock are also a curiosity. The weight at the end of the pendulum is a large stone, and it is driven by a rope coiled around a cylinder of wood, with another stone at the end of the rope. The clock is still going after its centuries of service and is still the town clock.—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

She Did So.

"Always," said papa as he drank his coffee and enjoyed his morning breakfast—"always, children, change the subject when anything unpleasant has been said. It is both wise and polite."
That evening on his return from business he found several of his doves beddes spoiled and the tiny imprint of slippers feet silently bearing witness to the small thief.
"Mabel," he said to her, "did you pick my doves?"
"Papa," said Mabel, "did you see a monkey in the city today? We had a 'Never mind that. Did you pick my flowers, Mabel?"
"Papa, what did grandma send me?"
"Mabel, what do you mean? Did you pick my doves? Answer me, yes or no."
"Yes, papa, I did, but I thought I would change the subject."—London Tit-Bits.

A Harry Up Call.

"Quick! Mr. Druggist—Quick! A box of Booklen's Arnica Salve—Here's a quarter. For the love of Moses, hurry. Baby's burned himself terribly—about the size of his foot with the axe. Mamma's scalded. He can't walk from pain. He's hot as hell, and my combs ache. She got it and scoured all the family. It's the greatest number on earth." Sold by all druggists.

Worse Than His Own.

A gentleman who owns one of the finest estates in the north of England while in his garden one morning noticed one of the laborers very badly clad and asked him:
"Have you no better clothes than those, Mat?"
"No, in truth, yer honor, worse luck," replied Mat.
"Well, call at the house this evening on your way home," said the gentleman. "I'll leave an old suit of mine with the butler for you."
A few days later when showing a party of visitors through the grounds he was much annoyed to see Mat looking if possible more a scarecrow than ever.
"Why are you still wearing those old clothes, Mat?" he asked.
"Sure, yer honor, they're the best I have," replied Mat.
"But did you not get the suit I left for you the other day?" asked the gentleman.
"Indeed, an' I did, thank yer honor kindly," replied Mat; "but sure, I had to leave them at home to be mended."—London Tatler.

When Baseball Was an Infant Industry.

It was a crude game, but merry. In theory the pitcher was there only to give the boys a chance to "soak the ball." "First bound" was still out. The unfortunate catcher, handling a heavy, lively ball without mask, glove or protector, stood up near the bat when men were on bases if he had the skill and courage. The early guides recommended him to do so when he could. Had not the pitcher been restricted to an artificial throw scarce a catcher would have lived to tell the tale. Many catchers took everything "on first bounce" and managed at that to prevent much base stealing. Base running also was in its infancy. "Smith," says the Spirit of the Times, "caught a remarkable game, having but five passed balls scored against him." Here and there we get a glimpse which shows how crude it all was, what a matter of hit and miss natural force. In the fifties Dick's Teece shone without a peer as an infielder. He used to stop grounders with his hand and foot.—Will Irwin in Collier's.

Breaking the News.

Marion, who had been taught to report her misdeeds promptly, came to her mother one day, sobbing piteously.
"Mother, I—I—broke a brick in the fireplace."
"Well, that is not very hard to remedy. But how on earth did you do it, child?"
"I pounded it with father's watch."—Success Magazine.

Accessories.

"I'm going in for poetry," hisped the sweet young thing.
"Real, heartfelt poetry," thundered the man of letters. "Is only written in a garret."
"Yes; I've heard that. So I've fitted up a beautiful Turkish den in ours."—Washington Herald.

Quite Warm.

"I understand there was a hot time in the Bangs household the other day."
"Yes. When he went home he found his wife simply boiling, and she gave him a roast."—Baltimore American.

THE SPANIARD.

His Primitive Instincts of Hospitality and Charity.

Farelcock Ellis in his "Soul of Spain" has revealed intimately and charmingly the temperament of the Spanish people. According to him, the Spaniard is still fundamentally primitive. In proof of his possession of the primal instincts of hospitality and charity he quotes the following anecdote from an Aragonese newspaper of a few years ago, at a time when there was much distress in Aragon:
A laborer out of work came on the highroad determined to rob the first person he met. This was a man with a wagon. The laborer bade him halt and demanded his money.
"Here is $30, all that I have," the detained man replied.
"There is nothing left for me but robbery. My family are dying of hunger," the aggressor said apologetically and proceeded to put the money in his pocket, but as he did so his mind changed.
"Take this, chico," he said, handing back $20. "One is enough for me."
"Would you like anything I have in the cart?" asked the wagoner, impressed by this generosity.
"Yes," said the man. "Take this dollar back too. I had better have some rice and some beans."
The wagoner handed over a bag of eatables and then held out $5, which, however, the laborer refused.
"Take them for luck money," said the wagoner. "I owe you that."
And only so was the would-be robber persuaded to accept.
