The year 1909 with its favors and disavors has gone out, and there remains with us its memory alone, a guide-post to 1910. To be sure it witnessed the discovery of the North Pole and untold advances in the navigation of the upper atmosphere, but assuredly more vitally interesting and valuable to the South, South Carolina, and Clarendon county is the 15c cotton which she perfected. know, but we shall not criticise her day of January, 1910, the following perachievements at all harshiy, snould she sonalty: 23 Choats; 3 Sows: 1 Cow; 1 neglect the first mentioned advances, if only she can retain that glorious 15c

The farmers of this section, with but few exceptions, made good average crops, and satisfied with the fortunate high price of cotton are making haste to get in readiness for the coming plantng season. Farm hands are being signed up, rent liens executed, and all available farming lands will soon be under cultivation. Some of the principal plantations in the locality are changing hands at the New Year's entrance, resulting in the loss of one or two families who have been residents in this community for many years. Mr. A. Plumer Burgess, whose family has long been identified with Clarendon county will move with his family to Fort Motte, S C., Mr. Burgess having accepted a poseveral years occupied the Wilson plantation will remove to his own farm a few miles from town, and it is thought that Mr. W. During the Christmas and New Year holiday season, several hunting parties have gone forth into the swamps around the Santee to try their luck with the ducks. One party, composed largely of Summertonians spent all of last week in the heart of the swamp, but as yet we have not learned with what success they met. A party of Richmond sportsmen are now stopping with Mr. D. M. Rodgers on his plantation some eight miles from town. This seems to be an unusually good game year, and the sport need not be confined to any one variety On Monday evening, December 27th, Misses Lucy and Maria Mood entertained quite a number of friends at their home on Church street. The parlor was tastefully decorated with holly and evergreens, under which the jolly crowd of young people passed a few happy but fleeting hours. Many miscellaneous games were enjoyed broken first by a levely display of fireworks, and then by delightful refreshments. Those presen were: Misses Annie Rutledge, Mildred James and Etta Scarborough, Messrs. Harry Davis, Allston James, Ceth Mason, Lawrence Chewning, Doc Colciough and Fred Barnes.

Misses Ada Tennant and Louise Scarborough returned yesterday to Lynch-burg, S. C., to resume their duties in the graded school.

The movement so long neglected has at last begun to erect a monument to the memory of the heroes who wore the gray, -soldiers whose record was the marvel of the civilized world. Clarendon now proposes to place upon the court house square a suitable mark of its patriotism by having erected a shaft in honor of those who responded and laid down their lives upon their country's altar.
