

Nervous

"I was very nervous," writes Mrs. Mollie Mirse, of Carville, Ky., "had palpitation of the heart, and was irregular. On the advice of Mrs. Hattie Cain I took 2 bottles of Cardui and it did me more good than any medicine I ever took. I am 44 years old and the change has not left me, but I am lots better since taking Cardui."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Cardui is advertised and sold by its loving friends. The lady who advised Mrs. Mirse to take Cardui, had herself been cured of serious female trouble, by Cardui, so she knew what Cardui would do.

If Cardui cured Mrs. Cain and Mrs. Mirse, it surely will cure you too. Won't you try it? Please do.

THE GIFT OF GAB.

Why Stephenson Thought There Was No Power Equal to It. When George Stephenson was visiting the seat of Sir Robert Peel at Drayton on one occasion, says the writer of "Famous British Engineers," there happened to be present Dr. Buckland, the scientist, and Sir William Follett, the famous advocate. Stephenson discussed with Dr. Buckland one of his favorite theories as to the formation of coal and, though undoubtedly in the right, was ultimately vanquished by the arguments and oratory of the doctor, who was a better master of tongue fence than himself. Next morning while pondering over his defeat in the solitude of the garden he was accosted by Sir William Follett and confided to that gentleman the story of his failure. Sir William, acquainted with the details of the matter in dispute, agreed to take up the case and soon afterward attacked Dr. Buckland on the subject. A long discussion ensued, in which the man of law completely silenced the man of science, who was at last compelled to own himself vanquished. Sir Robert Peel, highly amused at this example of "dr. for tax," then turned to the inventor and inquired, with a laugh, "And what do you say on this matter, Mr. Stephenson?" "Why," he replied, "I will only say this—that of all the powers above and under the earth there seems to me no power equal to the gift of the gab."

QUAINT EPITAPHS.

Gems from Ancient Graveyards in Suffolk, England. The Suffolk (England) Institute of Archaeology has been collecting epitaphs from the ancient graveyards throughout the shire, and several of the most curious are here printed. One shows traces of a pessimistic philosophy surprising when we consider the strong orthodoxy of the day when the epitaph was written: Beneath this stone lies Catherine Gray, Changed to a lifeless lump of clay. By earth and clay she got her pellets, And now she's turned to clay herself. Who knows but in the course of years In some tall pitcher or brown pan She in her shop may stand again. Another from Suffolk reads as follows: Here lies Robert Wallas, The King of Good Fellows, Clerk of All Hallows, And maker of bellows. These which follow could scarcely be lines chosen by the reverend occupant of the tomb himself, a clergyman named Chest: Here lies at rest, I do attest, One Chest within another. The chest of wood was very good. Who says so of the other? And, to conclude, here is a bit of philosophy that cannot be improved by any of the great thinkers of all time: Here I lie outside the chancel door; Here I lie because I'm poor. The further in the more they pay. But here I lie as warm as they.

You Must Read this if You Want the Benefit. J. W. Greer, Greenwood, La., suffered with a severe case of lumbago. "The pains were so intense I was forced to hypodermic injections for relief. These attacks started with a pain in the small of my back which gradually became fairly paralyzing. My attention was attracted to Foley's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to say after using this wonderful medicine I am no longer bothered in any way by my old enemy lumbago." W. E. Brown & Co.

Chess in Ancient Ceylon. In ancient Ceylon the game of chess was played with local variations peculiar enough to note. The king may not castle, but he is permitted to jump like a knight till checked. The pawns are exchangeable on the last row for the pieces on whose row they stand.

A Wooden Head. Certain members of the house party were describing the accidents that had happened to them during their various careers. Adventures by flood, fire and field had all been well received, and De Sappley, eager for fame, thought it was his turn. "D'you know," he said, "I had a very painful experience once. I ran a confounded splinter quite half an inch long right under my finger nail, don't you know?" "Really, Mr. de Sappley," said a member of the party. "How did you do it?" "Well," he said, "it happened like this." As he spoke he unconsciously raised his hand and scratched his forehead. "Oh, I see," he interrupted sweetly. "How very careless of you!"—St. Paul Dispatch.

Carpets and Rugs. Carpets and rugs were originally employed by oriental nations for sitting, reclining and kneeling purposes during devotion. When introduced among the western peoples they were for a long time used for purely ornamental purposes, covers for tables or couches and for laying before altars or chairs of state upon great occasions. Carpets were brought to Europe by the Moors, but it was well into the eighteenth century before they came into anything like general use.

Every Little Movement. A visitor to the cobbler's shop noticed one day a barrel half full of tiny brass cogwheels. "Why," he said, "what are all those for?" "Goodness knows," answered the cobbler, with a careless laugh. "I get about a couple of out of every clock I mend."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Reason For His Disgrace. "He's disgraced with the way the politicians are running things in this town." "Is that so?" "Yes; he ran for office and was defeated."—Detroit Free Press.

Nibbles the Wood. "I'm tired of this old joke about a woman sharpening a pencil with her husband's razor." "There's nothing in it. No woman sharpens a pencil. She gnaws it to a point."—Pittsburg Post.

A Simple Safeguard For Mothers. Mrs. D. Gilkeson, 326 Ingles Avenue, Youngstown, Ohio, gained wisdom by experience. "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continually. My sister recommended Foley's Honey and Tar. The first dose I gave her relieved the inflammation in her throat and after using only one bottle her throat and lungs were entirely free from inflammation. Since then I always keep a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar in the house. Accept no substitutes. W. E. Brown & Co.

The President's Oath. The oath of office taken by the incoming president of the United States is the shortest and the simplest required of any ruler on earth. It is prescribed by the constitution and is as follows: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and, to the best of my ability, protect, preserve and defend the constitution of the United States."

Wants to Help Some One. For thirty years J. F. Boyer, of Fertile, Mo., needed help and couldn't find it. "That's why he wants to help some one now. Suffering so long himself he feels for all distressed from backache, nervousness, loss of appetite, lassitude and kidney disorders. He shows that Electric Bikers work wonders for such troubles. 'Eye bottles,' he writes, 'wholly cured me and now I am well and hearty.' It's also positively guaranteed for liver trouble, dyspepsia, blood disorders, female complaints and malaria. Try them. 50c. at all druggists.

The Most Important Thing. Commander Peary, at one of the numerous Washington dinners following his triumphant return from the pole, got the better of a senator in a war of wits.

"What is the good of your discovery?" the senator said. "I'll wager that you didn't find a single important thing at the north pole." "Oh, yes, I did," said the explorer. "I found one very, very important thing." "Humph! What was that?" the senator granted. "The way back home again," was the reply.

HIS QUICK LUNCH.

A Cleveland Man's Experience in a Toronto Restaurant.

The Canadian brother certainly differs from us in several strongly marked respects. A Cleveland man went into the leading restaurant of Toronto and said to the waiter in his customary quick lunch voice: "Crackers 'n' milk—cup coffee—apple pie."

The waiter bent a little lower. "Beg pardon, sir?" The Cleveland man said it again and, being slightly irritated, said it faster.

The waiter shook his head. "I'm afraid we 'aren't it, sir," he depreated, as Hashimura Togo might say. "Haven't you any crackers?" "No, sir." Then, with a sudden inspiration, "We 'ave biscuits, sir." "All right; bring me biscuits. And you can give me some milk. Can't you—milk in a bowl?"

"I'll inquire, sir." Then another inspiration. "We can give you coffee, sir."

"Good! How about the apple pie?" "No, sir. We've never had it to my knowledge, sir. I think there's no call for it." Another inspiration. "We 'ave apple tart, sir."

"Fine! Bring me biscuits 'n' milk—coffee—apple tart, and be as quick as possible, please." But it was exactly thirty-seven minutes later when the Cleveland man brushed away the crumbs and reached for his hat.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HOLD THE RIGHT IDEALS.

Latent Courage and the Power of Mental Suggestion.

We not only can strengthen mental weaknesses and deficiencies, but it is perfectly possible to increase the general ability through the power of suggestion, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. Indeed, the susceptibility of all the mental faculties to improvement to enlargement is something remarkable. Sometimes very strong faculties are latent until especially aroused. There are many people who pass for cowards, who are humiliated because they have so little courage, when, if they only knew how, they could strengthen this deficient faculty wonderfully by holding the courageous ideal, by thinking and doing the courageous deeds, by carrying the thought of fearlessness, by reading about heroic lives, by constantly thinking of heroic thought and trying to live it. The courage may be small in a person because it has never been called into sufficient exercise. It may need only to be aroused. There are many people living lives of mediocrity who might do great things, might become mental giants, if their dormant faculties were aroused their general ability improved and enlarged.

The Number Nine. There were nine earths, according to medieval cosmogony, nine heavens, nine rivers of hell and nine orders of angels. The number being perfection since it represented divinity was often used to signify a great quantity, as in the phrases, "A nine days' wonder," "A cat has nine lives" and "Nine tailors make a man." In Scotland a distempored cow was cured by washing her in nine surfs. To see nine magpies was considered extremely lucky. Nine knots made in a black woolen thread served as a charm in the case of a sprain. It was also believed and is still by some that if a servant girl finds nine green peas in one pod and lays them on the window sill the first man that enters will be her beau. Nine grains of wheat laid on a four leaved clover enables one, it is said, to see the fairies.

The Curse of Genius. The somber, long haired, seedy looking man was speaking in a voice of rolling thunder. "A million times a million fateful curses sit balefully athwart his hateful head of tow! Through the gloomy eons may his black soul fit homeless forever!" "Off his balance, I suppose?" observed the stranger. "Oh, no," said Smith; "that's Elmer, the well known poet, swearing at the editor who rejected his verses."—Puck.

No Practical Difference. "I made a mistake," said young Mrs. Torkins, "and picked up my locket instead of the little gold watch you gave me."

"Never mind," replied her husband. "The only difference is that the watch doesn't tell time and the locket doesn't even pretend to."—Washington Star.
