Names In Electricity.

Electricity is the one branch of science that honors the great names in its fundamental terminology. Andre Marie Ampere was the French physicist who first measured the current and for whom the unit is named. The ohm bears the name of George S. Ohm, a German man of science who discovered the law on which the unit of electrical resistance is based. The volt is named for the Italian Volta, the greatest electrical authority of the eighteenth century, who was the first man to construct a rude electric battery. The farad, the unit of electrical capacity, is named in honor of the English physicist Faraday; the colomb, the unit of quantity, for the French physicist Coulomb, and the watt. the unit of power, for James Watt, the Scotch inventor who improved the steam engine.

Herbert Spencer Was Human. Herbert Spencer in the attitude of superintending his household affairs was practical and amusing. At one time the poulterer had not been giving satisfaction, so Mr. Spencer called his housekeeper and gave her directions to transfer his custom to another tradesman whose shop faced the delinquent's. "And, Miss Smith," said the author of "Synthetic Philosophy." "be particular that the first poulterer sees you giving your orders to the second poulterer!"

Always Lucky. McConnell-Sure, isn't Larry always th' lucky b'y? Murphy-Lucky, do ye call him, whin it was only yesterday that he fell, breakin' his leg an' his narm? McConnell-Faith, an' wasn't he lucky on that occasion, wid th' accident takin' place within twinty fate of th' hospital?-Chicago News.

On the Other Hand.

"On the one hand," said the teacher, pointing a long finger to the map on the classroom wall, "we have the far stretching country of Russia. On the other hand-what do I see on the other hand. Tommy? "Warts!" hazarded Tommy, hopeless Discretion.

Wife (whose husband, the local mayor, has just been knighted)-Have you heard from the man who offered to trace our pedigree? Husband-Yes; er, with their pedal extremities considhe has found out more than enough erably entangled. While the polite Wife-What did you pay him? Husband - Fifty pounds - to hold his tongue!-London Opinion.

The Desideratum.

"George, what do you have to do bank?" asked an innocent young wife. "You have to put some money in the bank beforehand," replied the husband. "That's always been my experience!"

A Friendly Tip.

"My husband always is the severest critic of the gowns I wear." "Well, judging from what I have heard, he has to go some if he is."-Chicago Record-Herald.

Prejudice, which sees what it pleases, cannot see what is plain.-Aubrey de

F. S. Rexford, 615 New York Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., says: "I had a severe attack of a cold which settled in my back and kidneys and I was in great pain from my trouble. A friend recommended Foley Kidney Pills and I used two bottles of them and they have done me a world of good." W. E. Brown &

The Dignity of the Office. An Indian judge when first appointed to his position was not well acquainted with Hindustani, says the Bombay Gazette. He was trying a case in which a Hindu was charged with stealing a "nilghai." The judge did not like to betray his ignorance of what a nilghai was, so he said, "Produce the stolen property. The court was held in an upper room so the usher gasped. "Please, your lordship, it's downstairs." "Then bring it up instantly!" sternly ordered the judge.

The official departed, and a minute later a loud bumping was heard, mingled with loud and earnest exhortations. Nearer came the noise; the door was pushed open, and the panting official appeared dragging in the blue bull.

The judge was dumfounded, but only for an instant.

"Ah! That will do," said he. "It is always best, when possible, for the judge personally to inspect the stolen property. Remove the stolen property, usher."

A Peek Into His Pocket

would show the box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve that E. S. Loper, a carpenter, of Marilla, N. Y., always carries." I have never had a cut, wound, bruise, or sore it would not soon heal," he writes. In Ceylon there is a considerable trade in the oil of the white shark. The fins of the animal are very rich in gelatin and are used largely by the Chinese for making soup, of which they declare that the turtle soup so prized by epicures in this country is but a distant and feeble imitation.

The Troui '> With the Meat. Stepping into a small restaurant, a grouchy old man demanded of the waiter a certain piece of meat he had in the show window.

"But," said the waiter, "we"-"No buts," replied the old man. "You bring me what I ask for or I won't get Rather than lose a customer, the waiter did as he was told and, getting the piece of meat, took it back to be cooked. After a long wait the meat was brought to the customer, who, instead of thanking the waiter, said, "Look here, young man, what is the matter with this meat?" "Nothing is the matter with it, sir, except that the paint on it has formed a few blisters from the heat" "Why, what do you mean by that?"

asked the old man.
"Simply this," replied the waiter.

"Those pieces of meat you saw in the window were not made to eat. They were made for advertising purposes, but you insisted, sir, upon having one of 'em."-Philadelphia Times.

Napoleon's Custodian at St. Helena. Sir Hudson Lowe, the man appointed by England to be the custodian of the emperor, arrived at St. Helena on April 14, 1816. His appearance was not prepossessing. He was extraordinarily thin, with a stiff carriage. He had a long, bony face blotched with red and scanty hair of a dirty yellow color. His hollow eyes gleamed under thick reddish eyebrows, but were furtive and restless, never looking straight at any one save by stealth.

"That is a bad man," declared Napoleon when he had seen him. "His eye as he examined me was like a hyena's caught in a trap."

He really resembled this horrid, sly animal in its walk as well as in hair and eyes. He never sat down when he was talking, but swung about hesitatingly and with abrupt jerts .- Stokoe, With Napoleon at St. Helena."

The Stork's Lazy House Building. The most interesting sight in the Rotterdam zoo was the stork, whose nest is set high on a pinnacle of the buffalo house. He was building in the leisurely style of the British workingman. He would negligently de scend from the heavens with a stick This he would lay on the fabric and then carefully perform his toilet, looking round and down all the time to see that every one else was busy. Whenever his eye lighted on a toddling child or a perambulator it visibly brightened. "My true work!" he seemed to say. "This nest building is mere bypaths of industry." After drinking and overlooking and congratulating himself thus for a few minutes he would stroll off over the housetops for another stick. He was unquestionably a king of the garden.-Lucas in "A Wanderer In Holland."

The Way Out.

A well known Boston physician was on his way to his office one winter morning when the sidewalks were a glare of ice. While going down the street he met a lady coming in the opposite direction. The lady was a stranger to him, although he was not unknown to her.

In trying to avoid each other on the icy pavement they both slipped and came to the sidewalk facing each othdoctor was debating in his mind what was the proper thing to do under the trying circumstances the problem was solved by the quick witted lady, who quietly remarked:

"Doctor, if you will be good enough when you draw some money out of a to rise and pick out your legs I will take what remains."

Safety Valves of the World. Terrific as are the forces of volcanic action, they have served and do yet serve their ordained purpose in the magnificent scheme of cosmic development. Volcanoes form a natural vent for the pentup internal forces resulting from the slow cooling and consolidation of the earth's mass. They act as the safety valves of the world, without which the crust of the earth would in all probability burst with explosive force and with a resulting cataclysm appalling to contemplate. Volcanoes tend, in fact, to maintain the normal stable equilibrium between the interior and the outer surface of the world. Strong Hold.

When He Was Bad. It has been said that you never know a man till you travel with him, and certainly traveling has a tendency to bring out all the depravity innate in human nature. Out of this test, however, Benjamin Disraeli emerged with flying colors. This is what was said of him by Mrs. Austen, who with her husband traveled with him when he was quite a young man, as related in Mr. Monypenny's biography:

"Your brother." she says (the letter was addressed to Disraeli's sister), "is so easily pleased, so accommodating. so amusing and so actively kind that I shall always reflect upon the domes-Johnny's mamma had put several tic part of our journey with the greatlittle fellow tried the tronsers on he haved excellently, except when there bad, and this happens almost daily."

The Whole Story of a Perfect Glass of Tea.

Why There's no Accident About the Goodness of Our Teas. They are Tested to the Cup Before Bought.

Nothing but choicest spring gathered varieties from China and Japan are used. Then we purchase in large quantities to a uniform standard, thus maintaining the excellence of our brands. For further improvement we blend several hundred pounds each of our private brands at a time and pack them away in air-tight cannisters to take on what is known in tea parlance as the "bouquet," which is really that subtle intermingling of flavors that makes a properly blendid Tea so superior to all other kinds. The embodiment of ail this goodness, plus twenty years experience will be found in our celebrated.

SATSUMA TEA, 75c. Lb.

Of a deep amber color. Perfectly beautiful when iced. A flavor like nectar. It's the real aristocrat.

Just tell us your Tea troubles and see how thoroughly we can help you. Through our superior purchasing facilities we are enabled to offer you a Rebate Coupon Worth Ten Cents In Merchandise Free With Every Pound of our private brands of Teas, thus combining every advantage of quality and price.
