

Saved His Wife's Life.

"My wife could have been in her grave to-day," writes O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., "if it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery. She was down in her bed, not able to get up without help. She had a severe bronchial trouble and a dreadful cough. I got her a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, and she soon began to mend, and was well in a short time. Infalible for coughs and colds, it's the most reliable remedy on earth for desperate lung trouble, hemorrhages, harricpe, asthma, larynx fever, croup and whooping cough, etc., and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Reprimand For Tennyson.

On one occasion when Tennyson was on a visit in Ireland with Aubrey de Vere a sultry mood overtook him, and he sought out his hostess and began to inveigh against the insanity of dancing, but the lady cut him short, saying: "How would the world get on if others went about growling at its amusements in a voice as deep as a lion's? I request that you will go upstairs, put on an evening coat and come down and ask my daughter Sophia to dance."

She Knew Him.

Husband (excitedly)—My dear, this ladies' tailor you employed says in his note if I did not settle your bill he will bring suit promptly. Wife (carelessly)—Don't worry, dear; that man makes you wait weeks. He never did bring suits promptly. — Baltimore American.

The Recompense.

"Men are so hideously lacking in self control," a young girl once said to her mother. "Well, don't find fault with that," the mother answered. "If they weren't most girls would die old maids."

Friendship.

In the hour of distress and misery the eye of every mortal turns to friendship. In the hour of gladness and conviviality what is your want? It is friendship.

Protecting Its Appearance.

"What are those hideous cards pasted all over that wall?" "They're 'Post No Bills' signs." — New York Telegraph.

A great man is made up of qualities that make or meet great occasions.— Lowell.

Foley's Kidney Remedy

is particularly recommended for chronic cases of kidney and bladder trouble. It tends to regulate and control the kidney and bladder action and is healing, strengthening and bracing. W. E. Brown & Co.

Horns Only In Name.

A young teacher who has substituted in the lower districts of the city tells this little story of one of her pupils:

There had been an entertainment at the school at which the child had received a picture from the principal. The next day the little girl appeared with the picture under her arm. Quite regretfully she laid it upon the teacher's desk.

"Mom says thank you for the picture," she imparted, drawing up her ragged little form, "but we ain't got no wall to hang it on."

"No wall?" cried the horrified young substitute. "Why, Molly, what do you mean?"

"There's five families of us in our room," Molly explained carelessly, "and we live in the middle." — Philadelphia Times.

The Bloodletting Branch.

Not every pun is as good as one credited to a Dublin gentleman of long ago by the author of a book entitled "In Many Lands." George IV., on his visit to Dublin in 1821, met at a reception Sir Philip Crampton, Ireland's greatest surgeon.

"In what branch of the service is that magnificent looking man?" asked his majesty.

The gentleman to whom the question was put was too polite to hint that the king was mistaken in supposing that the distinguished surgeon was a naval or military officer.

"Sir," he replied, "he is a general in the lancets."

F. S. Rexford, 615 New York Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., says: "I had a severe attack of a cold which settled in my back and kidneys and I was in great pain from my trouble. A friend recommended Foley's Kidney Pills and I used two bottles of them and they have done me a world of good." W. E. Brown & Co.

Cause For Tears.

Small Elmer, who had just received a severe scolding, said "Am I really so bad, mamma?"

"Yes, Elmer," she replied, "you have been a very, very bad boy."

"Well," rejoined the youngster after a moment's reflection, "you ought to be thankful that I ain't twins." — Chicago News.

Beyond the Husband Stage.

"You say you are your wife's third husband?" said one man to another during a talk.

"No; I am her fourth husband," was the reply.

"Heavens, man," said the first man, "you are not a husband; you're a habit!" — Ladies' Home Journal.

Nerve.

Lady—Why do you give me this bit of paper? Trimp—Madam, I do not like to criticize your soup, but it is not like mother used to make. Allow me to give you her recipe. — Philadelphia Bazaar.

Agreeable advice is rarely useful advice.—Massillon.

A Peek Into His Pocket

would show the box of Bucklen's Arnica-Salve that E. S. Loper, a carpenter, of Martine, N. Y., always carries. "I have never had a cut, wound, bruise, or sore it would not soon heal," he writes. Saw His Chance.

When all Westchester county was thrilling with the prospect of a railroad competition an agent of the new company that was to build west through Pellam Manor bought property for the right of way. He rang the doorbell of one resident, who was living in a rented house at $50 a month. "Will you take $6,000 for this house?" demanded the agent.

"Oh, no, I couldn't," stammered the tenant.

"Will you take $8,000?" "I couldn't do it."

"Well, think it over." Mr. tenant foxily runs around to the corner of the property and gets an agreement to sell him the property for $6,000 if he can raise the money. The railroad agent returns.

"Will you take $9,000?" "No."

"Tea?" "Yes."

"Done!" Oh, yes, there is such a thing as luck when a man has the wits to see it coming his way.—New York Press.

Killing an Unfaithful Lover.

When a Japanese she renews herself according to the following quaint custom: In the dawn of the early morning she rises and puts on a white robe and white clogs. Round her neck she hangs a small mirror, which falls to her breast, and on her head she puts a metal crown with three points, each point bearing a lighted candle. In her left hand she carries a small figure of straw or rags—supposed to represent her unfaithful lover—and this she nails to one of the sacred trees surrounding the family shrine. She then prays for the death of the man, vowing that if this comes to pass she will pull out the nails which are hurting the sacred tree and make offerings to comfort her family god. Every night she comes to the shrine, strikes in two more nails and makes the same prayer, her idea being that the god, to save his tree from further injury, will kill her lover.

A Strange Species of Deer.

Just above the buffet in the dining room of a Richmond house there hangs a huge, finely mounted antlered head. This trophy of the owner's hunting prowess is fastened so firmly to the wall that the glistening neck seems to be coming right out through the plaster. When a little boy from the city saw this decoration for the first time he eyed it with considerable curiosity and very evident uneasiness. It looked almost too lifelike for comfort. Finally the youngster asked to be excused and slipped from his chair, going into the next room. He returned to the dining room flushed with embarrassment.

"What's the matter, Harry?" asked his host.

"I wanted to see," explained the child sheepishly, "if that animal's legs were really as long as that or if he were standing on something in the next room." — Lippincott's.

A Clear Case.

The beautiful young prisoner entered the box in her own behalf. "What is your age, miss?" asked the lawyer.

"Forty-eight," was the steady reply. The feminine jury caught its breath with an audible little gasp and sat there rigid.

"How much did you pay for the hat you are wearing?"

"Ninety-eight cents."

"Are you guilty of the crime that is charged against you?"

"No." Thus did the wily prisoner attempt to establish her veracity and then convince the jury that she was innocent. But don't forget that this was a jury of women. A verdict of incurable insanity was brought in.—New York Journal.

"Yarbs" We Have Known.

What has become of the elderly lady who in the seventies and earlier always referred to an "herb" as a "yarb"? The word has gone out of use. About the meanest "yarb" was a bitter weed named "thoroughwort." Then there was chamemille, dockroot and dandelion, in their miserable partnership, lobelia and catnip. These things were "steeped," and you took them or had them thrust upon you "for your blood." — Minneapolis Journal.

Nearly a Joke.

The humorist was in a brown study. "I'll get it yet," he muttered.

"What's the matter, dear?" his wife inquired. "You seem to be puzzled about something."

"Yes," the jokesmith replied. "I'm trying to make a 'stitch in time' joke about the girl who is darned the clocks in her stockings."

Useless Sacrifice.

Duncan had eaten, with symptoms of pleasure, his first shrimp, but the mushroom that followed it proved less to his liking.

"Mother," he said, pushing the partly eaten agaric to the far edge of his plate, "I wish they hadn't killed that one." — Youth's Companion.

No Crown For Him.

Sunday School Teacher—If you are a good boy, Willie, you will go to heaven and have a gold crown on your head. Willie—Not for mine, then, I had one of them things put on a tooth once.—Exchange.

Not Much Resistance.

"Did the prisoner offer any resistance?" "Only a shilling, your worship, and I wouldn't take it."

Premeditated. "And why do you claim that it was with malice aforethought that the automobile defendant ran down the complainant?"

"On the morning it happened, he was going, I heard him say that he was going to take out his new auto and see if he could not run across a few people he knew." — Houston Post.

A Giddy Girl.

"Is your daughter of a practical turn of mind?" "No; she is very frivolous. Wants to take cooking lessons instead of perfecting her game of bridge." — Exchange.

His Honest Face.

"Anyway, he has an honest face." "Honest? You surprise me."

"Yes; it's the only honest thing about him. It shows how dishonest he really is." — Life.

SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN THE HAIR

Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair, with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to old-time, tiresome methods of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wynth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. The manufacturers of this remedy authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented. This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.
