The Biggest Store, The Biggest Stock, The Biggest Bargains.

It is useless to explain why everybody is happy to know that Mr. Krasnoff has returned home from the Northern markets. Of course, everybody knows what that means. Krasnoff's return means money in your pockets, because during his stay North he bought up the biggest bargains for his trade at home. Yes, everybody has been expecting a big sale, but instead of calling it a sale we will give you even bigger bargains than ever before. We have now in stock the biggest assortment of all up-to-date goods. We carry now the finest line in all departments and only ask your inspection and we can convince you that all your wants can be purchased at our store at a great saving. We would like to give you prices on all our goods, but this being impossible in this limited space we will quote a few prices at random:

Nature's Hair Restorer

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Restores Gray Hair to Natural Color

Sulphur is a Natural Element of the Hair
 When there is not a sufficient amount of sulphur in the hair, it loses its life, color and strength, turns gray, and falls out. There are many forms of sulphur, but only one kind that is suitable for treatment of the hair and scalp, and that is the kind used in preparing WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY.

We Have the Secret, and We Give You the Benefit of It at an Exceedingly Low Price

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair, and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

THE HOME BANK AND TRUST CO.
 MANNING, S. C.

Banking as we have it now is of recent growth. Not very long ago there were few banks and they were patronized only by men who did a large business. All others hoarded their savings in strong boxes or in hidden places, such as a loose brick in the fire place, the middle of a mattress, or a hole in the ground. Under the conditions of other times this was the best that could be done; but time and again all of a man's capital or all of the savings of a family were swept away by fire, storm or theft. Sometimes the head of the family died without disclosing the hiding place of his money and his family suffered as a result. All of this is unnecessary now, and our bank will take your money, keep it safely for you and return it to you or to the persons in whose favor you draw checks at any time and in such amounts as you wish. In this way you are absolutely guarded from loss. Besides this, if you wish, you can deposit your money in the savings department and it will begin at once to earn more money for you.

How He Won the Votes.
 A physician in a small town wanted to be mayor. Politicians told him he had no chance—the machine was against him. A few days before the election he printed the following card in the paper:
 "To the People of Binghamton—I am getting old and have decided that before I die I would like to be mayor of Binghamton. I have no particular platform to run on except that I want the office. I have lived here forty years, have paid my taxes without a murmur, collected what I could and forgiven and forgotten many omissions. If I am not elected I will publish in the Binghamton Herald what I know about people in this community."
 When the votes were counted the old doctor received all but three, and those three were cast by people who had moved into the town that spring.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Property Man Knew.
 An English actor tells a good story of the old days of the touring fust companies. They were at Oldham playing a melodrama called "Current Cash." One of the properties essential to the piece was a light rowing scull, with which the hero had to push himself off into the stream. When the company reached Oldham the oar was missing, but the property man promised to have one ready for the evening's performance, says the Pall Mall Gazette. That afternoon, with evident ceases of his room a real human skull, and when it was pointed out to him that it was hardly what was required he declared in haughty tones:
 "If that skull's good enough for Hamlet it ought to be good enough for a piece like 'Current Cash.'"

Thanking the Bishop.
 A vicar in England was taken suddenly ill, and his church warden was in great difficulty about getting a substitute when the bishop of the diocese, hearing of the circumstance, offered to take the Sunday services himself. The church warden, wishing "to do the right thing," at the close of the service went up to the bishop and after thanking him stammered out, "A poorer preacher would have done for us, your lordship, but we were unable to find one!"

The American Temperament.
 "You observe," remarked the host, who was showing the distinguished foreign visitor around Newport, "that we Americans devote ourselves to pleasure regardless of expense."
 "I'd hardly put it that way," retorted the witty foreigner. "Rather you devote yourselves to expense regardless of pleasure."—Boston Transcript.

His Comparison.
 "Footlitt is a good actor," said a playwright who was criticizing a New York production wherein the hero's part was very badly cast, "and in this part he does his best; but, by Jove, doesn't he remind you of a man trying to play a Tschalkowsky symphony on a typewriter?"

Hopeless Case.
 "Why don't you make hay while the sun shines and?"
 "Fuh! If I tried to do that it'd just be my luck to get sunstruck."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Sharp Banking.
 Everybody is familiar with the little savings banks for ten cent pieces, the kind that holds fifty dimes and cannot be opened until it is full. Such a bank was given to a little girl and her brother, the children of a Washington official. It contained one dime, a nest egg. The day was warm and soon the desire of the joint owners of the bank to convert the deposit into two glasses of soda water became all but uncontrollable. The question was how to get the money out. Finally the boy—destined, his father thinks, to become a Napoleon of finance—hit upon a plan and dragged his sister to the nearest drug store. There he explained the situation to the man behind the counter and broached his plan of operations. In short, he asked the man to lend him forty-nine ten cent pieces for a minute or two. The man was ready for a customer, produced the needed coins and the little boy and girl went home penniless and happy.—New York Tribune.

The Blow on the Jaw.
 A man struck with any degree of force upon the mental area of the jaw, although he may be in perfect physical condition, instantly collapses and falls to the ground, says a medical journal. The attitude assumed in recovery, which may be instantaneous or delayed some minutes, is most characteristic. He squirms about, raises his head and rolls his eyes in an attempt to locate himself. He tries to get on his side and elbow; he endeavors to rise upon his hands and knees. If he regains his feet he staggers like a drunk man, and should he proceed to reopen hostilities he is usually promptly "put out" by his adversary. The blow is practically never fatal; the heart's action is never unduly accelerated; the pulse and respiration are normal; the pupils are normal; there is no headache, no sweats, no cold extremities, no pallor—none of the ordinary signs of shock or concussion.

When the Time Comes.
 Man little knows what calamities are beyond his patience to bear till he tries them. As in ascending the heights of ambition, which look bright from below, every step we rise shows us some new and gloomy prospect of hidden disappointment, so in our descent from the summits of pleasure, though the vale of misery below may appear at first dark and gloomy, yet the busy mind, still attentive to its own amusement, finds as we descend something to flatter and to please. Still, as we approach the darkest objects appear to brighten and the mortal eye becomes adapted to its gloomy situation.—Goldsmith.

When the World Is Full.
 The mean decennial rate of increase in the population of the world is 8 per cent, and at this rate the 28,000,000 square miles comprising the fertile regions of the earth, which Ravenstein computed can only support 207 persons per square mile, will have their maximum population of 5,994,000,000 persons in the year 2072. This estimate allows fourteen persons per square mile in the 18,000,000 square miles of steppes and deserts.
