Women!

If weak, you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from gentle herbs, acts in a natural manner, and has no bad results...

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Lula Walden, of Gramlin, S. C., followed this advice. Read her letter: 'I was so weak, when I first began to take Cardui, that it tired me to walk just a little. Now, I can do all the general housework, for a family of 9.' Try Cardui for your troubles. It may be the very remedy you need.

Humor of the Barometer. It was a beautiful barometer. It glistened from its splendid wooden case with a spick and spanness that boasted of its newness...

An Innocent Victim. General F. D. Grant, at a dinner at West Point, once analyzed the military genius of Washington. 'Washington,' he said, 'gave us our independence by campaigning faultlessly. He never made mistakes. There have been more brilliant soldiers than Washington, but there has never been so sure a one. In warfare, you must know, the smallest mistake may lose a whole battle, a whole campaign, a whole cause. And that reminds me of poor Tom White.'

A Gilded Gown. During the reign of King George I. Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman: 'The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown bills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every needle had an old stump of a tree than ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gliding of the sun.'

Grown Cautious. Chatty Lodger (to landlord) - You seem to have seen a good deal. What are you? Landlord - Well, sir, I was a lion tamer, and I'd be there now if I hadn't a married, but you see, my wife was a knife thrower in the same show, and she got to practicing her turn on me. Well, thinks I, life ain't too long to run no risks, so I took on a safe job and became a steeplejack. - London Punch.

Foley's Kidney Remedy vs. a Hopeless Case. Hon. Ark. J. E. Freeman says: 'I had a severe case of kidney trouble and could not work and my case seemed hopeless. One large bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me and I have never been bothered since. I always recommend it.' The Dickson Drug Co.

Oxygen as a Cutting Tool. A jet of burning oxygen from a blowpipe may be successfully employed to cut sheet iron, iron tubes and small bars. The cut made is almost as sharp and thin as that made by a saw. In earlier attempts difficulty was encountered in clearing the cut of liquid metal and in preventing the spread of the molten metal beyond the borders of the cut. In later processes two blowpipes were used. The first has an ordinary oxyhydrogen flame, which heats the iron to redness at the place where the cut is to be made. This is followed immediately by the second jet, composed of pure oxygen, which instantly burns the metal without melting. The liquidized iron is blown swiftly from the fissure, so that there is no serious spreading of the heat to surrounding parts. - St. Louis Republic.

Two Days In One. Chatham Island, lying off the coast of New Zealand, in the south Pacific ocean, is peculiarly situated, as it is one of the few habitable points of the globe where the day of the week changes. It is just on the line of the demarcation between dates. There at 12 noon on Sunday Sunday ceases, and instantly Monday meridian begins. Sunday comes into a man's house on the east side and becomes Monday by the time it passes out of the western door. A man sits down to his noonday dinner on Sunday, and it is Monday noon before he finishes it. - London Globe.

Spanish Etiquette. There is a curious story of how the Duke d'Aosta when king of Spain told a muleteer to whom he was talking to cover himself, the sun being hot, forgetting that by so doing he made the muleteer a grandee. Marshal Prim, to prevent this catastrophe, knocked the man's hat out of his hand, and according to some, the muleteer had something to do with the assassination that followed a few days afterward.

Powerful Paper. A surveyor when inspecting one of the cottages under his care had his attention called by the tenant to a large diagonal crack in one of the walls, close to which they were standing, with the remark from Mrs. Hodge, 'I am afraid, sir, as the old house be coming down, sir.' 'We will see to this,' said the agent, and taking from his pocket a few strips of stamp edging, he pasted them transversely over the fissure so that he might on his next visit see whether the crack had extended and whether it was a settlement or not. On his calling about a month afterward he found the pieces of stamp edging still remaining unbroken and, pointing out to the old lady that the crack had not opened any farther, was amused with the unheeding remark: 'Yes, sir, but who'd ha' thought as two or three such bits of paper would ha' held us together?' - London Answers.

James C. Dahlman, 'Cowboy' Mayor of Omaha, 'Throws the Lariat.' Mayor Jas. C. Dahlman stated his career as a cowboy, and is at present Mayor of Omaha, and has the following record: Sheriff of Dawes Co. Neb., three terms; Mayor of Chadron, two terms; Democratic National Committeeman, eight years; Mayor of Omaha, six years, and in 1910 candidate for Governor of Nebraska. Writing to Foley & Co., Chicago, he says: 'I have taken Foley Kidney Pills and they have given me a great deal of relief so I cheerfully recommend them.' Yours truly, (Signed) JAMES C. DAHLMAN, The Dickson Drug Co.

Quick Action. A southern farmer was trying to sell a mule to a negro who two years before had been kicked on the head by the animal. 'Of course,' said the farmer, 'this mule kicks, but...' 'I don't want him,' objected the colored man, emphatically. 'Just because he kicks?' asked the farmer, with an air of contempt. 'Humph!' grunted the negro. 'Dat mule don't kick; he shoots.' - Popular Magazine.

A Witty Thief. Munich has been visited by a thief with a sense of humor. Several days ago all the clocks in the ministry of railways came to a standstill. The central or 'master clock,' which controls all the others, had been stolen. In its place was a sheet of paper with the words, 'Time was made for slaves.'

Making a Hero. A nourishing supper, a good night's sleep and a fine morning have often made a hero of the same man who by indigestion, a restless night and a rainy morning would have proved a coward. - Chesterfield.

Coming Down. The Madam (with a hand to her head) - Is my hair coming down, Kate? The Maid - Yes, ma'am, in a minute. I'm going right upstairs for it now. - Yonkers Statesman.

After exposure, and when you feel a cold coming on, take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It checks and relieves. Use no substitute. The genuine in a yellow package always. The Dickson Drug Co.

THE HOME BANK AND TRUST CO., MANNING, S. C.

Banking is not confined at all to men. Ladies need a Bank in their affairs also. It is very unsafe for ladies to have it known that they have money in the house, as it is a temptation to robbers. Besides this, although ladies seem to save money better than men, yet even they can save it better by depositing in a Bank and having a record of all expenditures than by keeping the cash.

There is another very good reason why this should be done. If you place it in our savings department it will be earning four per cent interest, computed quarterly for you.

We desire to have a large number of lady depositors and are making a special effort to please them.

A Fit of the Blues. It is a hard saying, but 'the blues' may generally be traced to one or both of two horrid qualities—greed and laziness. Nine times out of ten the low spirited person is suffering from auto-toxication—from too much food taken into the body and too little attention paid to elimination or to proper exercise. The human mechanism can take care of only a certain amount of food. After that point has been passed it seems to turn sullen in its efforts to ignore what it cannot help, and, although it is a wonderfully conducted chemical laboratory up to the limit of its own needs, it is not at all amiable about working overtime. The result is that all superfluous products sent to it are permitted to lie round and become poisonous. This poison is promptly taken up by the blood and carried to all parts of the body, including the brain. The brain, which needs a plentiful supply of clean blood to enable it to do its thinking, is naturally ignorant at finding poor and impure blood supplied to it, and, although not actually going on strike, it refuses to be either pleasant or reasonable.—Youth's Companion.

How They Did Hate Wagner. Wagner's music was at one time violently opposed in England, and Ford Madox Hueffer, whose father was musical critic of the London Times, gives in his 'Ancient Lights' some curious instances of the lengths to which the campaign was carried. 'The compositions of Wagner were denounced as being atheistic, sexually immoral and tending to further socialism and the throwing of bombs. Wagnerites were threatened with assassination, and assaults between critics of the rival schools were things not unknown in the foyer of the opera. I have in my possession three letters from three different members of the public addressed to my father. The writers stated that unless Dr. Hueffer abstained from upholding the blasphemous music of the future—and in each case the writer used the word blasphemous—he would be respectively stabbed, flogged in a horsepad and beaten to death by hired ruffians.'

Wonder What Tennyson Said. In his volume of reminiscences Professor E. B. Poniton writes of a visit to Boston, where he met several notables. Holmes spoke of Emerson stamping his foot with rage when he could not remember a name. He mentioned the Corbett-Mitchell prizefight, which had just taken place, and said, 'I own to a lurking sympathy with prizefighting, perhaps because I am so unfitted for the ring myself.' He told Professor Poniton he would never repeat to any one what Tennyson said to him when he entered his house. William James pressed him to do so with the assurance, 'There are no reporters here.' But Dr. Holmes replied with emphasis: 'I have said that I will never tell any one. It was not a thing that I should have supposed any man would say to a guest he had invited to his house.'

Pen and Sword. 'Do you believe the pen is mightier than the sword?' 'Of course it is. Who ever had to pay $25,000 damages in a breach of promise case on account of the sword he carried?' - Chicago Record-Herald.

Champion Egg Layers. Many insects are extremely prolific. All of the order Hymenoptera, the bees and ants, lay large numbers, but they are easily exceeded by the order Plecoptera, the stone flies, one female of which deposits from 5,000 to 6,000 eggs. But the champion egg layers are the insects embraced in the order Isoptera, the white ants. Dr. Howard states that these insects are called white ants because they are not ants and because they are not white, but he further goes on to tell us that the females of some of the African species grow to an enormous size, and their abdomens, swollen with eggs, becomes as big as a large potato. The rate at which the eggs are laid is extraordinary, being about sixty a minute, or 80,000 and upward a day.

Rooms to Let Signs in Paris. The Parisian householder who has more room than he requires does not simply put out a card printed in small type which will lure from across the street a weary man or woman who is in search of 'unfurnished' but finds that here are only 'furnished rooms' or the other way about. A white card on a Parisian dwelling means that furnished apartments are to let and all who run may read. A yellow card conveys to the passerby the knowledge that unfurnished lodgings are there available. - Boston Post.

When Knighthood Was in Flower. Mrs. Liteknight—Could you oblige me with a heavy hammer, a chisel, your pliers and half a dozen rivets? Mrs. Liteknight—Certainly. Are you doing a little sewing for the children? Mrs. Liteknight—No. My husband ripped his Sunday coat yesterday, and I want to mend it.

Easier Way. 'Don't you think it must be a dreadful thing to live from hand to mouth?' 'I don't know. I live myself from hand to foot.'

Molded by Circumstances. Yoshio Markino in McClure's tells the following anecdote of his literal mindedness: 'At the grammar school I used to believe all that I was taught. But very often I made an awful misunderstanding. For instance, our readers said: 'The human nature is just like the water. If you put the water into a square vessel the water will become square, and if you put it into a round vessel it will have a round shape. Boys and girls, therefore you must choose your friends.' 'No sooner than the school hour was over I ran to my neighbor who had a newly born baby. I told the mother, 'Don't put your baby in a hard, flat bed; her figure will become flat.'
