Whitewash Brush in Spain.
In Spain, where the ruins of Moorish towers are seen upon the crests of many hills as the express train crawls along at the rate of fifteen or twenty miles an hour, the evidences of surviving Moorish influence upon the people and customs of Andalusia make an interesting study. In the city of Ronda it is plain that the ideas of home building which the Arabs brought into the Iberian peninsula remain vital today. The whitewash brush is the great leveler of distinction between the rich and the poor in Spain. The exteriors of homes—great manor houses upon the haciendas, huts of mountaineers clinging to the sides of the almost perpendicular hills, handsome homes of rich merchants in the cities and humble tenements—are nearly all of plaster. A few of them are calcimined in blue or brown or pink, but the majority are pure white. Ronda is a white city with a few patches of blue and pink and looks as if the whitewash brush had just been applied.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Got Right Down to Business.
James Russell Lowell, when ambassador to England, returned liberally to a London society and one day sent a deserving young American there to be assisted home. But the American was told that, though his case was eminently deserving, the society was just then short of funds.

When Lowell heard this he sat down and wrote the society a terse and vigorous letter. "Dear sirs," he began, "for the last seven years I have contributed annually 25 guineas to your organization. I regret to learn you were unable to assist the young man I recommended to you a few days ago. If you will kindly return to me one of my contributions I will send him to America at my own expense, as I am convinced the case is a most deserving one."

The society did not return any of Mr. Lowell's cash, but it found means somehow to dispatch the young man home by the next boat.

Old Time Trade Signs.

On nearly all street corners even in the largest metropolis of Europe may be found relics of the middle ages and of the earliest times. Take, for instance, the wooden image of a shoe, which every cobbler hangs out above his door. It goes back for its origin to the Rome of the pre-Christian era. In the ruins of the lava buried cities of Herculaneum and Pompeii many shop signs of stone and terra cotta have been discovered, the forerunners of those that for centuries adorned the highways not only of Europe, but of the new world. Among them was the emblem of the shoemaker's trade, a cupid carrying a dainty pair of women's shoes. But the Romans did not stop there. They used the image of a goat to indicate the dairies, that of a mule driving a mill to point out the bakers' shops and a bush of evergreen to direct the thirsty traveler to a tavern. This particular sign gave rise to the English proverb, "Good wine needs no bush."

The View From an Aeroplane.

It is a great surprise to the untutored to see how uniform the surface of the earth appears when viewed from a great altitude. Although individual objects are hard to identify, such things as rivers, lakes and railroads are easily recognized by their contour, direction or some slight individuality or characteristic which can readily be shown upon a map, especially if the map is made or corrected by men who fly above the earth and get an accurate and literal bird's-eye view of its surface. Objects which seem to loom up with the greatest clearness to one standing on the surface of the earth appear very different and quite insignificant when viewed from above, while a patch of colored soil which would not be noticed at all by a person standing on the ground is a most valuable landmark to the air sailor.—Columbian Magazine.

Cure Your Kidneys.

Do Not Endanger Life When a Manning Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a tested remedy is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work. If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney disease, cure yourself now, before gravel, dropsy, or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Manning testimony:

James E. Reardon of Manning, S. C., says: "Some years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills, obtained from Dr. W. E. Brown & Co.'s drug store and I found them to be a valuable kidney medicine. They brought me prompt and lasting relief from backache and pains across my loins and did me a world of good."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Triple Play. It was at the end of the ninth inning. Yet though the home team was two runs to the good, things looked black for them.

The visitors were at bat. There were no outs, and three men were on base; also Terrible Terry Tomkins was up, and Terry's batting average reached the clouds.

Terry hunched his shoulders and waited confidently, and a groan went up from the bleachers.

The ball flew in three places, and the pieces flew in three directions. One was caught by the pitcher, one was pulled out of the air by the shortstop, and one landed in the first baseman's mitt. A triple play! The game was the home team's.

The bleachers went wild.—Philadelphia Times.

Dr. King's New Life Pills The best in the world.

A Father's Vengeance would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy of South Rockwood, Mich., but he was powerless before attacks of kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help him," he wrote, "so at last we gave him Electric Bitters and he improved wonderfully from taking six bottles. It's the best kidney medicine I ever saw." Backache, tired feeling, nervousness, loss of appetite, warning of kidney trouble that may end in dropsy, diabetes or bright's disease. Beware! Take Electric Bitters and be safe. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c at all druggists.

A Styrian Peasant Superstition
A lawsuit for libel brought by an apothecary in Pollau, in Styria, against a young peasant reveals an extraordinary superstition prevalent among the country people. They believe that apothecaries and doctors have the right to kill at least one man and one woman every year in order to make medicines out of their bodies. An accidental movement of the apothecary at Pollau, Herr Kobermauser, when giving medicine to a boy named Putz led the latter to believe he was going to be killed. He ran away, but got such a fright that he fell ill. The inhabitants believed his story and boycotted the apothecary, who was at length compelled to prosecute. Putz was sentenced to fourteen days' imprisonment, but his parents, who had spread the story, were acquitted on the ground that they had acted in good faith.—London Standard.

One Use of the Eel.
It is difficult to exhaust the uses of the eel. Experts in top whipping pronounce a dried eel skin an admirable lash, and tops are by no means the only victims thereof. There is that affecting passage in Mr. Peppy's diary: "April 24, 1908. Up betimes, and with my salt eel went down in the parlor and there got my boy and did beat him till I was fain to take breath two or three times. Yet for all I am feared it will make the boy never the better, he is grown so hardened in his trials, which I am sorry for, he being capable of making a brave man and is a boy that I and my wife love very well." "Salt eel" appears to have been a nautical term for a rope's end, and it is not certain that Peppy's instrument of castigation was actual eel's skin. But the original "salt eel" laid its mark.—London Chronicle.

The Sense of Smell.
"It is the upper part of the nose that smells," said a perfumer. "The lining there is very sensitive and brown in color, not red, as in the lower nose. Men are more sensitive to odors than women. Scientific tests have shown, I believe, that while many men can detect the smell of prussic acid even when there is only one part of the acid to two million parts of water, the average woman fails to detect the smell if there are less than ten parts of the acid. Though the white man is much less sensitive to odors than the savage, a prolonged stay in a part of the world where smells are few puts a very fine edge on the sense of smell. Dr. Nansen has declared that when returning from the ice world to Franz Josef Land he knew when he was approaching the assistant he had left there by smelling his scented soap long before he saw him. He could, too, when approaching the hut have given an inventory of the stores there, as he smelled everything it contained separately and distinctly."

Ruled His Servants by Fines.
Sir Richard Newdigate, a seventeenth century Warwickshire squire, whose papers were published some years ago by one of his descendants, ruled his servants by a system of fines. The value at which he rated domestic crimes is shown by such entries in his diary as: "Nan Newton, for breaking a teapot, 2s. 6d.; Richard Knight, for pride and slighting, 2s. 6d.; William Hetherington, for not being ready to go to church three Sundays, 18 pence; Thomas Birrell, for being late, 10 shillings; cook, dead drunk, 10 shillings." As his cook's wages were only 3 a year she paid pretty dearly for her lapse from sobriety. Sir Richard had a system of rewards as well as penalties. "To my three daughters," he writes, "because they came to prayers, 3 shillings;" and "to Tom Cooper, who worked hard after he broke his head, 2s. 6d."

Business Before Pleasure.
Fussy Man (hurrying into newspaper office)—I've lost my spectacles somewhere, and I want to advertise for them, but I can't see to write without them, you know. Advertising Clerk (likely to be business manager some day)—I will write the ad. for you, sir. Any marks on them? Fussy Man—Yes, yes. Gold rimmed, lenses distant focus, and letters L. Q. C. on inside. Insert it three times. Advertising Clerk—Yes, sir. Ten shillings. Fussy Man—Here it is. Advertising Clerk—Thanks. It gives me, sir, great pleasure—very great pleasure, to inform you, sir, that your spectacles are on top of your head. Fussy Man—My stars! So they are. Why didn't you say so before? Advertising Clerk—Business before pleasure, you know.—London Mail.

Cats in Ancient Wales.
An ancient statute ascribed to Howell the Good, a Welsh prince, who ruled in 945, regulated the price of cats. A penny was the price of a kitten before its eyes were open, twopence until it had caught its first mouse and fourpence when it was old enough for combat. He who stole a cat from the royal granaries forfeited either a milk ewe, with its fleece and lamb, or as much wheat as would cover the body of the cat suspended by its tail, with its nose touching the ground. A penny was a coin of great purchasing power in the tenth century.

A Mail Carrier's Load
seems heavier when he has a weak back and kidney trouble. Fred Duenen, Mail carrier at Atchison, Kas., says: "I have been bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and had a severe pain across my back. Whenever I carried a heavy load of mail, my kidney trouble increased. Some time ago, I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills and since taking them I have gotten entirely rid of all my kidney trouble and am as sound now as ever."—The Dickson Drug Co.
