Diamonds From Jugar

It can be stated with perfect truth that a lump of sugar may be furthest into diamonds. Not all the substance of the sugar, of course, will enter into the composition of the gem, but only the carbon that it contains. Sugar consists of carbon united with oxygen and hydrogen. The carbon can be easily sevarated out, and in certain experiments for the production of diamonds this sugar carbon has been employed. The diamonds so produced were, of course, very small and destitute of commercial value, but still they are real diamonds, and the chemical result achieved would be no greater intrinsically if they were as large as the Kohinoor. The hope has often been held out that an improvement in the process of manufacturing diamonds may be effected whereby the necessity of dissolving the carbon in molten iron may be dispensed with.

and the required combination of great pressure with great heat may be brought about by some such operation as squeezing the carbon between Superstition About Cats.

In the Monferrato it is believed that all the cats who wander about upon the roofs during the month of February are really witches, whom it is lawful and even necessary to shoot. An old German superstition has it that if a black cat sits upon the bed of a sick man it is a presage of his death.

while if after his decease it is seen upon his grave it is enough to arouse doubts as to the locality to which his soul has departed. In Hungary it is thought that cats generally become witches between the ages of seven and twelve years. A French belief concerning the cat is that if the animal be carried in a cart and the wind blow from it to the horses they immediately fall tired. If any part of the horse-

Robert E. Lee's Definition of the Qualities That Make Him. Lee hated parade, display and ceremony, hated above all things being made an object of public gaze and adulation. His idea of high position was high responsibility, a superior was simply one who had larger duties, and the mark of a gentleman was a keen sense of the feelings and susceptibilities of others. No one has ever expressed this attitude more delicately than he himself in this memorandum found among his papers after his

"The forbearing use of power does not only form a touchstone, but the manner in which an individual enjoys certain advantages over others is a test of a true gentleman. The power which the strong have over the weak, the magistrate over the citizen, the employer over the employed, the educated over the unlettered, the experienced over the confiding, even the clever over the silly-the forbearing or inoffensive use of all this power or authority or a total abstinence from it when the case admits it, will show the gentleman in a plain light. The gentleman does not needlessly and unnecessarily remind an offender of a wrong he may have committed against him. He cannot only forgive; he can forget. and he strives for that nobleness of self and mildness of character which Impart sufficient strength to let the past be but the past. A true man of honor feels humbled himself when he cannot belp humbling others."-Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., in Atlantic.

SKIN OF A BADGER.

So Loose the Animal Can Almost Turn Around In It.

The pelt of an adult badger is extremely thick and difficult for a biting adversary to penetrate, writes a trapper in Fur News, and so loosely does the skin cover the body that the animal is able to turn almost around in its

Should a dog acquire a hold on the throat the badger turns himself so that the dog's grip is on the back of the badger's neck without having loosened his first hold. Then the badger secures a viselike grip upon some vulnerable portion of his enemy, and while his long tusks penetrate to the limit be digs and scratches with his front feet, which are furnished with claws almost as formidable and deadly as might be expected from an anteater of the dark

He who has removed the pelt of a badger and is at all observing does not wonder at this animal being sharp bitten and that he is able to hang with bulldog tenacity when the formation and adjustment of his jaws are noted. Neither is it so much of a mystery how he manages to bore through the soil so rapidly that half a dozen men with shovels cannot overtake him, for he is mass of cords and muscles, partic-:ly in the neck, chest and shoulders, Children's Prattle.

At times it cannot be denied the queslons of children become irksome, but who would wish a child to ask no quesions? Julius Sturm tells in one of his retty fairy tales how a grandfather, iriven into impatience by the constant mestionings of his grandchild, exdaimed, "I wish your tongue were out of joint!" But when unexpectedly his wish was fulfilled and the child became lumb how he joyfully exchanged on of the two years which an angel had prophesied he was yet to live for the privilege of hearing the little one's prattle again!-Exchange.
