No Statute Against Importation of Whiskey for Personal Use, Says South Carolina Supreme Court, But Pass Such Law, Opinion Adds.

There is no statute by the State prohibiting the importation of liquor from another State for personal use, and the Webb Act gives the State the right to enact such a statute if it so desires, is the opinion of the South a case testing the constitutionality of the Webb Act, which was passed by Congress withdrawing the protection of the interstate commerce from whiskey shipments from one State to another.

The opinion holds that the old Dispensary Act, forbidding the ordering of liquor for personal use from other states, having been declared unconstitutional before the passage of the Webb Act, could not be vitalized by the passage of the Webb Act.

"It is not the intention of the Webb Act to interfere with the policy of the State in regard to the importation of liquor, but merely to provide that the enforcement of a State statute would not be interfered with, or hampered by the interstate commerce laws," says the decision.

"In other words, the Act in this cision, "while it is encumbent on the I could get the situation somewhat said, to get the wages due him. Mr. states to enact legislation of an active in hand. nature, if they are desirous of prohibiting the importation of liquors for personal use or other purposes. But even if Congress had undertaken to give validity to an unconstitutional state statute it would have been beyond its powers.

"While the Legislature cannot pass an Act, validating the provision of the dispensary statute which we have declared to be unconstitutional, so as to give it a retroactive effect, it, nevertheless, has the power to adopt a statute with similar provisions, having a prospective effect, prohibiting alcoholic liquors from being imported into this State. Such a statute would not contravene any provision of the United States Constitu-

The classification of the counties so as to allow the sale of liquor in some of them, while it is not prohibited in others, would not be violative of Section 1, of the 14th amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which provides that no State shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the full protection of the laws."

The case arose in Richland County through W. W. Atkinson bringing suit to secure an injunction against the Southern Express Company from enforcing its order refusing to deliver shipments of whiskey in South Carolina for personal use. The injunction is granted by the Court, the opinion being written by Chief Justice Gary and concurred in by Associate Justices Woods, Hydrick and

Associate Justice Fraser says: "1 concede that the above statement, so strongly made, is correct, but I dissent from the judgment. The regulation complained of in the petition refers exclusively to interstate commerce, and I think this Court has no jurisdiction to interfere."

A test case was brought under the same conditions in Kershaw County, and the Court grants the injunction in this case on the same grounds as in that from Richland.

Says Action of Supreme Court on Webb Bill Makes Discharge of Constables Necessary.

The Columbia correspondent of The News and Courier says as a result of the decision of the Supreme Court on the Webb law, announced yesterday afternoon, Governor Blease said this afternoon there was no use Webb Act Gives State Right to for him to continue to keep State constables in operation and he addressed a letter to his constables, telling them that he would have no use for their services after the 1st of June.

There is no statute by the State prohibiting the importation of liquor from another State for personal use, and the Webb Act gives the State the Carolina Supreme Court, in deciding right to enact such a statute if it so desires is the opinion of the South Carolina Supreme court. When asked about the decision of the Supreme Court in the Webb case, and its effect upon his policy, the Governor said:

I have had my constabulary force full, my detectives at work, and recently counties have been calling on me to presumed that the Attorney General's views would be sustained, or, if not, that the members of the Court, who I presume are prohibitionists-certainly politically, if not otherwisethe majority of them-would help me out in this fight, by holding the decision, even as it was rendered, until

When the pistol shots rang out and negro waitresses, with bulging eyes, ran screaming from the kitchen into the dining room, the young women were greatly startled. They rose to their feet, and some prepared to flee. Mrs. Sarah M. Huber, the dean, finally restored calm.

From Hendersonville, N. C., to Charleston, 265 miles, in seventeen hours, is the record made on Wednesday by Mr. John F. Maybank, Mr. Francis S. Hanckel, Dr. Joseph Maybank and Mr. Mullins, in Mr. J. F. Maybank's automobile, says The News and Courier.

The actual running of the touring car was only fourteen hours, which is believed to be the record. The party left the mountain town at 5 a. m. and arrived at Charleston at 10 p. m., raving stopped in Newberry for an hour and in Columbia for an hour. The average running time was nineteen miles an hour, which in consideration of the sorry condition of some stretches of road, was very fast.

Mr. Maybank made these observations from his odometer: Distance from Hendersonville to Greenville, 41 miles; from Greenville to Laurens, 36 miles; from Laurens to Newberry, 33 miles; from Newberry to Columbia, 43 miles; from Columbia to St. Matthews, 33 miles; from St. Matthews to Holly Hill, 34 miles; from Holly Hill to Charleston, 45 miles.

According to Mr. Maybank's odometer the distance from Hendersonville to Charleston by the route taken is 265 miles, most of which is over roads that are excellent, on the average. The party greatly enjoyed the rip, not being very much fatigued, though they were in the machine for fourteen hours.

WILSON COMES OUT FOR FREE CLERGYMEN. SUGAR AND WOOL

WANTS NO COMPROMISE

Regards It as the Duty of the Democratic Majority in the Senate to Fulfill the Platform Pledge by Enacting the House Tariff Bill Into

President Wilson came out strongly Thursday as the champion of free wool and free sugar in three years as provided for in the tariff bill recently passed by the House. He announced emphatically that he was not considering compromises of any sort; that he stood squarely behind the measure sented by the Rev. Walter Mitchell, as it passed the House and that he regarded it as the duty of the Democratic majority in the Senate to fulfill dress and some of the recent ways of its platform pledge by enacting the House bill into law.

"I am not the kind," said the President, "that could ask compromises when I once take my position. I have taken my stand with the House leaders for the present bill. Enough said. I am not loking for or accepting compromises."

The President's utterance was made a half a hundred newspaper correspondents who gathered as usual at the White House for the semi-weekly conference. Practically at the same time the Senate was engaged in protracted debate at the end of which an agreement was reached to vote on the question of public hearings on the tariff bill.

While the President smilingly let it be known that he was expressing no opinion whatsoever on the proposal for hearings and that this was a subject for the Senate to dispose of, his statement of unqualified support for the House bill was taken generally to mean that Mr. Wilson considered arguments from special interest on the tariff schedules to have been closed when the measure passed the House. He is understood to regard the effort to obtain hearings as a filibustering device.

The correspondents were about to leave the office when the President asked if it were true that reports were being circulated of compromise on the wool and sugar schedules. All day there had been rumors that concessions of some kind would be made on the principal schedules in order to satisfy opposition in the Senate.

The President had been told by was an expectation that a duty would be put on raw wool or that the proyears would be dropped. It was to two residences were destroyed and which erstwhile bore the immortal took occasion to make his position clear.

Of course, it is expected at the White House that ther ewill be minor changes in the bill made by the finance committee, certain equalizations and corrections which have been approved by House leaders since the bill left their hands, but in the principal schedules, such as wool and sugar, the President is determined that there shall be no change if he can prevent. There were even intimations that he might veto a bill that came from the Senate with amendments on wool or sugar.

Some Republicans Declare Democrat

Republican politicians at Washington expressed the opinion recently that they saw a "joker" in the administration's decision to revoke an order of former President Taft bringing 50,000 fourth class postmasters into the civil service, this decision providing hereafter for examinations or Democrats and Republicans alike.

Republican congressmen see large possibilities in the action of the ad-

That the postmaster general will see to it that the Republican eligibles are passed over for Democrats is not only expected, but it has been asserted on good authority for weeks that this was just what Post-ning in the way the Republicans see Under such an arrangement a Republican incumbent of an office would have little chance. He might pass a successful examination. Some Democrat or more than one in the community would probably get on the eligible list. The post office department, as Republican members of master General Burleson was plan-congress view it, will do the rest. In other words, while the Senate Democrats are just now crying out against overloading the civil service with Republicans, a Democratic administration is alleged to be planning one of the greatest pieces of political favoritism under the guise of the civil service on record.

Against any such charges, the Democrats declare, their plan is much almost hilarious enthusiasm for the more fair than President Taft's wholesale order putting the postmasters in the fourth class offices into the service without examination. While Republican senators and house members are disapproving of the Burleson announcement and threatening trouble, as a matter of fact there is probably nothing they can do, except to make speeches and attack the Democrats for not observing the spirit of the civil service law.
