PRESCRIPTION

For a Long Life.
This is the prescription for a long life given by an old gentleman in Connecticut, who is ninety-nine years old and still well and cheerful, "Live temperately, be slow to anger, don't worry, take plenty of exercise in the fresh air, and, above all, keep cheerful."
Should the system get run down—digestive organs weak—the blood thin and sluggish, take Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the medicine—body-building properties of cod-livers, with the useless grease eliminated and tonic iron added. We regard Vinol as one of the greatest body-builders and strength-creators in the world for aged people.
Mrs. Mary Ivey, of Columbus, Ga., says: "If people only knew the good Vinol does old people, you would be unable to supply the demand; it is the finest tonic and strength-creator I ever used."
We wish every feeble old person in this vicinity would try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction.
Dickson's Drug Store, Manning, S. C.

FALL OF THE INCAS.

Fate of the Great Race That Has Left Only Traces Behind.
What became of the people who built the Cuzco ruins? Were they the ancestors of those stolid and down-trodden Indians whom one sees today peddling their rude wares in the market place of Cuzco? Mr. Bryce discusses the question in his "South America." He says:
"The sudden fall of a whole race is an event so rare in history that one seeks for explanations. It may be that not only the royal Inca family, but nearly the whole ruling class, was destroyed in war, leaving only the peasants, who had already been serts under their native sovereigns. But one is disposed to believe that the tremendous catastrophe which befell them in the destruction at once of their dynasty, their empire and their religion by fierce conquerors, incomparably superior in energy and knowledge, completely broke not only the spirit of the nation, but the self respect of the individuals who composed it."
"They were already a docile and submissive people, and now under a new tyranny, far harsher than that of rulers of their own blood, they sank into hopeless apathy and ceased to remember what their forefathers had been. The intensity of their devotion to their sovereign and their duty made them helpless when both were overthrown, leaving them nothing to turn to, nothing to strive for."
"The conquistadores were wise in their hateful way when they put forth the resources of cruelty to outraze the feelings of the people and stamp terror in their hearts."

COLD IN THE HEAD.

Its Constant Recurrence May Not Only Be Serious, but Fatal.
There are all kinds of colds. Spring, summer, autumn and winter, all furnish the means for a cold. In medical literature there is no such disease described as a "cold," yet almost everybody is more or less susceptible to this condition.
The writer used to suffer with "cold" in the head, throat, windpipe, bronchial tubes, stomach and bowels. That was before he learned that an abundance of fresh air-day and night air—was absolutely necessary to build up a high state of physical vigor and vitality to avoid "taking cold."
The most common form of this complaint is a cold in the head. In this condition there is an inflammation of the mucous membranes which line the nasal chamber. This is naturally self-limiting. Nature allows the disease to run its course when recovery spontaneously takes place. This condition may be very mild, yet the constant "taking cold" may result in great damage and lead to fatal diseases.
The nasal cavities have direct connection with the eyes, ears, throat, lungs, stomach and bowels. When frequent colds and coughs or congestion occurs in these vital parts and the "germs" or "filth" which is the direct cause of the trouble overcomes the "ginger" in the blood and membranes the "germ" or "filth" is carried to one or all of the organs or parts of the body and may result in some disease that terminates fatally.—Professor George A. Keene in Health.

ADD STRINGS TO YOUR BOW.

And Keep on Broadening Your Sphere of Usefulness.
Ages ago some one found music in the twang of a bowstring, then another some one put two strings on a bow, and thus was made the first harp. String after string was added until the harp was too heavy to hold. Then they put it in a box and struck the strings with hammers worked by keys. They called that a harpsichord. It was the first piano. The finest and most costly pianola of today is just an evolution, just an improvement on the arrow shooting bow.
From the history of the piano comes the old, old saying, "He is adding strings to his bow." It means that one is evolving, improving something. It expresses caution, persistency, energy, enterprise.
Add strings to your bow—one at a time. Bring a new note into each week of work. Learn a little something new and use it. Thus you will increase the harmony and effectiveness of your work.
Anything that has evolved as the bow has can never stop improving. So with your work. The more simple the start the greater the possibilities of growth. Know your work from the very first string. Know that there is no limit to its possibilities.
Keep adding strings to your bow, harp, piano!—Joel Blank in Philadelphia Ledger.

Short Lived Giants.

Giants are notably short lived, and instances where men much above seven feet in height have reached the age of fifty years are almost unknown. Length of days does not go with excessive length of limb. But tallness which stops short of gigantism usually is a sign of vitality. Tall recruits in continental armies, provided they are of proper weight, give least trouble from sickness and gain most from physical training. It must be remembered in this connection that "tallness" is not the same everywhere. Men accounted tall in southern Italy would be rather short in western Scotland or among the native stock of America. It is as if nature had fixed a standard height for each race and punished by some physical shortcoming those who varied much from that standard in either direction.—Chicago Journal.

Earthworms For Rheumatism.

Your paragraph, writes a correspondent, giving as a cure for bronchitis a bag of earthworms on the chest, reminds me of a prescription I heard of thirty years ago, given also "in all seriousness," in Nottingham market place, as a remedy for rheumatism. In this case, too, the earthworms formed one of the constituents, but it was necessary to put them into a bottle and pour upon them a quantity of powdered quinine. The resultant compound, well rubbed into the affected parts, was guaranteed by the prescriber to be a certain cure for rheumatism.—London Chronicle.

Little Things as an Index.
"Here," said an observer, "was a machine upon which appeared the name plate of the manufacturer; a small and not essential feature, but this plate had been set on true, and then the screws by which it was held in place had all been turned up until the slots in their heads all showed in precisely the same position, alike uniform."
"Whoever put this plate on made a nice, finished job of it, and I should be inclined to think that a shop that had such pride in even the minor details of its work would do good work throughout."—New York Sun.

Had Four Legs Anyhow.
Chollie had decided to give up the sporting life and settle down to farming and was now buying a cow.
"Now, here's a cow," said the agent, "that I can highly recommend to you. She has won several prizes at our county fair, and—"
"Really?" said Chollie, looking the animal over admiringly. "Er—trotting or steeplechase?"—Harper's Weekly.

Genius.
At his villa in Biarritz Sarasate, the great musician, was once called a genius by a famous critic. But Sarasate frowned and shook his head.
"A genius," he said, "for thirty-seven years I've practiced fourteen hours a day, and now they call me genius!"

It Reminded Him.
"The dew is falling," she said. "Let us go in before it settles."
"Yes," he answered, but a worried look stole into his face. Little did she dream that with him many dews were falling and that he was utterly unable to settle.—Magazine of Fun.
