

"Cured"

Mrs. Jay McGee, of Stephenville, Texas, writes: "For nine (9) years, I suffered with womanly trouble. I had terrible headaches, and pains in my back, etc. It seemed as if I would die, I suffered so. At last, I decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it helped me right away. The fall treatment not only helped me, but it cured me."

TAKE Cardui The Woman's Tonic

Cardui helps women in time of greatest need, because it contains ingredients which act specifically, yet gently, on the weakened womanly organs. So, if you feel discouraged, blue, out-of-sorts, unable to do your household work, on account of your condition, stop worrying and give Cardui a trial. It has helped thousands of women—why not you? Try Cardui. E-71

Moisture of the eye.
The moisture of the eye is genuine solvent. Many persons have gone to bed troubled with a foreign substance in the eye and have waded in the morning to find it gone. In many cases of this kind the foreign matter has been dissolved by the moisture of the eye.

Not What She Meant.
"I think the baby has your hair, ma'am," said the nurse girl, looking pleasantly at her mistress.
"Gracious!" exclaimed the lady, glancing up from her novel. "Run into the nursery and take it away from him. What will that child do next?"

HOLD BIG PICNIC TO MAKE TOWN RECREATION PARK.

Wenonah Men Swing Axes While Women Prepare Dinner For Toilers.

The good folk of Wenonah, N. J., recently decided to have a public recreation park. Just how to get it, however, was the question. Mayor C. Fowler Cline and the officers of the Wenonah Mutual Improvement association after discussing various plans decided that the best way was to call on the citizens and boys and girls of the town for aid.

A big picnic was organized, and after a day of labor, mingled with merriment, the picnicers saw their new recreation park well established. All day the men swung axes or scythes, the boys chopped with hatchets, and the women and the girls raked or prepared good things to eat.

When darkness put an end to the work the little army of axmen and rakers had cleared a large tract in the thirty acres of woodland skirting Wenonah lake and made it suitable for picnics and all sorts of healthy recreations for the townspeople.

The thirty acre tract was acquired by the borough a year ago, when it purchased its waterworks, and in one of the most beautiful spots in this region. The council recently voted to permit the Mutual Improvement association to establish a park on this land. Without waiting for a municipal appropriation to improve the place the association called for volunteers and held its town picnic, with the result that the park is now assured.

While the men worked the women of the town prepared a picnic dinner in a large circus tent on the shore of the lake and at noon fed more than 150 hungry workers.

The roadbed of the old Cape May railroad runs through the park, and this is to be later converted into a boulevard, skirted by artificial lakes, running from Wenonah to Woodbury and avoiding the dangerous crossings of the electric street line. Trees from the old railroad, which was abandoned several years ago when the line was strengthened, were torn up and the sound ones used for building bridges. Great quantities of brush were cut away, and an expert forester marked diseased trees, which will later be felled.

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy.

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eiland, of Bath, Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists, or by mail Price 50c. Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis.

How It Grows.

Until a man does something noteworthy the little bunch of whiskers on his chin is described as a "goatee." After he achieves eminence it is referred to as an "imperial"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Overconfidence.

Probably the best thing about overconfidence is that if a girl didn't have it she wouldn't ever marry.—Galveston News.

CHURCHES IN CHILE.

They Are Always More or Less in an Uncompleted Condition.

When walking through the streets in any large town in Chile one is immediately struck by the fact that church buildings are always undergoing repairs.

One day you will pass a church which for weeks has had about six ladders resting against the walls. Then another day you will find that they have been changed to the other side. This constant changing of ladders goes on year in and year out, but no one ever seems to be made of the ladders, though, perhaps, a new brick or a bit of plaster will occasionally be added to the building.

There would seem, however, to be a very real reason for the presence of these ladders. The Chilean government, in fact, levies a tax upon church buildings, but only when they have been completed. In order to evade this tax, therefore, no church ever has been completed.

The law surely might be altered, then, for the eternal presence of these ladders—certainly an ingenious idea—does not add to the appearance of the buildings or to the comfort of pedestrians in the streets.—London Answers.

A man who does not take enough exercise or who does not perform enough manual labor to enable him to digest and assimilate a large quantity of food, and particularly flesh food, should be very careful as to the quality and quantity of food he ingests. Such a man does not require much meat."

Business Men and Lunch.

There was a conference in London recently under the auspices of the Incorporated Institute of Hygiene to discuss the health of business men. Many of the greatest physicians in England spoke, especially about the diet of the ordinary man of business. The New York Medical Record sums up their conclusions thus:

"Most of the speakers expressed the opinion that but little should be eaten in the middle of the day, and some seemed to think that two good meals in the day were quite sufficient. A man who does not take enough exercise or who does not perform enough manual labor to enable him to digest and assimilate a large quantity of food, and particularly flesh food, should be very careful as to the quality and quantity of food he ingests. Such a man does not require much meat."

HOME.

If solid happiness we prize,
Within our breast this jewel lies.
And they are fools who roam.
The world has nothing to bestow.
From our own selves our joys must flow,
And that dear but our home.
—Nathaniel Cotton.

WOMEN AND POLITICS.

Equal rights do not imply that both sexes should engage promiscuously in the same pursuit, but rather that each sex should discharge those duties which are adapted to its physical constitution and are sanctioned by the canons of society. The sad results likely to follow in our own country from an active participation in political strife are foreshadowed by the scenes which are daily occurring in England, where women, many of them of refined education, are ruthlessly pursued by the mob and are protected from physical violence only by the interposition of the police. * * * As soon as a woman trenches on the domain of man she must not be surprised that the reverence once accorded her in the past has been wholly or in part withdrawn and that she is soiled with the dust of the political arena.—Cardinal Gibbons.

TO A CROW.

Bold, amiable, ebullient outlaw,
grave and wise,
For many a good green year
thou hast withstood.
By dangerous, planted field and
haunted wood,
All the devices of thine enemies,
Gleaning thy grudging bread with watchful eye
And self-relying soul. Come ill
or good,
Blithe days, thou see'st, thou
feathered Robin Hood!
Thou mak'st a jest of farm land
boundaries.
Take all thou may'st and never
count it crime
To rob the greatest robber of the earth,
Weak visioned, dull, self-lauding
man, whose worth is in his own esteem. Bide thou thy time.
Thou know'st far more of nature's lore than he,
And her wide lap shall still provide for thee.

LAUGHTER.

How much lies in laughter, the cipher key wherewith we decipher the whole man! Some men wear an everlasting barren simper; in the smile of others lies a cold glitter as of ice. The fewest are able to laugh. The fewest are able to laugh, but only snuff and titter and snigger from the throat outward or at best produce some whiffling, husky cachinnation, as if they were laughing through wool. Of none such comes good. The man who cannot laugh is not only fit for treason, stratagems and spoils, but his whole life is already a treason and a stratagem.—Carlyle.

REFLECTIONS ON MAN.

Our days begin with trouble here;
Our life is but a span.
And cruel death is always near.
So frail a thing is man.
—New England Primer.

Remember that man's life lies all within the present, as 'twere but a hair's breath of time; as for the rest, the past is gone, the future yet unseen. Short, therefore, is man's life, and narrow is the corner of the earth wherein he dwells.—Marcus Aurelius.

If a man does not make new acquaintances as he advances through life he will soon find himself left alone. A man, sir, should keep his friendship in a constant repair.—Samuel Johnson.

LABOR.

For there is a perennial nobleness and even sacredness in work. We are never so belighted, forgetful of his high calling, there is always hope in a man that actually and earnestly works. In idleness alone is there perpetual despair. Work, never so mammoth, mean, is in communication with nature. The real desire to get work done will itself lead one more and more to truth, to nature's appointments and regulations, which are truth. The latest gospel in this world is, "Know thy work and do it." "Know thyself." Long enough has that poor "self" of thine tormented thee. Thou wilt never get to know it, I believe. Think it not thy business, this of knowing thyself. Thou art an unknowable individual. Know what thou canst work at and work at it like a Hercules. That will be thy better plan.—Thomas Carlyle.

OLD FOLKS AT HOME.

Way down upon de Swanee river
Far, far away,
Dere's wha my heart is turning eber.
Dere's wha de ole folks stay.
All up an' down de whole creation
Solly I roam,
Still longin' for de ole plantation
An' for de ole folks at home.

One little hut among de bushes,
One dat I love,
Still saddy to my mem'ry rushes,
No matter where I rove.
When will I see de bees a-bum-
bling
All round de comb?
When will I hear de banjo tum-
bling
Down in my good ole home?

All de world am sad and dreary
Everywhere I roam,
Oh, darlies, how my heart grows weary,
Far from de ole folks at home.

WEALTH DISTRIBUTION.

In common with all Socialists, I believe that if the proceeds of industry were justly distributed among those participating in wealth production there would be few, if any, fortunes exceeding $100,000 to legislate about. The claims made by many wealthy people so often that their fortunes are the result of their own labors, enterprise, self-denial and thrift we Socialists generally disregard as being at variance with easily demonstrable facts. * * * Accumulations of private wealth will cease to require legislative attention in proportion as the sources of wealth and the process of wealth production are safeguarded by the state against unearned profit.—J. G. Phelps Stokes.

WOMAN'S MISSION.

Woman's function in society is determined by the constitution of her nature. As the spontaneous organ of feeling, on which the unity of human nature entirely depends, she constitutes the purest and most natural element of the moderating power, which, while avowing its own subordination to the material forces of society, purposes to direct them to higher uses. First as mother, afterward as wife, it is her office to conduct the moral education of humanity. Woman's mission is a striking illustration of the truth that happiness consists in doing the work for which we are naturally fitted. Their mission is always the same. It is summed up in one word—love. It is the only work in which there can never be too many workers. It grows by co-operation. It has nothing to fear from competition. Women are charged with the education of sympathy, the source of real human unity, and their highest happiness is reached when they have the full consciousness of their vocation and are free to follow it.—Auguste Comte.

TOWER OF THE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING, PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

FROM an architectural viewpoint the dominating feature of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition will be the huge tower of the Administration building. Rising 375 feet in height and flanked on either side by the domes, towers and minarets of the eight great exhibit palaces, the huge tower will be at all times the most conspicuous feature of the Exposition City. From San Francisco harbor it will appear as the central feature in the great rectangle of exhibit palaces, whose sky line will be 110 feet in height, whose domes will rise 144 feet and whose lesser towers will be 175 feet in height. From afar this central group will appear almost as a single palace, four-fifths of a mile long and 1,200 feet in width; nearer at hand it will be found that the exhibit palaces are interspersed with great open courts, each designed by notable groups of America's foremost architects. The inner courts will express the highest ideal of the architect, the sculptor, the colorist and the landscape gardener. The Exposition palaces will be the loftiest ever constructed; the grouping of huge buildings will give an effect of almost inconceivable massiveness and grandeur. At the base of the tower, which will occupy an acre in extent, will be a huge arcade beneath which visitors may enter from the main exposition entrance into the Grand Court of Honor. This court, which will be 700 by 900 feet in its greatest dimensions, was designed by McKim, Mead & White.
