There were a number from Manning that attended the big picnic at Turbeville on the 4th.
Salesday was not a busy one in Manning, the sheriff had a small attendance at his matinee.
With the thermometer ranging from 95 to 102, who is so heartless to urge an editor to write?
Business was suspended in Manning last Friday, and the town had the appearance of an ordinary Sunday.
Last Sunday night it is said to have been the hottest yet. It is the hot nights that make the cotton grow.
The South Carolina Farmer's Union is arranging to hold its annual meeting at the Isle of Palms on the 23rd, inst.
Editor A. W. Knight, of Bamberg, paid Manning a visit and spent Sunday with the family of Mr. R. R. Jenkinson.
Hon. E. Mitchell Seabrook and family of Edisto Island, are the guests of the family of Mr. J. T. Stokes in Manning.

Watermelons were here for the first on the 4th. They were grown by Mr. J. P. Creecy. No he did not give us one.
Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Sprout, left last Friday evening enroute to Lake Toxaway, N. C., where they will attend the cotton seed crushers convention.
The friends of Mrs. C. A. McFadden will be pleased to learn she is rapidly getting well, and it is thought she will be able to come home in about ten days.

Mr. J. H. Loryea, of St. Matthews, spent several days in Manning visiting his sisters and brother. Mr. Loryea seems to think that Calhoun county will vote to have the dispensary.
Mr. H. D. Plowden, who was operated on last Thursday at the Columbia hospital, is doing nicely. The operation was a splendid success, which we feel sure is gratifying news to his friends.
As convincing proof of the value of advertising, an object lesson to that class of business men who think people pay no attention to advertising, go to Hirschmann's and see the trading activity since he advertised his Summer Clearance Sale.

Aran's ad., is worth five cents. Money it.
The following changes have been made in the hours of morning services in the Manning Methodist church: Sunday school 9:45; public worship, 11 o'clock. These hours will be maintained throughout the remainder of the summer season.
Messrs W. T. Lesene, A. P. Burdick, A. I. Barron and W. S. Plowden left yesterday on a fishing excursion in Black River. They will make camp at Home Lake and paddle down the river to Kingstree, the trip will take two or three days but they go well prepared for any emergency.
If cheek were dollars there are some persons who would be millionaires. One of our citizens expresses it, money bleeds the blood, and puts a veneer on character to hide its blemishes. There is a good deal of this; many who are totally devoid of character, as soon as they show signs of money, become elevated in estimation socially and otherwise.
The new Methodist church at Trinity has been completed, and the faithful workers deserve high commendation for their persistent efforts to erect the building. The pastor, Rev. G. P. Watson, will conduct the opening service next Sunday, 12th, inst., at five o'clock in the afternoon. The public is most cordially invited to attend this service and share in the rejoicings of the congregation.
The Or Swamp causeway is about completed and the supervisor has had some good work done, he thinks there will be any more trouble with that place, and although it has cost a lot of money to have it built permanently he believes in the end it will prove a saving to the county. There has been much money and labor spent on this causeway, only to be wasted away whenever there came a freshet.
Mr. Hirschmann informs us that he had a record breaking day last Saturday, the opening day of his big sale, and people from all over the county have been pouring into his store every day, taking the advantage of the greatly reduced prices he is offering. They all know what a great saving it is to trade at this reputable store. Hirschmann will keep you posted through these columns, so don't overlook his big ads.
Jim Carter, charged with the killing of John Tindal near Silver last August, and who made getaway, was located by Sheriff Gamble and arrested by a policeman at a picnic on the 4th of July near Cartersville. He is now in the county jail. It is said that Carter and Tindal had some words at a ball game, and Carter went home with his gun, met Tindal and shot him. Carter claims that Tindal struck him with a gun at the ball game. When crime is committed in this county, sooner or later the sheriff will locate and land his man.
The ebb tide in trade is about over, money is about to get back into circulation, and to get in on the ground floor, and to induce trade to Manning, Katzoff the Bargain Store man, has a page advertisement in this issue which will direct the attention of the trading public to Read what he says and then when you sell your tobacco, or have cash to spare visit his store. Katzoff's store is next door to The Home Bank and Trust Company. He has recently been at the North and while in the market he prepared to open the trading season by putting on a special sale. Read his advertisement in this issue.
The tobacco season is now opened, tomorrow all of the warehouses in this section will have their formal openings. Manning is prepared to handle this product as advantageously as any market in the State. Bring your tobacco to this market. Not only is Manning prepared to handle the tobacco to advantage, but it is also prepared to handle the trade which should come from the sale of the tobacco, our merchants, especially those who use the advertising columns of THE TIMES, are confident that they will sell their tobacco to farmers, and they know that to do so they have got to cut profits close, and they are going to do it, bring your tobacco here, and buy your goods here.

Clark, the sales manager, has a record that speaks for itself and proves him to be one of the best warehousemen in the State. I shall be glad to see you on our floor any day, and shall in every possible way aid in making your trip to the Manning Warehouse both pleasant and profitable.

MISSIONS.

MANNING AUXILIARY

THE IDEAL MEMBER

Consecration, zeal, service, humility, prayers—these are the factors in the life of the ideal Christian; and surely, an ideal member of a missionary society is a Christian.
If one is consecrated she will be daily near the throne of God, to be guided; then, eyes and ears will be opened, and she will be shown what the work needs.
Each member of an auxiliary forms a part of that whole body, and the whole is incomplete, unless each one does all within her power to strengthen the society.
A true conception of human fellowship is one of the distinctive notes of Christianity. The church of Jesus should be at the very forefront in teaching that—"Man to man, the world o'er shall brethren be, and 't' that" demonstrating the reasonableness and practicability of Jesus' Gospel of human fellowship.
It is the desire for the realization of this goal that should move one in her work. The ideal mission worker would have it so near her heart, the earnest desire to interest the church members in the work of her society, that she would never let an opportunity pass without trying to make others desire to join her in the great work of the Master.
One should constantly visit all the members of her church, also strangers, taking papers and magazines, tell them earnestly and prayerfully of the needs of the world, of how much Christ has done for his children, and of how little his children have done for him.

"O Master, let me walk with Thee. In lowly paths of service free. Tell me Thy secret, help me bear The strain of toil, the fret of care, Teach me Thy patience still with Thee In closest, dearest, company. In work that keeps faith sweet and strong. In trust that triumphs over wrong."
An ideal member will get friends to reading and thinking, bringing some one who is easily won to the meetings, and letting her feel that with her help the auxiliary is enlarged, and that by her efforts in its behalf, the society can do much more.
"You are singing a song To a world-wide throng That is hastily crossing your way: And the peace that you show, And the love that you sow Will respond in your brother's some day."
Every one who does not strive to get new members, or to interest others in missions, weakens that body as a whole.
"I cannot do everything. I can do something; What I can do, I ought to do, And what I ought to do, by the grace of God, I will do."
"Give us light amid our darkness, Let us know the good from ill, Have us not for all our blindness; Love us, lead us, show us kindness. You can make us what you will."
An ideal member will find out what other societies are doing, and bring in new methods of study and entertainment. And, surely, each member would have read the Missionary Voice and any helpful literature that is put in the hands of members attending a meeting, so that she can intelligently enjoy the exercises. Above all, she would in earnest prayer before leaving home, ask God's guidance upon the members during the hour. Missions will be a part of the ideal member's very life. She feels the thrill of that great ideal of our Saviour.
In building up the membership of a society it is as important to retain the old members as it is to secure the new ones. Every member should at a meeting should be accounted for. There are a great many reasons why members are absent, and the interest in each one should be so intense that every effort should be made to ascertain the cause of absence; remove the difficulty and secure regular attendance.
The ideal member would strive to make the atmosphere at a meeting impart warmth and be invigorating. The welcome to friends should be genuine, and the greatest possible freedom cultivated, and everyone cordially received. Surely an ideal member would not walk listlessly into a missionary meeting, speaking to only a few, and after gazing out of a window most of the time, leave without scarcely a hand shake and no part dues paid. Or worse, enter late hurriedly, distract the attention of some, and leave early. Walking here and there in various church enterprises, never letting any one know that she is interested in missions.
But, one is helpless to do any work without the gift of the Holy Spirit within her. Power from on high will give one strength for any work. If the church is ever to become a grand missionary army, and accomplish its mission gloriously and speedily, it must be given to people to think and work intelligently for the salvation of the whole world. And every member must be an ideal one. She must feel commissioned by Christ to conquer the world for Him.
Because of the failure of the missionary societies to face intelligently the issues involved in two questions: What is the church's end, and What is the Sunday School? And to assume the inevitable responsibility thus imposed, there is today an organization whose purpose is to liquidate and proceed to wind up its affairs and dissolve.

The C. O. D. Parcel Post.
All the money order post-offices of this section have inaugurated the new C. O. D. parcel post system which went into effect July 1. Parcel Post is not being lending his assistance in mail transactions further than to carry the mail matter entrusted to his care. Now, however, he is undertaking to deliver merchandise, take the money from the purchaser and carry it back to the seller.
The Manning post office has received a supply of tags to be used on parcels sent C. O. D. and received full instructions to go ahead with the new system. The C. O. D. regulations cover parcels addressed to all parts of the U. S. and possessions, except the Philippine Islands and the Panama Canal Zone.
The C. O. D. parcel tag contains 3 coupons. It is practically the same as the insurance tags recently introduced in the postoffice department except that the C. O. D. tag contains some additional information. The C. O. D. tag serves also to insure the parcel to the value of $50, just as does the insurance tag, but the amount insured is over $100 and cannot exceed $100. The first coupon on the tag is detached at the office of origin and given to the sender as his receipt, and the second coupon is filed as a record at the same office. The third coupon is to be attached to the parcel. On the tag the sender is required to fill in a large number of items giving information concerning the package and the amount to be collected, his name and address, etc.
A party desiring to send a package to a customer in the country may in addition to the regular parcel post fee, ten cents for the C. O. D. tag. This insures his package as well as his collection. The package is sent on to the addressee and the latter when the postmaster hands him the package, fills out a receipt which is practically an application for a money order and hands the postman the money due on the parcel. The postman or carrier takes the money as the money order application and returns it to the sender. The postmaster, and the latter fills out a money order payable to the firm which sent the package, deducting the fee for the money order. The money order is then mailed to the sender in an official envelope.
The adoption of the C. O. D. system will entail a quantity of extra work and will probably be a burden at first, but it will take but a short time before the system is perfected to the extent where regulations will be easy. At the same time, it is expected to prove out and away to a large extent with the danger and expense of accounts opened by having to mail parcels to customers under the present method and having to wait on the customer's pleasure. Every member who is desirous of cash in advance and thus lose the regard of suspicious persons.

HOME BRANCH.
Quite a crowd of young folks from around here enjoyed themselves last Saturday night at Pooles Springs. Misses Mary and Eunice Corbett returned home Friday after having spent a delightful week at Summerton. Lucile Geddings, of Paxville, spent last week with her cousin, Jeneva Corbett.
There was a game of ball played last Friday P. M., between Home Branch and Paxville on the Paxville diamond. The score stood 6 to 2 in favor of Home Branch.
A small crowd from around here enjoyed the 4th at a fish fry at Cantie's lake.
