BRAWNY BOATMEN OF PERU.

They Looked Like Egyptian Galley Slaves to a Traveler. Herbory there are none from Guava-quil, Ecuador, to Callao, Peru, the ships anchoring about a half mile off shore, a fact that in these peaceful waters entails neither the discomforts nor inconveniences that it does on other coasts. Here at Eten we hoisted our new passengers aboard in a sort of car like those used in roller coasters, four people at a time. Freight is transferred in lighters which they call lancias. Even before we had been "received" by the captain of the port several of these could be seen ap-

How can I describe them? They are about the size of a seagoing schooner. Five heavy beams laid across the bow form seats for ten men, whose brawny arms and well developed deltoids and pecterals would do honor to trained athletes. Their type—the broad, flat face, the high cheek bone, the narrow eyes set atilt and the drooping mustache-plainly shows their descent from the Chimus, that strange Chinese race whose civilization seems to have centered about Trujillo, somewhat farther down the coast. Clad only in jerseys and trousers, bareheaded or shaded by wide rimmed straw hats, each lays hold of a gigantic sweep, five on a side. And how they row, wing and wing throwing the whole weight of their mighty frames upon the oars, rising in their seats till standing-the only boatmen I ever saw who suggested the galley slaves of the Egyptians or the men who manned the Roman triremes.-Ernest Piexotto in Scrib-

THE FIRST WINDOW.

What is Supposed to Have Happened After It Was Made.

A window is an aperture in an otherwise unbroken wall. It, the said aperture, was invented for at least two reasons-one to provide air and the other to erable the light to penetrate the cell, thus saving candles, coal oil, gas or electricity, as the case and community and time may be. No hotel proprietor ever invented the window. No record exists of the age or origin of the window, but common sense teaches us that some cave man started the custom of windowing habitations by poking a hole through the ciay wall of his residence and finding the resultant light and air good to see

Whereupon Mrs. Cavedweller sniffed | Davies, the well known authority on contemptuously and fastened the branch of a fig tree over the newly invented window in such a way as to keep out as much light as possible. "What's that?" inquired the head of name of Alexander White. Meeting a

"But don't you like me a little bit better than the others?" queried Henry. "I like all my boys equally well," answered the father.

"Well, papa," said the lad, after a moment's reflection, "what's the use of my handing you these tacks then?"

Not a Gentleman's Bet.

A lawyer tells this story: "There are so brothers in a St. Louis brokerage not twins, but they look so much alike that even the head of the firm cannot tell them apart. I wanted to invest $20,000 for an estate that I represent, and as I greeted one of the cuplicate brothers I said facetiously, 'Bet $2 you are your brother,' and I produced a two dollar bill. He said, Walt a moment till I get $2 from the cashler and I'll cover that bet.' He went to the rear of the office, came back a moment later and said, 'Here's the two dollars.'

AN ARCTIC DAWN.

Six Months of Darkness. The return of the sun after the six months' night of the polar regions is a moment not to be forgotten. Ejnar Mikkelsen, in his book, "Lost in the Arctic," describes the scene and the emotions it aroused. "The loneliness is so immense every thing seems dead or in a trance, waiting, as we, for the advent of the life giving sun. At last the day arrives when it should appear, but we do not see it, for the weather is cloudy. stormy and foggy. Not until the following day, Feb. 10, do we see its red disk once more. No Secret Telegraph System. Many persons are of the opinion that the wireless system of communication is particularly subject to tapping; but, according to the Scientific American, no telegraph system is absolutely secret. Any one familiar with the Morse code can read ordinary messages entering any telegraph office. At Poldhu, on a telephone connected to a long New York criminal court is conducting horizontal wire, the message passing on a government telegraph line a quarter of a mile away can be distinctly read. It has been shown that it is possible to pick up at a distance, on another circuit, conversation which may be passing through a telephone or telegraph wire. On one occasion an investigator was able to interfere from a distance with the working of the ordinary telephones in Liverpool.
