Rapidity of Dreams.

Both Bismarck and Pepps found that noise enhanced the value of a night's rest. Bismarck confided in his old age to an interviewer that he could "never sleep in Berlin at night when it is quiet, but as soon as the noise begins, about 4 o'clock in the morning, I can sleep a little and get my rest for the day."

Pepps records in his diary on Sept. 23, 1901, that he slept at Welling "and still remember that of all the nights that ever I slept in my life I never did pass a night with more epicurean of sleep; there being now and then a noise of people that waked me, and then it was a very rainy night, and then I was a little weary, that what between waking and then sleeping again, one after another, I never had so much content in all my life."

The probability that we get snatches of sleep at odd moments when we suppose ourselves to have remained continuously awake is supported by the phenomena of dreams. Mark Twain accounted for his own "disappearing visitor" by the belief that he had unconsciously had a very short nap, and many have explained visions of ghosts as due to dreams during such short naps.

For nothing is better established in connection with dreams than that an apparently very long one can occur during an almost infinitesimal time. Alfred Maury had a long, vivid dream of the reign of terror, including the trial of himself before the revolutionary tribunal and his execution, and was able to show that it all happened during the moment of awakening by the fall of a rod from the bed canopy upon his neck.—London Chronicle.

Nogi's Nerve Tonic.

Having been dedicated to the profession of arms, General Nogi was taken, while still a small boy, to see a criminal decapitated and was rebuked for shuddering at the spectacle. After nightfall, when all was darkness and silence, he was required to go alone to the burial ground and bring back the culprit's head. The ordeal was designed to strengthen his nerves and teach him to fear nothing, living or dead.—Francis E. Leupp in Atlantic.

ELEVATORS IN EUROPE.

Except in First Class Hotels They Are Crude Affairs.

The use of passenger elevators is not nearly so general in Europe as it is in the United States. In Germany and France most hotels of the very highest class, catering to wealthy foreign travelers, are equipped with elevators much like the American type, and intended to be freely used both up and down. The cheapest hotels and many very good ones at moderate prices, though four or five stories high, are not provided with elevators.

The almost universal type for medium priced hotels has a wooden cage 3 by 5 feet, intended for five persons. It is driven by a four horse power electric motor and controlled by a series of push buttons on the outside at the bottom. A person desiring to go to the third floor enters the car, and the attendant (or, rather, boy) pushes button No. 3, the car stops at the third floor, and the passenger steps out and calls down the shaft that the car is free.

Sometimes the button control is inside, in which case the attendant accompanies the passenger. Sometimes there is an annunciator, but not often, because the car is not supposed to be called to an upper floor to carry passengers down. Stairs are for that purpose. As the French have it, this institution is an "ascenseur" and not by any chance a "descenseur." In any case, it is a privilege to use it.

A few office buildings are equipped with the same type elevator; but, as a rule, none except the most pretentious offices have elevators.—Indianapolis News.

Avoid Sedative Cough Medicines

If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia, use cough medicines that contain opium, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the cilia beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative. For sale by all dealers. Advt.

CALLED IT TOLEDO.

Story of How an Ohio City Came to Get Its Name.

About 100 years ago a little settlement existed at the mouth of the Maumee river. Its name, Port Lawrence, was given in honor of the great naval commander. The little town was not prosperous, and five years later Major Stickney, an enthusiastic but eccentric man, founded another settlement right next to Port Lawrence and called his village Vistula. Both settlements were stimulated somewhat by the competition, but neither prospered sufficiently, and one year later it was proposed to unite the towns.

Everything was easily arranged except the name, and here trouble arose. Major Stickney insisted that the new community accept the name of his part, Vistula, but the citizens were not prepared to have a name thrust upon them by one whose peculiarities led him to name his two children "No. 1" and "No. 2." This fact in the major's family life was enough to cause any suggestion from him to be received skeptically.

The discussions were many and heated when Willard Daniels, a merchant of Vistula, suggested that they adopt the name of Toledo, the ancient capital of Spain. He explained that the word originally was "Toloth" from the Hebrew, meaning "Mother of People." Mr. Daniels said they ought to be able to come together under such a title of peace. Another reason was the remarkable success in latitudes of both places, in Spain and in Ohio, the actual difference being only a little more than one degree. Further arguments were that it was pleasant in sound, easy to pronounce and that no city of the western continent as yet bore the name.

His reasoning prevailed, and the united towns assumed the name Toledo. That they remained true to it is shown in the fact that their first permanent newspaper was called the Toledo Blade, in recognition of the fact that Toledo, Spain, was famed all over the world for the quality of the sword blades which it produced.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The CALL for BETTER SHOES

It is human nature to try and get the biggest value a dollar will buy—we are human—and take just as much pride in buying goods to offer you as you take in satisfying your own needs.

WE HAVE answered the call for better shoes by putting in a complete line of LONGWEAR SHOES—the more you wear them, the better you like them! They are built to fit and give foot comfort from the first time you wear them, and will give longer wear than any other shoes for the same money. We are showing some exclusive patterns in Men's, Women's and Children's shoes this season that are the latest word in style—nobby lasts for the young people and conservative lasts for the more sedate. We can fit you up in any leather your fancy dictates—Patent, Tan, Gun Metal, Vici, White Buck or White Canvas—give us the chance to prove the superior worth of LONGWEAR SHOES!
