LET PATRIOTISM NOT POLITICS PREVAIL

The legislature is now in session, the first week very little of importance will be done, but there is an opportunity at this session to test the sincerity of those who profess to deplore factional divisions. The writer has long ago determined to lay aside factional differences, and strive to do his part towards bringing about a sane condition, which cannot exist if the masses are going to be content to gratify the personal ambitions of a class of politicians who find contention and strife a method to hide their purposes, just as the cuttle fish muddies the waters to strike his prey.

There is a class of men whose interest in politics is to gratify enmity, these would go to any length—slander, vilification, and abuse to prejudice the public mind against those they would destroy, but this element has had its day, no longer will citizens submit to their misrepresentations without making the creatures show up; when they go about lying and misrepresenting an opponent, they will be jerked up and proven to be character assassins, and held up to the execration and scorn of decent people, as they deserve.

The factional division in this and in other States has done harm, there is no doubt, it it stopped with the individual, no great harm would come of it, but it does not stop there, it extends to the making of and the execution of the laws, favoritism comes in for its share when factional feeling continues as it has been the past four years, resulting in the laws being impartially enforced, friends of the faction in power are a law within themselves, while others are made to toe the mark. We do not want such a condition, but things are rapidly pointing that way, and they will get worse unless good thinking masses will spurn the course of those who feed upon agitation for their political gain.

The present condition need not be laid at the door of any man or any faction, both factions must share in the blame, and until there is a disposition on the part of both factions to ignore demagogism, and to bring things to a meritorious condition, the professions of wiping out factionalism amount to nothing. The masses are not going to be fooled—they will not play the turkey and buzzard role that was proposed to the Indian by the white hunter "Indian you take the turkey and I will take the turkey, or if that does not suit, I will take the turkey, and you, Indian, may take the buzzard." There must be a compromise based upon equity, and patriotism—each side must be sincere in the effort to restore harmony, and with a consolidated effort to work for the material welfare of the masses and let the professional politician go to grass.

As we said in the outset of this article, the opportunity is at hand to prove the sincerity of those who would elevate rather than pull down. The main reason for the injustice done last year to the free schools of the State when the effort was made to have a one mill State tax for the benefit of enabling the weak schools, was a mean, contemptible factional spirit, had it not been for this, the schools needing help would have been greatly benefited; as it was, the people had to pay an additional one mill tax, and, in a number of counties the money could not be used for the reason there was no need for it, whereas, had the tax been put on as recommended, the rich counties would have sent what they did not need into those counties suffering from a lack of funds, a dog-in-the-manger-spirit robbed Justice of its own merely to gratify a factional grudge. Let reason now prevail.

We want the members of the general assembly to forget to which faction they were allied in the past, and the previous campaign, and remember, they represent the material welfare of the State as a whole—all of the schools and all of the other interests which go to make up the progress and life of the State. We want, when this session has done its work, and gone into history, to have it said "there was no political antagonisms, differences of opinion were sincerely and honestly discussed, there was a disposition throughout to labor for the general interests."

The rule in the past has been, that a session preceding a primary, was used by the politician, as a board to play the game of politics on, nearly all of the moves were for political position, we hope it will not be so this year; the man with ambition, if there is anything more in him than what passed down his throat, and he is a patriot, can leave off his political maneuvering until he strikes the hustings, to devote his time and his talents to an endeavor to make the session a business one, keep down appropriations as far as good service will permit, and adjourn.

NO CHANGE NECESSARY.

In the matter of the Bill sent out by State Bank Examiner B. J. Rhame, as stated in our last issue, we have no opposition to Mr. Rhame, but we see no good reason to change the present law with regard to the appointment of a bank examiner. However, with regard to the Lexington matter referred to in our editorial, we mentioned the trouble between the Governor and the Examiner growing out of the failure of the Roof Bank, and stated the case was referred to the courts, "but so far nothing had been done." In this we were mistaken. The supreme court did render a decision in favor of the Examiner, but it had escaped our notice, this does however, not alter the situation in the least, our contention is, the legislature should have a better reason for changing a law than the convenience of an official or an aspirant to official position. The present Bank Examiner is entirely satisfactory to us, if the legislature had the selection of the officer to fill the position, the probability is we should vote for the present incumbent, the legislature however, does not have the selection of this officer, and, under the existing law the appointment is made by the Governor, who may advise with the Executive Committee of the State Banking Association. The Bill Mr. Rhame is urging, passed the House last year, and is now a second reading senate bill, unless it is shown to us there is a necessity to relieve the Executive of making this appointment, we shall vote against any change.

It is contended by some, the Bank Examiner should not be appointed by one man, this contention does not appeal to our mind, because, the method of appointing this official has been perfectly satisfactory in the past, and there is no reason why it should not be satisfactory in the future; we seriously object to changing the method of appointment at this juncture, especially, since it is the desire of ourselves to avoid anything which might be construed as opening up factional sores—we are seeking to heal the breaches occasioned by bitter factionalism, and, such a measure as is proposed by Mr. Rhame at this time, under existing circumstances, instead of being an olive branch, would be a branch of poison oak. And too, it is more important to the general masses, and the business welfare of the State, for the legislature to devote its time to those matters of vital interest to the taxpayers generally than to scheme for the welfare of individuals.

Ojinaga has been evacuated by the federals, but Huerta still clings to his job in the city of Mexico, and the United States must care for the refugees. The Mexican situation gets more complicated daily, and unless this country or some other power steps in and demands the peace the war will continue on indefinitely.

Trustees and Teachers, Take Notice.

I am in receipt of the following letter which is self explanatory: "I am writing this letter to call your attention to the violation of the law by trustees and principals of some of the schools in your county in allowing children to attend school who cannot produce satisfactory evidence of having been successfully vaccinated within the last five years, as required by Act of the Legislature, No. 434 and approved the 22nd day of February, A. D. 1905. Your attention is called to section 4, 5, 6, of this law; also to Rule 1, of the State Board of Health passed under this Act. I am sending you a bulletin containing these laws, which, of course, can also be found in the code for 1911, both Criminal and Civil.

I will appreciate it very much if you will call this matter to the attention of the principals of the schools in your county and let them know that this law will be rigidly enforced. Smallpox is prevalent all over the State, and this is the only way the children can be protected."

Signed, JAMES A. HAYNE, M. D., Secretary State Board of Health.

There is no doubt whatever but that the Board has ample authority for enforcing the law. Self preservation is the first law of nature, and it would be well if the school authorities whose attention is directed hereto will take notice, and get on the right side of this question at once without running any risk of smallpox, or of the necessity of having the State Board of taking legal action.

Respectfully, E. J. BROWN, County Supt. of Education.

A Tribute. Beautiful in life, beautiful in death. In loving memory of my friend, Mrs. E. L. Stukes, who departed this life, on Monday morning Jan. 5th at four o'clock.

Our entire neighborhood was saddened when we learned that she had passed into the great beyond. Grace was the charming wife of Mr. E. L. Stukes, beautiful in form, attractive in manner, cultured, refined, possessing the many graces that adorn the noble and young womanhood.

She was a member of Home Branch church since early childhood a conscientious tireless, energetic christian, of a bright cheerful optimistic spirit, such was she and that is why we mourn her untimely death and miss her from her home.

Grace leaves a heart broken husband, mother, father, three brothers and four sisters to mourn her untimely departure. Though it is hard to part from those we love, knowing that all things work for good to those that love Him. We shall know in the bright and happy world when the mysteries shall be revealed.

She was not quite 19 years of age and was loved by old and young, always a bright smile upon her face, and only been married about nine months but it was not for her to remain with us, the call to her heavenly father was made. Gods Will must be done.

Beneath the torch of death cold hands, Our sighs and sobs brought so relief, The message came at gods command, And when our tired feet from time's board is especially and urgently requested to attend this meeting to hear a report for the past year and receive instructions for this year.

A. P. BURGESS, W. R. DAVIS, Clerk. Chm. Co. Board.

We knew that the Saviour had called her to a blissful mansion on high. To shield her forever from sorrow and care to his far off home in the sky. We knew that the Fearful Gates on high for her would open wide."

She was buried at Home Branch church on the 6th. The Rev. M. J. Kiser her pastor conducted the services among a large concourse of relatives and friends. May our deepest sympathies be for the heart broken husband. From one who loved her. MRS. J. W. COOPER AN.

An Increased Showing.

Final figures announced by the Department of Agriculture Commerce and Industries this afternoon give the corn acreage for this State for 1913 as against 1912, 5,263,000 acres, an increase of 100,000 acres.
