A Hotel Is Only a Hotel. No matter what may be said about the drawbacks of the home, a hotel is a cold place for a family. The restlessness manifested by many women of today may have weakened families for a time. But there is certainly that young people will marry. After marriage they will reside in a cottage or a flat. The stay-at-homes will ever long for their own fireside. The persistent travelers will lose regard for the home. With the tourists from the Old World, they will be content to endure the accommodations offered by the hotel man.—Troy Record.

Recovering Rapidly. When the doctor came down from seeing her husband he told her that her good man would shortly be on the road to convalescence. "What's that?" she asked. "I mean he will be getting better," said the doctor. "You will know because he will get irritable—extremely so." When he called the next day the doctor found the devoted woman as happy as a sandboy, smiling and singing to herself. "And how are we today?" he asked. "Oh, he's getting better all right," she answered. "He came down to the kitchen this morning and threw a coffee pot at the cook and shot our old house dog because it wouldn't say 'Pleasea'! So I cooked him a dish of tripe and onions and he has gone back to work. It's wonderful how you doctors know things!"

In case necessity or the search for pleasure leads one to so expose himself, it is said that quinine should be taken.

Tastes Change. Funny that the very fellow who begs a girl for a lock of her hair in the courtship days when he kisses it so fondly will swear like a trooper if he finds one of them in the butter after he is married.

Words of Great Fighters. Great fighters have been able, at critical moments, to address their men in words that inspired them with fresh spirit for the fray, and encouraged them to face frightful odds with a confidence born of their enthusiasm that carries all before it and almost wins the fight before it is begun. Our own history, as well as that of the old world, is filled with striking instances. Who can recall without a thrill Paragut's command to "Go ahead!" when warned of the presence of torpedoes in the bay? Or Grant's calm response, "We propose to fight it out along these lines if it takes all summer?"

Rather a Nest Rebuke. "We will not take up our annual collection for the benefit of the heathen," announced the Rev. Dr. Fourthly at the close of his sermon, "and I hope those young men making so much noise all through this service will be especially liberal in their contribution. They are in duty bound to help their brother heathens."

Eighteen Years in Cold Storage. It is an axiom of good cooking that beef should be well hung before being sent to the chef, but the owners of a certain hind-quarter which was exhibited at Smithfield market in London recently have surely gone to rather extreme lengths in this matter, for they have kept it in cold storage for 18 years. When it was taken "off the ice," so to speak, and looked at by experts armed with nothing more formidable than magnifying glasses, they unanimously reported that it was still sweet and sound, and apparently lacking but little in nutritive qualities. A piece was cut off and sent to the analysts so that they might ascertain by scientific methods exactly what chemical changes, if any, it had undergone. The now famous joint was shipped in 1896, and sold to a firm of military contractors at Malta, who retained it in their cold store there for experimental purposes until the government took over their warehouse some months ago, when the quarter was sent on to London.

Facing the Music. Originally the expression "Facing the music," was British army slang, and applied to men who were, for misconduct, drummed out of the ranks to the tune of the "Rogue's March." As in general use, however it may have come from the theater, and refer to the fact that the actor and singer upon the stage has the orchestra facing him. In this case it would have a mind the trepidation with which the performer faced his audience while the orchestra played the prelude to his song or speech. Its meaning is, therefore, "meeting an emergency."

Paint. Paint is used on houses, park settees, fences and fuses. It comes in colors. Red paint is used on towns by young college men and old deacons. Fresh paint is used by children when they have their new clothes on. Paint is also used on sign boards which are put up everywhere to improve the scenery. No American scenery is complete without them.—Life.

How Indians Sleep Warm. The Indian, according to a writer about camp life, resorts to two methods to keep warm while asleep. If it is not unduly cold, he lights a rather large fire and warms the earth, then takes away the coals, lies down and pulls his blanket over him. In colder weather, besides this, he heats a big boulder, covers it lightly with earth, and curls himself around it. He never wraps himself in the blanket, but uses it exclusively as a covering.

Put it on the Other Fellow. "We should so live," remarked the man on the car, "that the other fellow will be to blame if anything goes wrong."

Almost Floored Singer. Mrs. Newly-Riche had been invited to an exclusive private musicale at the home of one of the socially elected. It was her first appearance in the coveted circle and she was anxious to justify her presence among aristocratic music lovers by seeming well informed in matters musical. So she ventured a remark when all had become still, after the polite applause for the beautiful singing of the baritone star of the occasion. Leaning toward him eagerly and making herself as conspicuous as possible, she said: "Oh, Signor Despotone, I am so interested in the English composers, won't you please sing something by Sir John L. Sullivan?"

The Mule. A wise man, in his own estimation, announces that a mule kicks because it doesn't know any better. This will greatly surprise many students of contemporaneous mule life. If ever there was an animal with low cunning expressed in its eye and its twitching nostril, that animal is the mule. Its ability to place a kick where it will give the greatest offense to its victim, is something marvelous.

Secret of His Success. His character was good, his references were excellent and his ability was undoubted. He was a first favorite for the position. "And now," said his future employer, "would you mind telling me your politics? It won't make any difference to me, really, what side you support, only for the smooth working of my business I find it necessary often to know the political complexion of some of my employees." A hard look came into the candidate's eyes. "Politics?" he said, "what are my politics? The question can be very easily and briefly answered. I'm against politics." He was engaged forthwith.

Some Men Can Be Mean! Wife—"Everything you have you owe to me." Husband—"That's what Doctor Jones' wife says." Wife—"Who's Doctor Jones?" Husband—"The stomach and nerve specialist."

The Straggler. A certain Confederate private, whose name might be Jim Buckle, was in the foremost lines at Petersburg when the mine was exploded under the Elliott salient. After he had gone skyward a piece he returned and fell in the crater, and later was dug out from under several feet of dirt, alive. "I'm plum disgraced," he confided to the nurse in the hospital. "When that mine went off I was back from the trench a bit. Consequently the other fellows was comin' down—and when I passed 'em every last one of 'em cussed me 'n' said: 'Hey, you damned straggler, y, why don't you keep up with the troop?'"

Judge "Made Good." A Denver judge on one occasion, nettled by the obstructive tactics of a lawyer defending a case before him, intimated that the lawyer had a very meager knowledge of the law. The lawyer respectfully insisted that it was the judge's method of trying the case and his rulings that retarded the case. The judge left the bench, invited the lawyer to sit at judge, and used half an hour in properly pressing the lawyer's case as a lawyer. He uncovered so much more law than the lawyer on the bench possessed that the offending counselor stepped down and acknowledged his error. He had not found a good reason for ruling against the judge in a single contention made by the latter while pleading.

Noxious Discovery. Another thing that interferes somewhat with a man's ambition to get even more than seventeen miles per gallon is the women folk's scientific discovery that gasoline, poured freely around the roots of the burdock plants along the back fence, will kill 'em deadener than a door nail.—Ohio State Journal.

Cheap Filter. The most impure water may be purified by filtering through charcoal. Take a large flower pot, put a piece of sponge or clean moss over the hole in the bottom, and fill three-quarters full of equal parts of clean sand and charcoal. Over this lay a linen cloth large enough to hang over the sides of the pot. Pour the water into the cloth and it will come out pure.

Try to Parse This. A correspondent, says the listener of the Boston Transcript, sends in a rare bit of English. It was written by a woman in excusing her tardiness in answering an inquiry that had been addressed to her: "I would have written before but I have been sick with a dog bite in the arm. The man that owns the sawmill's dog bit me in the road." The excuse was accepted as sufficient.

Hearing Heart Beats. If you hear your heart beat in one ear, as many persons do, it is no proof of anything wrong with the heart. It is much more likely to be a local defect such as a chronic catarrh of the middle ear or stiffness and retraction of the drum. This is on the authority of a leading physician of Chicago.

Daily Thought. In God's world, for those who are in earnest, there is no failure. No work truly done, no word earnestly spoken, no sacrifice, freely made, was ever made in vain.—F. W. Robertson.

Million Demijohns a Year. About a million demijohns are made annually in the United States, but the largest sizes are imported. The work in the United States is largely done by girls.

Where Nebraska Leads. "Though Nebraska" has been termed "the state without a mine," it ranks first in the production of pumice, for less than one per cent. of the total output of pumice comes from other states.

How a Woodsman of Application. An old woodsman was walking through a forest when he saw a large bear approaching him. Realizing his predicament, he exclaimed: "Oh Lord, be with me!" Still the bear came on, when the man again prayed: "Oh Lord, be on my side." Seeing the bear continue to approach, the woodsman, whipping out his knife, exclaimed: "Oh Lord, if you won't be on my side, just declare neutrality, an' I'll show you the gold-darnedest bear fight you ever saw in your life."

Foolish Question. A man charged at the Liverpool (Eng.) police court with fighting stated that the prosecutor hit him first on the jaw. "Did you hit him first?" asked the stipendiary. "No, sir," was the reply. "If I had hit him first he would have been in the hospital, not me."

One as Hard as the Other. "The training of children is a confessedly difficult task," says an editorial writer. No more difficult than the training of parents. Many children find the task of conquering the prejudices and old-fashioned ideas of father and mother almost hopeless.—Toledo Blade.

Recipe for Happiness. Do not give up. Do not allow the black waters of melancholia to close over you. Hold your head high. Live your life beautifully in the face of failure, loneliness and contempt. Happiness is high art. Be a great artist.—Helen Wolfeska.

His Chance. He—"Girls are queer creatures; they marry the first fellow who asks them, as a rule. I suppose you do the same, wouldn't you?" She—"Suppose you ask me and find out."
