Lake City, May 24.—Special: This community was shocked at the news of the untimely death of Mr. John James Matthews, a highly respected farmer, who lived about three miles from here. It seems that Mr. Matthews had left home early in the morning in his buggy for the purpose of coming to Lake City, after first looking up some farm hands for the coming week. He was apparently in his usual health, and his family did not know but that he was in town until in the afternoon, when inquiry revealed the fact that he had not been seen at all here during the day. A search was made for him and his body was found a short distance from the roadside. It is supposed that he died from heart failure, as no signs of foul play was discovered. Mr. Matthews was the son of Mr. J. M. Matthews, and about 45 years of age. He leaves a wife and six children.

Letter From R. A. Stewart.

Washington, D. C., May 23rd, 1915. Editor The Times:— I wish through your able paper to express my profound sympathy for the good people of Manning because of the recent calamity and suffering from the storm. Manning is known for its sustaining power, and its recuperative inherent strength will enable it to rise again to larger and stronger proportions, and in doing so, no doubt, but that the storm will be a uniformly of the weak in one common struggle, as always.

Respectfully, ROBERT A. STEWART.

A Letter to The Colored Citizens, Manning, S. C.

Dear Colored Citizens: For the last seven or eight months we have had experiences that were without parallel. We have witnessed very tight times. We have been without work and almost without money to go upon, but I believe that the dark clouds that have overshadowed our sun of prosperity has vanished and the golden sun of a better day can be seen rising in the commercial and industrial skies. There will soon be work for us all to do.

I trust that each one will seize the opportunity that is within our grasp. There has been some complaint that some of the Manning people went work. My dear friend, I hope that you will not wait until you are forced to work for yourselves. Of course this does not apply to all of the people of Manning for some will work as long as they can find something to do, I know that it is not so plausible to work for seventy-five cents per day when we consider the high cost of living and yet it is less plausible to do nothing.

We must also take this under consideration that the employer as well as the employee has more or less worked a part of the eight months you are working for seventy-five cents per day, I would advise you to work with such zeal that your employer will be compelled to raise your wages, you can not force the raise of wages by not working. It is a foregone conclusion that labor cannot control capital. In a few days the water works will open up. The contractor for said works is a splendid man, I have met him and I am impressed that he will do the right thing by all.

He wants men to work that have families to support and who will make regular time. I trust that you will put in every day you can. Friends, I have something to say to you. I know that you are all doing nicely, but that work went good feed him. Let all the Manning people that are unemployed report for work on the day that the work begins so that out-of-town people will not shut you out, you who farm for a living do not desert your farm if it needs you to come to town to work. This work is not going to last long and if you leave your farm to come here to work it might do you harm in the future.

I hope you will accept this advice in the same spirit in which it is given. The time has come and it is at hand that we should show ourselves worthy wage earners.

A word to the free holders of Manning. My dear citizens: It goes without saying that you have my sympathy for your great loss that was brought on by the tornado on the 7th inst. I will assure that when you rebuild you shall have my patronage as well as my admiration at home and teach my people the same.

I know that it is human nature to get your work done as cheap as possible but I beg to make this request of you that when you get ready to let out your contract please give the home people your careful consideration as long as their bids are in reason. If our out-of-town man bids $100 under a home man, I believe it would be to the best interest of all concerned to give it to the home man. If you give it to an out-of-town man 60 or 70 per cent of the money will be sent out of town. If a home man gets the work 100 percent of the money will be kept at home. The chances are that you will get a fair proportion of it back.

And again, the home people will be here to support these enterprises when the stranger is gone. If our town is to be what we would have it, it will require co-operation. After all, Manning is only a densely populated community of neighbors. There is a sacred obligation that we all should have one toward the other as neighbors.

I am yours for an industrial, co-operation and a greater Manning.

A. W. TIMMONS, Pastor Trinity A. M. E. Church.

God's Good Man.

(Mrs. James Kelly.) He could not give a dollar, But to gladly give a dime And he smiled a cherry greeting As he said, "Some other time Perhaps I can do better; I should like to give it all, My interest is with you, But my principal is small."

He could not feed the multitude, But helped his fellow to his threshold To arise and try again— And although his load was heavy On the highway till the last. He helped to bear the burdens Of struggling ones he passed.

And the ragged little urchin, And the orphaned little maid, And the smiling pressed hand That on their heads he laid: And leaden clouds grew silver To the widow, lone and ill, As his arm, though over-burdened, Gently led her up the hill.

Who goes about his modest way, And simply does his best To make the path less stony For the footsteps of the rest.

Though himself be bruised and shaken Here is a fragment of God's plan, Is a price among the princely— Yea, a king, is God's good man!

In Honor of Miss Strange.

The young folks of the community enjoyed one of the most pleasant social events of the season on Monday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harrington entertained for Miss Leslie Strange.

Progressive conversations was the first amusement, followed by an apron contest which proved to be very interesting and amusing to each and every one. The first prize a dainty white work apron was won by Mrs. Anna Bell Evans, and Mr. Marion Evans, the lovely prize a lovely red apron was won by Messrs Jake Harrington and Kattie Reardon.

After this the young folks were invited out into the beautiful moon light and a delicious ice and sweet course was served by Mr. and Mrs. Harrington. Mrs. J. M. Lowder and Mrs. Mary Harrington.

This being enjoyed to the greatest extent they were again invited into the parlor where they enjoyed a very interesting and exciting State contest. The first prize a box of candy was won by Lucas Harrington and Irbey Reardon the bonny prize, a cub pipe was won by Miss Lorena Burns and Rembert Evans. This was followed by all writing farrowed letters to Miss Leslie Strange. After reading the letters over it was decided that Messrs C Duke and Janus McFattish had written the two best letters.

After this they all remained until the well small hours of the night made it known that it was time to bid farewell to the honored guest the host and hostess all left declaring that they had had a lovely time.

Music was rendered throughout the evening by Miss Leslie Strange and Mrs. Harrington.

Remembrance.

One of our most high esteemed young school marm left last Wednesday for her home in Wedgefield.

Think I could speak for each and every one as parents, school pupils and friends of this surrounding community that she was not only liked but loved. She made friends not only in this community, but every one that she came in contact with. This is her second year and we hope to have her in the third year, hoping that she will give as good or better satisfaction as she has for the past two terms if there is any room for improvement.

Next year she is expected in the day school but, also the church and Sunday school, also the welfare of the community, we will miss her very much, for a helping hand is always missed.

We all wish Miss Strange the most pleasant vacation that she ever spent and will be rested and ready to take up her old duties in September.

Everything is loose and blue, "down by old Black River" but still there is one consolation among all that I can hear an old choir singing "I come back and love you in the same old way."

May God's richest blessings rest upon Miss Strange will be two sermons at Midway Saturday May 29th, and the celebration of the Lord's Supper on Sunday morning, the public is invited.

Mrs. W. P. McKnight's her little son, Clarence, is doing nicely, is visiting her grandfather.

Food That Will Make Baby Chicks Grow

Clemson College, May 23—Do not stunt the growth of the young poultry stock by underfeeding, is the advice given by F. C. Hare, poultry husbandman of Clemson College, who says it is important for farmers to feed baby chicks well to insure feeding to pullets well throughout the summer, in order to have them in condition for fall and winter laying, which is most profitable. Prof. Hare gives all necessary feeding information in the following article.

One of the best foods for baby chicks when they need nourishment at 24 to 30 hours old is a mixture of two hard boiled eggs cut up fine, two broken crackers and a small handful of oatmeal. This mixture will keep them thoroughly and scatter a little on a clean cardboard.

Do not throw the first food in litter, because it is necessary first to touch the baby on its wings to eat. Observe that they will eat any small substance. This applies to feeding a mixture of small grains as well.

Feed the egg mixture six times the first day and four times daily thereafter. Place before the chicks a shallow pan containing equal parts of wheat bran and oatmeal. This box must be kept filled for at least two weeks, allowing the chicks to eat all the oatmeal mash they desire.

On the second day, commence scattering small grains and seeds in one-inch litter (not straw, shredded or cut fodder, broken pine straw or cut alfalfa) to make the chicks exercise. The following is an excellent mixture of scratching greens: wheat bran, cracked rice, cracked corn and millet seed, added to lend variety to the food. The object of feeding small grain is to make the chicks scratch, work and thereby keep healthy and strong.

The best growing foods and the most mash the chicks eat the faster they will grow, provided one keeps them exercising by scratching for grain and running over a good range.

The dry mash can be changed at the end of two weeks to this cheaper mixture: Wheat bran, 5 pounds; wheat middlings, 4 pounds; cotton seed meal, 2 pounds. Total, 20 pounds. The cotton seed meal must be good feeding meal; keep this mixture dry before the chicks constantly.

Buttermilk and sour milk are palatable and nutritious foods for baby chicks and mature fowls. Give them as much water in a farmer's note daily a moist mash of the dry mixture and the sour milk product.

The grain mixture may be changed to whole wheat, cracked corn, cane seed and other larger grains as the chicks increase in size. Supply the grain morning and evening in litter and the dry mash in a hopper.

The only satisfactory way to supply green feed and green range is to plough up the ground, drop a small piece of Bermuda grass seed in a mix and turn the next furrow over the chunks of soil and untine until the range is sodded. This one application will produce a Bermuda sod within a year, provided the soil is in a good state of fertility.

To solve the green feed problem completely one has simply to harrow the Bermuda sod in September and scatter over it 12 pounds per acre of burr clover seed in the burr. This will allow the fowls a green mix all range and will eliminate for all time the necessity of sowing or sprouting oats or planting rape, turnips or other vegetable foods.

All interested in the State are invited to consult Prof. Hare about their poultry problems.

The Drawing Room.

"We have had a dreadful time with father!" exclaimed the socially ambitious young woman. "I thought he was very kind and indulgent." He is. But now and then he gets terribly stubborn. He would insist on saying "sitting room" instead of drawing room." He said we'd have to show him a reason before he'd change his mind. "Did you make him change his mind?" "Yes. We finally convinced him we were right by reminding him that it was the only room in which the chimney would draw."—Washington Star.

TAINTED POLITICS

By Peter Radford.

This country is suffering more from tainted politics than from any other malady at the present time. There is scarcely a campaign speech made, a platform demand written or a measure enacted into law that does not carry the taint of personal gain of some politician or political faction thereof.

There is more "blue sky" in campaign promises of many politicians running for office than was ever contained in the prospectuses of the bold promoters of chimerical business schemes. There are more secret combinations formed by politicians in the name of "My Country" than were ever formed by any other class of men.

There are more political riddles hidden in the phrase "Be it enacted" than were ever concealed under any and all other disguises.

The inordinate thirst for political power and unrestrained passion for mastery has caused more distress in this nation than the greed for gold, and it ought to be regulated by law. No business combination ever pursued their competitors as ruthlessly or visited more heartless cruelty upon their customers than a political party that seeks to make junk of an industry, or cripple a business for party success, through tariff measures, political supervision and oftentimes destructive legislation.

Many political platforms are as alluring to the voter as the story of the rainbow with its pot of gold and their consumption about as far-fetched. Self-gain is the first law in politics. There are many men in office today who, if they could not shake plums off the tree of American liberty or cut a melon taken from Uncle Sam's commissary, would have less desire to serve the public.

The country is surfeiting with patriots, who will bare their breast to bullets in defense of their country, but there are few men in public life who will bare their breast to voters or run the gauntlet of party disfavor in defense of agriculture or industry. No permit personal prejudice to detract from party success to disfranchise reason or the rancor of a political campaign to influence judgment can render capable service.

The preservation of our prosperity depends upon wisdom, courage and honesty in government, and the American voter should seek these attributes as implicitly as the Wise Men followed the Star of Bethlehem and they will often be found to rest over the stable; the plow or the staff of the shepherd. The sure cure for the ills of the country is to elect honest men to office.

It is not the number of votes that elects a man to office, but the quality of the votes. The country needs men who will stand for the principles of justice, and who will not be swayed by the rancor of a political campaign to influence judgment can render capable service.

WATERED SECURITIES

By Peter Radford.

Much has been said and more written about the evils of watered stock in big business concerns and the farmers of this nation believe that every dollar written into the life of any business organization, should be able to say "I know that my Redeemer liveth," but farming is the biggest business on earth, and there is more water in its financial transaction than that of any other industry. There is as much water in a farmer's note drawing eight or ten per cent interest when other lines of industry secure money for four or five per cent annum, as there is in a business paying a reasonable compensation upon the face value of securities representing an investment of only fifty cents on the dollar. The only difference is, the water is in the interest rate in one instance and in the securities in the other.

The promoter oftentimes takes chances and his success is contingent upon the development of the property involved but the surer, as a rule, takes no chances and his success cripples the property involved. There may be industries that cry louder but none that suffer more severely from financial immorality in both law and custom than that of agriculture.

The farmers of America today are paying $200,000,000 per annum in usury on real estate and chattel loans, and this interest capitalized at five per cent, represents $4,000,000,000 of fictitious values which the farmer is paying interest on. This sum of money is almost equal to the annual value of crops produced in the United States.

The earning power of the farmer's note based upon his interest rate very nearly divides like the earth's surface—three-fourths water and one-fourth land. The largest body of water that floats upon the financial hemisphere now rests upon the farms and its waves are dashing and its billows are rolling against seven million homes threatening ruin and disaster to the prosperity of the nation. Will our public servants who understand how to drain the liquid off industrial properties turn the faucet and let the water off the farms?
