Manning's Great Industry.

Hearing one of our citizen express surprise at the excellent flour made by our local mill, we concluded to investigate the matter and give the public the benefit of our experience, as flour is the one thing that comes on our table in one form or another every day in the year. Very few people among us ever seen a mill for making flour. There were lots of farmers in our county who never saw wheat grow to maturity, but all that has passed now, and referring to the mill again, a few people can recollect the old time roller mills, located at the old Harvin and Gibson homes, but the new roller flour mill is much of a mystery in these parts.

To begin with our roller flour mill has a capacity of twenty-five barrels of flour in twenty-four hours, or a little more than a barrel in one hour, when wheat is in good condition for milling.

Once the wheat is gotten into the mill the machinery is arranged to handle it with but little trouble to the operator; after being weighed and recorded it is dumped into a bin holding about ten bushels or more, from which it is fed into an elevator that either carries the wheat to the mill rolls, or to a grinding, or through the cleaners and back to the first floor from whence it started, to be reweighed. This it seems necessary in cases where wheat has been badly thrashed and cleaned, and as most of the thrashers used this season were not fitted to do so, this special cleaning had to be resorted to quite often, the miller says.

After this cleaning the wheat is put back into the bin on the first floor and carried by elevators into the storage bins.

the hopper, from which it is taken by elevator to an almost airtight bin to be sacked through a packer, which works automatically, the operator having only to change the sacks, and start the machine. It looks as if out sider that it would be impossible to construct a more sanitary mill and it is something of a surprise that one man can look after the whole thing including the power plant, one thing in particular is peculiar, the absence of dust and flour settling on every thing which we always associate in our minds with such places.

As nearly every body has used some of the flour in one form or another it is perhaps useless to say anything about it, but it ought not to be much surprise to any one, why the flour is good if they will take the trouble to see how it is made.

One other thing we noticed, it has been generally talked that we can not grow good wheat on our lands, that is, much better wheat than we have here, but if any better wheat can be grown elsewhere than we saw in the mill, we would like to see it, we have some of it here in our office and would like to have the opinion of those experts.

Dear Editor—It is my purpose to write several articles giving my views on matters of interest, which I will be glad for you to give space in your paper. My first article is:

PROHIBITION.

At the last session of the legislature a referendum act was passed, giving the people of the state the right to vote on the question, as to the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors (prohibition) for or against.

That same legislative body also passed an act putting this state under the operation of the National Wet Act, which governs the shipment of liquor into dry territory, and incorporated in it the right to order one gallon of whiskey each month. This act then at a stated date governed the counties which had previously voted out the dispensaries under the local option law and to govern all the dispensary counties after December 1st.

The question submitted to the people on September 14th, then was not truly a question of prohibition, but a question of voting out the dispensaries in the counties which refused to vote them out under the local option law and put the whole state under the gallon-a-month government.

Now when the voters of this state declared for prohibition did they not do so only under the provision that they would still order a gallon a month? This referendum was not well understood. Some thought that to vote the prohibition ticket meant, to knock out the gallon a month, "prohibition" and they called it voting "dry." Yes some of the best educated people wore badges on which was printed, "Vote Dry." Well then did those who voted for the gallon-a-month (which under existing conditions is the out come of the prohibition vote) understand what their vote meant? And that they would not have voted the prohibition ticket unless they were to have the right to order the gallon-a-month? Or did they vote the prohibition ticket not for the gallon-a-month consideration, but because it was the nearest thing they could get toward "dry."

Now here is the question. If the people of the state want all whiskey kept out of the state then it is the simple duty of the legislature at the coming session to knock out the gallon-a-month, thereby giving the people what they have said they wanted. Are not the legislators representatives of the people?

Well then, if the people have said they wanted the gallon-a-month knocked out, the legislators are to knock it out, but if the people meant to show by their vote that they wanted the gallon-a-month, what can the legislators do but see to it that the gallon-a-month is not knocked out. Where are we at? What was the purpose of the referendum? Was it to secure the wish of the people on the whiskey question, giving them the opportunity to say by their ballot what they wanted? And was it not proclaimed that the referendum was wanted in an off year so that it would not get mixed up in politics? Now, following this idea out fully would we not say that the wish of the people has been obtained and that without political influence or intention, and the legislature at its next session will carry out the wish of the people as it appears and we will have prohibition here as simple. But if the referendum was gotten up just for political purposes it very naturally would be the intention of the promoters to confuse the issue so that the people might not vote intelligently, for it was plainly shown that the people of the state wanted the whiskey out completely the legislature would be bound to carry out their wishes. If there is confusion in the outcome of the election, and the legislature does not by its acts at the next session satisfy the people, then next summer would the promoters appeal to the voters and other influential people to support in the primary a prohibition ticket to the extent of advising the people to vote only for those who say they are for prohibition and will vote for some but prohibitionists.

What does prohibition mean? Some years back it meant state dispensary.

Did it mean a gallon-a-month on September 14th, 1912?

Will it mean a limited horse next summer on which to ride into office? Very resp't.

The oyster supper at Davis Station school house last Friday evening, gotten up by Mr. E. G. Stukes, chairman of the board of trustees, for the benefit of the school, was quite a success, being perhaps all in all the best ever had at Davis Station.

After so much rain the evening proved ideal, and the large crowd in attendance enjoyed seemingly to the fullest the fine oysters and other refreshments provided, as well as the social recreation that the occasion gave rise to.

The boys and girls of the high school department assisted both in preparing for the supper and carrying it through.

The following girls deserve special mention for their efficient service in waiting on the tables: Misses Mamie Coleman, Adr Childers, Gertrude Blackwell, Mary Richbourg, Pauline Childers, Goldie Brunson, Carrie Rawlinson.

The cake and lemonade corner was presided over by Miss Kate Childers, assisted by Misses Marion and Pauline Gumbles, and proved quite as popular a resort as the oyster tables.

Cakes were kindly contributed for the occasion by Mesdames M. E. Brunson, W. E. Broadway, E. H. Clark, W. E. Rawlinson, J. H. Blackwell, J. L. Johnson, E. G. Stukes.

Beautiful flowers were given by Mrs. J. H. Horton and Mrs. J. H. Childers, who were present as guests of the occasion. The capital stock of the Summerton Investment Company, will be opened at the office of Ragin and Green, Railroad street, Summerton, S. C., at 12 o'clock Monday Oct. 11, 1915.

Notice Pursuant to a commission issued to us on the 6th of October 1915 by E. M. McCown, Secretary of State, the subscription books for the sale of the capital stock of the Summerton Investment Company, will be opened at the office of Ragin and Green, Railroad street, Summerton, S. C., at 12 o'clock Monday Oct. 11, 1915.

The amount taken in from all sources oysters, cakes, and other refreshments, was $56.70.

The ladies of the Methodist church will serve a barbecue dinner at the old post office building next Saturday, beginning at 10 o'clock. Proceeds will be donated to the piano fund. Everybody cordially invited. A sumptuous dinner for only 35 cents.

Miss Emily Broadway left Saturday to take charge of a school near Harrisville.

Mrs. Joe Mims, Jr., and children returned on Friday, after a month's visit to relatives at Sharon.

Mr. Martin, representative of the Home Comfort Range Co., was here last week as a guest, at the home of Mrs. M. S. Broadway.

Mrs. F. S. Geddings and children returned Tuesday from a visit to relatives at Branchville and St. George.

Miss Lizzie Hodge, now of Philadelphia, was a recent visitor at the home of the Misses Hodge, near town.

Little George Cain is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Cannon, at Chesterfield.

Miss Rush, principal of the Big Branch school, spent the week-end with her parents at Sardinia.

Paxville, S. C., Oct. 11, 1915.

Up to date there has been something over 1500 bales of cotton ginned at this place, which is about 1000 bales less than was ginned up to the same date last year and about 500 bales less than the average for the past several years. But with the high price paid for cotton and cotton seed, the farmers and merchants are in much better shape than they have been in several years, and were it not for the large back accounts due by both the farmers and merchants for fertilizer and etc, there is hardly a man in this section of the county who would make money this year. But if farmers do not lose their head, and we hardly think they will, and plant too much cotton next year in my opinion these high prices will continue, but should every man use it in his home, it will be a little more cotton next year in the wind up we will find the whole South doing the same thing and again find ourselves with another bumper crop in 1916, and the price less than cost of production, and certainly it cannot be said then that the low prices are brought about by the European war, for this war will go on last year with a sixteen mill lion bale crop, and cotton selling around six cents, and this same war is still going on but with a ten or eleven million bale crop cotton is selling around twelve cents.

Then let us keep on the economical road and make some cotton, tobacco and all by means let us again grow a wheat crop while at this time your correspondent does not know the amount of wheat grown in this county this year, yet we are sure the man knows that thousands of dollars were kept at home that would have left this county had this wheat crop not been made, and the small yield in some sections of the county should not keep any man from again planting, as last year most of the wheat in this section was raised late in being put in, and many farmers not familiar with this crop accounts for no better results in many instances.

And then why not have some rice and sorghum cane, there is a bunch of rice on exhibition at Dr. Leon Fischer's drug store grown by Mr. J. R. Eason, that when threshed out and boughed up in chicken, would be good enough for a preacher or lawyer, less than a man or a new paper Editor. Now let's see who holds it?

It seems that last Saturday was the day named by the Globe Medicine Co., to collect their accounts in this section of the county, and believe me they were called on for many more such thousands of dollars were paid over to the agents at this concern, and while we are always glad to see people paying their bills we wonder if these people who were turning over the "long green" to this concern have been this long to our local druggist who are here to serve them 365 days during the year.

Last Friday night about 8 o'clock, some colored man went in the home of Mr. Selvio Dingle while Mr. Dingle was out, and he was reading and when he discovered the man he asked him what he was doing in there, but had no reply, but went in another room as though he might be hunting money by this time Mr. Dingle having got into his room more such thousands of dollars were paid over to the agents at this concern, and while we are always glad to see people paying their bills we wonder if these people who were turning over the "long green" to this concern have been this long to our local druggist who are here to serve them 365 days during the year.

Also on Sunday morning at the home of Mr. C. M. Davis, he heard a noise at his chicken house and thinking it a possum or snake after the chickens he started out and when he saw a man go on the back porch he saw a man leaving the chicken house coming through the yard with an old fat hen, and Mr. Davis said he understood the man to say don't you come out here and he having no gun took him at his word and shot him more such thousands of dollars were paid over to the agents at this concern, and while we are always glad to see people paying their bills we wonder if these people who were turning over the "long green" to this concern have been this long to our local druggist who are here to serve them 365 days during the year.

Mr. Clem Geddings who lives near Pinewood, died last Friday afternoon, after suffering for some weeks with a severe case of typhoid fever, the funeral and burial took place at Calvary Baptist church Saturday afternoon, conducted by his pastor the Rev. M. W. Gordon. Mr. Geddings was a young man 20 years old, and a Christian gentleman, he leaves a wife and one child, and a number of relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

Mr. F. W. Truluck has just returned from St. Louis, where he bought a car load of stock consisting of 15 fine mules, and 10 horses. Mr. Truluck said "stock was not as plentiful this year as had been heretofore, on account of so many horses and mules being shipped across the water to the Allies, and that they had advanced in price about 15 per cent."

Mr. A. R. Richbourg manager of the Summerton Live Stock Co., is now in St. Louis buying stock for his stable here and doubtless will have some of fine mules and horses as will be sold here this season, as Clark Felder, the salesman puts it they will have some "Cracker Jacks."

Dr. and Mrs. B. M. Badger of Marion, are the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Furse.

Miss Willie Gordon accompanied by her father the Rev. Mr. M. W. Gordon and her sister Miss Waunetta, left here Monday morning where Miss Willie opened the Workman school, it is your correspondent's pleasure to know some of the good people in the Workman section of this county, and he thinks them very fortunate indeed in securing the service of Miss Gordon as a teacher, as she is one of Summerton's most excellent young ladies.

Miss Katherine Capers the efficient teacher of the Silver school has handed your correspondent following which is the honor roll of that school with the request that it be published. First grade division, A. Lillie May Boswell, Fred Briggs, Roby Graham and William Johnson. Division B. Katherine Baker, Wilbur Briggs and Wightman Johnson. Fourth grade, Elizabeth Baker and Ruth Briggs. Seventh grade, Florence Felder.

We are glad to report that Miss Alice Richbourg who has been quite sick for several weeks is much improved at this writing, and her many friends hope to soon see her out again.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chewing who have been living in Hendersonville, N. C., for the last few years are here to spend the winter.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry King will regret to learn that their little baby now about six months old is suffering with a case of pneumonia, and hopes for it a speedy recovery.

Mrs. H. C. Carrigan died last Thursday morning and was buried Friday morning, the funeral was conducted by her pastor at her late residence, Rev. C. C. Derrick, assisted by the Rev's Mazzyk, Gordon and Trumble. Mrs. Carrigan is survived by her husband, H. C. Carrigan Sr., eight sons as follows: J. V. R. J. H. C. J. G. G. Wm. H. A. C. C. and L. W., and one brother Mr. J. B. Holladay, two half brothers Messrs. Robert Gamble of Raleigh, N. C., and William Gamble of Buffalo, N. Y., and three sisters Mrs. Hatlie Wilson of Waycross, Ga., and Mrs. F. W. Folsom, and Mrs. Walter Fort of Summerton. Mrs. Carrigan had been a member of the Methodist church from her girlhood, and was a good neighbor, a loving wife, and a most excellent mother. The family and relatives of this good woman have the warmest sympathy of their many friends in this town and community.
