Nov. 8—Everybody's Day.

Nov. 9—Agricultural Day.

Nov. 10—Educational Day.

Nov. 11—Negros' Day.

Let the People Put Aside Worry and Dull Care These Few Days and Enjoy to the Fullest the JUBILEE WEEK OF THE YEAR.

SIBLEY'S SUPERB SHOWS.

The Educational Feature of the coming Fair will be superb. The noted speakers engaged for each day will entertain with gems of thought and will bring to you information of good cheer.

You will see the most complete exhibits ever shown in Williamsburg County. Our Household, Needlework, Fine Art and Floral Departments will command your admiration; our Horse, Mule, Cattle, Swine and Poultry Show will do credit to Williamsburg County.

The Carnival Features will be the best—moral, entertaining and up-lifting—shows worth your while. Merry-Go-Round and Ferris Wheel to gladden the hearts of the children.

FREE ACTS.

We were fortunate in securing Little Rex, the midget high diving pony, and Lyle, the water dog, his companion. We offer Free a high class Feature Act of five persons, four of whom are children, performing on the platform immediately before you. Tumbling, Wrestling, Pyramid Building, Hand Balancing and Hand to Foot Summer-Sault Layouts. This is especially for the kids, so if you would not have them laugh their sides sore keep them at home.

Ample room for all exhibits. Don't forget the dates, November 8 to 11, inclusive.

TOWN FACTORS.

Perhaps no other one factor yields so great an influence in regarding the growth and prosperity of a town as factionalism. It spreads itself as a pall over the community life, and under its malign influence all progress wits like a peer tree under the blight. No amount of energy and public spiritedness is sufficient to survive its depressing effects.

Take the average town torn by factionalism. A measure of public improvement is proposed. It comes from one of the two factions. It really has merit and would be beneficial to the town. Does it meet with approval? Yes—from that side of the house. From the other side, bitter opposition. Why? No mortal man can tell, except that it emanated from "the other side."

There you have the meat in the cocanut. "The other side" stands for everything that is undesirable and vicious.

And it is a sad commentary on our boasted Christian civilization that this spirit of bitter factionalism too frequently originates where it should never be found—in the churches. With them, all too frequently, "our folks" does not mean, as it should, all of God's creatures, but is contracted to apply to "our church," be it Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, or what not.

Again, in many small towns, this factionalism centers in the banks. Each has its following. Each is striving not only to build up its own fortunes but to tear down the other.

But from whatever source, the fact remains, and the factionalism flourishes, a sad commentary on the boasted "progressiveness" of our countrymen.

And the pity of it is that it is all useless and fruitless of no good results to either side.

United effort would invariably accomplish for both what divided wrangling accomplishes for neither.

There is a world of truth in the old emblem of the bundle of sticks, bound together, which no man could break, but which, taken separately, a child could destroy.

No factional fight in a community ever yet resulted in complete victory for either side.

Many communities have had the sagacity to reorganize this fact and, while there have always been and will always be differences, have had the good sense to endeavor to harmonize and work together for the common interest.

When we see a community torn by factions, we feel like reminding it of the old fable of the cats and the monkey. The cats found the cheese, but the monkey ate it at last.
