4-MINUTE SPEECHES BY

BOYS AND GIRLS FROM CLARENDON'S SCHOOLS

Burrell Tindal

Dear Countrymen and Co-Workers:

This is a time of much turmoil and strife among the nations of earth, among which our own dear nation, the United States, is a part. Our stars and stripes are at stake for us to save or lose; to hold or see Germany with her mighty army of forty years' training subdue and crush into ruins.

War is an awful thing. It means destruction of homes, lives, and fortunes while in progress, but when conquered it means peace and happiness.

Of course, we all know the cause of this war. World wide powers, supremacy of high seas, sinking of our ships, our birds of commerce, lack of strong central government on the part of Germany. You see, countrymen, our causes are just in the sight of God and man. The fight we must, yes, fight we must.

Yes, people, we are up against the greatest struggle the world has ever known, or ever will know we hope, but, boys, we must put our shoulders to the wheel, stand four-square for our Republic and Liberty, our confidence in our government and God and push forth to victory.

Ask any man of American birth if he loves his country when you may. He is sure to answer, "Yes, I love every foot of her soil from sea to sea, her rocks and hills, her woods and templed hills." Prove it then. Don't be a slacker. Do your bit. Buy a War Savings Stamp.

You know if John goes to see Mary a life time and says "Mary, I love you," and never proves it, Mary will never be any better off than she was when he started. So, if we say we love our country and never prove it, we will never win a war of forty years' preparation and anticipation.

The United States has a president she should be proud of—Woodrow Wilson, a man for the occasion, one who knows just how to meet this conflict and pilot our nation through it in safety, if we co-operate with him in every way.

He and the war department were very wise in dividing the burden of war so each of us as men, women, boys and girls, could share its burdens.

So you see Uncle Sam's army contains every United States citizen whether he wears the Khaki or Navy color. We must give our lives and fortunes if need be. When Uncle Sam calls we must answer by doing what he bids. Buy War Savings Stamps.

This patriotic service has been divided up into various organizations, such as Red Cross, Liberty Bonds, Junior Red Cross and War Savings Stamps.

But War Savings Stamps are what we are putting forth this special appeal for this evening. Big men must do big bits—Buy Liberty Bonds; little folks like you and I do little bits—Buy War Savings Stamps. But every little bit helps. There are two ways to get these stamps. Go to some bank or post office and purchase one at its value, which is $4.16. If you can't do that much buy a Thrift Stamp, which costs 25 cents. Then keep on saving until you can fill your card and get a War-Savings Stamp.

Now, I am pleading in Uncle Sam's name to you this evening; do your part. If you don't, if needs be, he is going to lay hold of your money in some way, as in tax form. If he does not Germany's brutal hosts will trample us under foot. Why hoard your dollars and lose your freedom. What will it profit if we lay our fortunes by only to be trodden under by blood thirsty Germans? Why fling down your dollars to the Huns? Why not feed them to American guns? Save a soldier's life. We have sent our soldiers to France. Now must we need see them lack food and ammunition, while we bank our dollars here at home?

Hadn't we rather see the Stars and Stripes float over Germany than the German flag over America? Sure, we had. This is our war, our duty, our country to save or to lose, not one man alone. With God's help the United States has got to win. She must win. She shall win.

We could not afford to dishonor our heroes of the Revolutionary and Civil Wars who have past and gone, for if they could their bones would rise from their country's grave and fight before the furious Germans.

The soldiers are going, not one by one, but by the thousands. Not the least question about leaving their homes, parents, sweethearts and wives, but going like men, because they want to save their country. Compare your sacrifice and theirs.

Now, my last appeal to you, boys and girls who breathe the free air beneath the Stars and Stripes, buy War-Savings Stamps until your bank account is wanting, your pocket book is empty, and your stomach aching for a biscuit. Buy War Savings Stamps until the Stars and Stripes shall reign over Germany and America shall win the victory.

Miss Sadie Ridgill

This great war in which we are now engaged is one of the most uncivil, barbarous, heart-rending wars that America has ever been forced to share. Never before did a matter of win or lose have such unbounded results as would occur in this case.

If it should be our misfortune to lose, what word, what imagination, could picture the heinousness, the heinousness of the invading, plundering, murdering German armies, destroying our country—America. But shall we lose? The patriotism of every true American would rebel against that word, "surrender" when such a cause is at stake.

Never before did a war threaten such a menace to our very existence, to say nothing of our civilization? My friends, picture our free America subjected to German rule for freedom and life our forefathers gave their lives gladly, and now shall we allow this blessing to be taken from us just because we do not support our President? Are we going to be slackers? Are we going to be cowards and think of our own peace and prosperity only, and thus sacrifice our honor? Very often we hear people say, "We could have kept out of this war; we could have lived at home without commercial relations with other countries." Could we have kept of this war? Yes, we could have by sacrificing the noblest virtue—our honor.

Did America ever turn coward and run when her duty was plain before her? Should we have held our hands and waited until Germany had conquered France and her allies and have landed on American soil—here to repeat the debauchery, the plundering, the murdering in cold blood of our men, women and children, as was done in France, Belgium, Russia and other countries which are at war? May our merciful God forbid that these crimes may ever be repeated in America.

The savagery of Germany and her unprincipled ruler cannot be compared with any of the ancient barbarians of the time when civilization was struggling for permanence. It seemed indeed that it could not have been worse when wars were waged between man and man, but now this awful war is being fought against the innocent women and children.

Our armies are in France to help and man, but now this awful war is the risk of their lives, but they cannot win without the hearty co-operation of the people at home, even though they make the supreme sacrifice.

On the battlefields of our allies after a battle all of the wounded German soldiers are taken to a hospital where they are cared for as carefully as our own men until their recovery. Does Germany care for our wounded soldiers? Do you know what is done to them? The club that is used in this case might have been the weapon of a savage of five thousand years ago, but it is in reality the one that those brutal Germans use to end the lives of the poor, wounded, helpless soldiers of her enemy. Knowing this,

do you think that Germany is a civilized nation? Is this method of treatment just? God forbid that this word
