Came in Saturday, Another Carload of the Famous Grant Sixes

is going like hot cakes in Clarendon. We have already sold several car loads and have two car loads in transit now—expecting them some time this week.

This car is making a wonderful record all over the country and if you are now in the market for a car we will be glad to give you a demonstration at any time you wish.

Cutting Out Weight and Waste

GRANT

SIX

$1245.

Its economy and comfort make GRANT SIX the most useful car you can have right now—Its record for durability and high used car value make it a real investment.

MORE and more people are turning to the cars of light weight—cars like the GRANT SIX. They have discovered that unnecessary weight is nothing but waste of fuel, oil and tires.

The GRANT SIX with its 114-inch wheel-base is as large and as roomy a six as you would ask for. By skilled body design it actually seems much longer than it really is.

Yet the GRANT SIX is not the lightest car of its size—Grant engineers have not sacrificed sturdiness or durability.

Its thousands of owners average 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline, 900 miles to a gallon of oil, 7,000 miles or more from standard 32x4 tires.

In comfort no six excels the GRANT SIX. Its 47-inch cantilever rear springs and the double-decked springs in the seat cushions make "riding comfort" words of real meaning as applied to this car.

WILL ANSWER WITH GUNS

Officials Speculating as to Foch's Next Blow

Washington, Sept. 16.—Another blow against the German lines as an answer to the peace proposal of the Central Powers is expected momentarily by military officials here.

The point of the expected attack is a matter of wide speculation by officers. Several simultaneous attacks will be delivered, it is thought, with the Flanders front, the French operations about La Fere directed at Laon and the new American front across the mouth of the old St. Mihiel salient as the logical positions from which Marshal Foch would strike.

It has been significant to some officers that the British have not pressed very heavily on the front between Ypres and Douai, north of Ypres, there has been only minor operations by the Belgians since the Allied counter offensive began. British attention has been concentrated to a large extent on clearing up the Douai-Cambrai-St. Quentin front, and many observers here believe the lines have been straightened along this sector now for a new movement to the north. It has been noted, however, that British artillery has been pounding the German lines west of Cambrai with special vigor recently, which may be due to a direct drive for the capture of that city.

Probably Along the Aisne
Since the French are slowly making their way to a flanking position which would force the Germans to withdraw from the Chemin Des Dames line protecting Laon, some officers believe a new movement along the Aisne and probably extending to the east of Rheims is to be anticipated.

It is pointed out that if the Germans were forced to withdraw from the Chemin Des Dames a swift advance from the Rheims front would tend to outflank the whole enemy line from that point to Verdun.

There is no information of an official character as to Gen. Pershing's present operations. The greatest reticence apparently is being enforced on press correspondents in discussing the tactical disposition of the American army at this time and to observers here this suggests that preparations for a new advance are well under way. The logical objective, it is held would be occupation of the Briey Iron fields and an effort to encircle Metz from the west. If Gen. Pershing is moving toward that goal now, it is said a joint attack by his army and the French army holding the Verdun front would be a probable development. Such an action would be over a very extended front however, and some further reconnaissance of the enemy's positions on the immediate American front may be necessary before it can be undertaken.

HUNS DELAYED TOO LONG

Didn't Expect Americans to Attack so Soon

American Army Headquarters in Lorraine, Sept. 16.—A German officer captured by the Americans makes interesting revelations concerning the St. Mihiel salient. He declares that its continued holding by the Germans would have been and was a piece of unsoldierly pretentiousness which was only persisted in from political necessity. He was very angry about it and asserted that representations had been made to the great general staff as to the impossibility of holding the salient with the troops assigned to it in face of the American concentration which was known to be taking place, but at the time it was supposed that the occasion was not propitious for attacking the Germans and any readjustment of the German positions was postponed until the moment for a complete evacuation was past.

SHE WOULD BE GOOD CHEER MISSIONARY

Expresses Wish that Every Man and Women Knew of Her Trials

HAPPINESS RESTORED
Mrs. Hoogkirk Now Able to Enjoy Herself and Recommends Tanlac As It Was to Her

"I just wish that every woman, and every man, too, for that matter, could hear of my experience," earnestly declared Mrs. J. B. Hoogkirk, of 325 Gates Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. "If they all could hear and know, there would not be nearly so many suffering people in a few weeks," she added.

This woman, made wonderfully happy by the benefits which came to her, wants to be a missionary of good cheer, and for that reason she told her experience, a chapter right out of her life. "I was not able to be like other women," she said. "For nearly ten years I suffered with rheumatism, nervousness and a generally run down condition. I had pains all through my body, I was unable to do my housework, had almost no appetite, and found no pleasure in my meals. My food did not digest properly, but soured in my stomach, giving me headaches, nausea, a bad taste in my mouth, and a dull tired feeling.

"One day a friend told me to try Tanlac and I did. To my surprise I began to get fine results right from the start. I gained four pounds on the first bottle. My backache was relieved and the pains ceased. Soon I was able to do my housework. My appetite became good, my whole system was built up and I slept well. I am not pale any longer and I am able to enjoy myself at home and traveling, and wherever I go I recommend Tanlac to others as my friend did to me."
