WIFE HAPPY OVER HIS BIG APPETITE

Mrs. Rogers Appreciates Husband's Compliment to Her Cooking

ONCE SUFFERED MUCH

Mr. Rogers Suffered Long With Stomach Trouble But Was Restored by Tanlac.

"My fine appetite certainly pleases my wife, for she is a good cook and likes to see me enjoy my meals," said H. M. Rogers, of 105 Budd St., Elmira, N. Y., in a story for men, and women, too, who have a finicky appetite and cannot eat the fine, nourishing meals that are set before them.

"For a while," Mr. Rogers explained, "I couldn't eat any solid food. I was continually bothered with gas and bloating that made me feel as if I were going to burst. My breath would come short and I would have a suffed up, suffocating feeling. It seemed to affect my heart. My stomach was so sore I could hardly touch it. I kept doctoring and trying remedies, but got worse instead of better. While I was suffering so I kept hearing of a new medicine, Tanlac, and commenced to take it. I didn't get any relief from the first bottle, and I said to myself, 'Stung again,' but people told me to give it a fair trial, and so I kept on. In a little while I began to improve. After my fourth bottle I felt fine. The old appetite came back; I did not have any more gas or bloating or suffocating spells, and my stomach and whole system were toned right up.

"That is all true," declared Mrs. Rogers. "Tanalac worked wonders for him, and we are glad to tell our experience to everyone. It is no use to doubt this Tanlac; it does the work."

Tanalac is the Master Medicine for ailments of stomach, liver and kidneys and catarrhal affections, which so often makes good after other medicines have failed.

Tanalac, the Master Medicine, is sold by Dickson's Drug Store, Manning; H. W. Nettles, Jordan; Shaw & Plowden, New Zion; Farmers' Supply Co., Silver; D. C. Rhame, Summerton.

THE PEACE TERMS AS OUTLINED BY FRANCE

Paris, Dec. 29.—The storm which has been threatening in the French Chamber for the past four days broke this afternoon when Stephen Pichon, minister of foreign affairs, amid violent interruptions by the Socialists and counter demonstrations by the government supporters, outlined France's peace terms.

Publicity and Intervention.
The minister declared that France is absolutely in agreement that full publicity be given to the proceedings of the peace conference. He announced that intervention in Russia was inevitable, but that it would be of a defensive character so far as French troops were concerned, and that if offensive operations were undertaken, it must be Russian troops.

Big Budget.
It has been evident for the past week that the opponents of Premier Clemenceau were determined to obstruct in every possible way the voting of the budget of 10,500,000,000 francs for the first three months of 1919 unless the government stated its peace terms either through Premier Clemenceau or M. Pichon. But it was not expected that the government would do so before Monday.

Storm Breaks.
M. Franklin-Bouillon, of the committee of foreign affairs, brought matters to a head, however, by a violent attack on M. Pichon and the government's foreign policy.

Since Thursday the government bench has sat in obdurate silence, refusing to reply to any queries; but when M. Pichon ascended the tribune this afternoon he was ready to answer. He declared:

No Secret Diplomacy.
"First—That the government was in accord that the utmost publicity should be given the peace conference, thus replying to the interpellation of the Socialist deputy, Marcel Cachin, of last Friday, when he asked Premier Clemenceau to state whether secret diplomacy would be abandoned in the peace conference and the discussion given all publicity.

League of Nations.
"Second—That the French Government has adopted the principle of a league of nations and is now busy working towards its effective realization, thus replying to the interpellation of the Socialist, M. Brache.

"Third—That the government does not desire any annexation, but reserves the right to fix the Alsace-Lorraine frontiers, to guard against future attack, thus replying to M. Franklin-Bouillon.

"Fourth—That the government does not think that the question of diplomatic representation of the Vatican arises at the present moment.

Defensive Intervention.
Upon Russian intervention, M. Pichon explained, reading from instructions issued by Premier Clemenceau to the general commanding, that such intervention was not offensive for the time being, but defensive, in order to prevent the Bolsheviks from invading Ukraine, the Caucasus and Western Siberia. In the future an offensive intervention might be necessary in order to destroy Bolshevism. Such an operation must be carried out by Russian troops, of which 100,000 were at the present time ready at Odessa.

Pandemonium.
While M. Pichon was reading M. Clemenceau's instructions pandemonium broke loose in the Socialist bench. "The war is beginning anew," they shouted. M. Deschanel, president of the chamber, threatened to have one of the most unruly of the Socialist members ejected. M. Pichon weathered the storm calmly. He refused peremptorily to answer whether the French Government was prepared at the present time to make public the names of its delegates to the peace conference. The chamber must give the government its confidence, he said.

Socialists Strengthened.
The chamber was again in an uproar in which it was noted that others joined with the Socialists. The chamber is holding a session this evening, as the budget must be voted before midnight, December 31, by both the chamber and the Senate. There were three sessions today and two have been held every day this week. But only one vote on strictly party lines was taken. This was on Friday when the government did not lose any strength, despite the widely advertised onslaught of its opponents.

Bouillon's Views.
Paris, Dec. 29.—(Havas.)—In the course of the discussion of provisional credits in the Chamber of Deputies today Henry Franklin-Bouillon, former minister of missions abroad and vice president of the foreign affairs committee of the chamber said the question of Alsace-Lorraine and of the Sarre basin, according to the committee on foreign affairs, former one problem for settlement.

"It can not be admitted," said M. Franklin-Bouillon, "that we had not taken back the mines of the Sarre that Prussia stole from us in 1871 as she stole Alsace Lorraine in 1871. On the other hand the commission is opposed to making of men citizens against their will."

The speaker declared that the committee was unanimous that the land on the left bank of the Rhine must be used no more for enemy concentration against France.

"Not a soldier nor a fort must remain on the left bank of the Rhine or in a zone forty kilometers from the right bank," he declared.

Concerning Russia, the speaker said he thought intervention necessary, but that it should not be purely militaristic. "Our Allies should contribute to this intervention on a larger scale than we," the speaker continued, "because of our sacrifices. We could participate by giving a staff of officers and volunteers with high pay."
