PERUNA THE GUIDE POST TO HEALTH

Has Never Been Down Sick Since Taking PERUNA

Read this letter from Mr. Robt. Minnick, Grass Range, Montana.

"In 1900 I was out in Kansas running a threshing engine and the threshing crew had to sleep out of doors. One of the crew brought a Peruna Almanac to the engine one day and I was feeling very ill from sleeping out. I decided to give Peruna a trial and sent for a bottle of Peruna and a box of Peruna Tablets, which straightened me out in a hurry.

"I have never been down sick since that time. I do not take any other medicines except Peruna. I always keep it on hand. If I get my feet wet, get a cold, feel chilly, or a little bad, I always take Peruna. People should not wait until they are down sick and then take it, but should keep it on hand like I do and when they feel bad, they should use it."

feeling among American troops, officers as well as men. Because of this feeling it is admitted, more or less generally, that the troops here probably would be of little use after June 1.

In official circles in Archangel there is no disposition seriously to blame the troops for this condition. On their arrival in North Russia last September the Americans were keen for fighting the Bolsheviki, who they had been told were German agents. They have fought bravely throughout the campaign and they are still doing so.

Men Losing Spirits.

However, since the armistice with Germany was declared, the soldiers have been subjected to constant Bolshevik propaganda, which together with their desire to return home after the end of the war for which they were drafted and the hardships and loneliness of the Arctic winter, has caused them to lose their spirits.

Meanwhile, they have had no official statement from the government to answer the Bolshevik propaganda and no American in Archangel is in a position to tell them officially what they are fighting for.

Amounting to Mutiny.
Washington, April 10.—The War Department issued tonight an official statement confirming Associated Press advices from Archangel that what amounted to a mutiny took place among the American troops there on March 30. A company of infantry, the message stated refused to entrain for the front until personally urged to do so by Col. George E. Stewart, commanding the American contingent. Open threats were made of general mutiny unless a definite statement from Washington insuring early withdrawal was forthcoming.

The text of the paraphrase of the code message, dated March 31, follows, the departure having eliminated only the identification of the company and certain military information not bearing on the incident:

"Yesterday morning, March 30, a company of infantry, having received orders to the railroad front, was ordered out of barracks for the purpose of packing sleds for the trip across the river to the railroad station.

"The noncommissioned officer who was in charge of the packing soon reported to obey. At this some of the officers took charge and all except one man began reluctantly to pack. A considerably delay. The soldier who continued to refuse was placed in confinement. Col Stewart, having been sent for, arrived and had the men assembled to talk with them.

"Upon the condition that the prisoner above mentioned was released, the men agreed to go. This was done and the company then proceeded to the railway station and entrained there for the front. That they would not go to the front line positions was openly stated by the men, however, and they would only go to Obzorskaya. They also started that general mutiny would soon come if there was not some definite statement forthcoming from Washington with the regard to removal of American troops from Russia at the earliest possible date.

Seeks Further Information.
The department has cabled for more information. From the message received today officials were unable to ascertain whether a condition of mutiny had in fact developed in the past ten days. Pending further advices no comment was forthcoming as to the course to be pursued.

Presumably, it was said, Col. Stewart already had been advised directly that it was the purpose of the Supreme War Council, in charge of the policy governing the movement to withdraw the entire force from Northern Russia when the ice blocking the harbors goes out. The British relief expedition, originally scheduled to be 2,400 strong, has sailed, as have the two company of American railway engineers sent at the request of the British authorities to keep open the railroad south of Murmask.

Announcement of the purpose to withdraw the force was made officially to congressional military committees by Secretary Baker February 17 on instructions from President Wilson. Supplementing that statement, Gen. March, chief of staff, said last Saturday that the American contingent would certainly be withdrawn by June.

Makes It More Serious.
The official report makes the incident even more serious than the original press account. Intimations that a general feeling of unrest pervaded the entire force have come epreviously from Gen. Ironsides, the British commander-in-chief. Both British and

Mrs. Landreth Says She Was Hardly Able to Do Her Work

LADLY GIVES DETAILS

Declares She Believes Tanlac Will Do as Much for Other as for Her.

"Tanlac is a fine medicine and it certainly did prove a fine tonic for me," declared Mrs. H. C. Landreth, of Blake St., Greenville. "I suffered from a badly weakened, run down condition, and I was hardly able to do my housework. I was subject to frequent and severe headaches, and every time one of those attacks came I would have to stay in bed at least twenty-four hours, and I would hardly be able to do anything for two or three days.

"My appetite had almost completely left me, I had indigestion badly, and at times it would keep me from resting well at night. Really, though, I could not sleep well at any time.

"It has been about six months since I stopped taking Tanlac, and I took three bottles. Tanlac quickly broke up those spells of sick headache and I have not had an attack since I began taking the remedy. My appetite was improved a great deal, my system was built up and my stomach was toned up so my food agreed with me and I am not troubled with indigestion now. The remedy also quieted my nerves, and I got so I could sleep well.

"I certainly am glad to tell the public of Tanlac, for I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me. I am glad to recommend this medicine, for I consider it worthy of recommendation."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is sold by Dickson's Drug Store, Manning; H. W. Nettles, Jordan; Shaw & Plowden, New Zion; Farmers' Supply Co., Silver; D. C. Rhame, Summerton.

French troops have been involved, according to rumor, in similar incidents, but the American officers on the scene have felt that the morais of the American troops was too high for such an outbreak.

The dispatch today did not show to what extent Bolsheviki propagandists could be held responsible for the behavior of the troops, nor has any information reached the department tending to show the extent to which the rebellious attitude may have spread through the whole American contingent.

The 339th infantry of the Eighty-fifth division forms the bulk of the American contingent in the Archangel region. The unit is almost wholly composed of selective service men from Michigan. It is commanded by Col. George E. Stewart, of the regular army, who served in some of the most northerly posts in Alaska, and became thoroughly familiar with the weather conditions such as those at Archangel. While the action of the company at Archangel undoubtedly is mutinous under any strict interpretation of the military code, and would render the men liable to severe disciplinary action under ordinary circumstances, War Department officials did not believe such action would result. It was pointed out that the men apparently obeyed their orders subsequently when the situation had been made clear to them. Only in the event of a refusal which jeopardized the lives of other men, it was thought, would any drastic measures of discipline be invoked. Officers here were frankly doubtful that public sentiment at home would permit any other course, and many of them expressed sympathy with the feelings of the men.

The Quinine That Does Not Affect the Head
Because of its tonic and laxative effect, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE is better than ordinary Quinine and does not cause nervousness nor ringing in head. Remember the full name and look for the signature of F. W. GROVE. 30c.
