fulfilled its international obligations and its obligations under the covenant or not.

"Having sat at the table where the instrument was drawn, I know that that was not done accidentally, because that is a matter upon which no nation can sit in judgment upon another. That is left to the consciences and to the independent determination of the nation that is withdrawing. And there is only one jury that it need fear and that is the great embodied jury expressing the opinions of mankind (applause).

There is one part of the covenant—the principal part of it, where it speaks of arbitration and where it provides that any member State failing to keep these covenants—these particular covenants—shall be regarded as thereby ipso facto to have committed an act of war against the other members. The way it originally read was 'shall thereby ipso facto be deemed at war with other nations,' and I said, 'no, I cannot agree to that. That provision would put the United States at war without the consent of the Congress of the United States. And I have no right in this part of the covenant, or any other, to consent to a provision which would deprive the Congress of the United States of its free choice whether it makes war or not.' (Applause.)

"At every point in the covenant where it was necessary to do so, I insisted upon language that would leave the Congress of the United States free. I had finished about article ten. You will say it is all very well, what you say about the word of the United States being necessary, provided the United States is one of the parties to the dispute, that case it can not vote. That is very true. But in that case it has got to fight on that case it has got the fight on its hands anyhow; because if it is one of the parties to the dispute the war belongs to it. It does not have to go into. Therefore, it cannot be forced by the vote into the war. The only thing the vote can do is to force it out of the war.

"And I want to ask you to think what it means, when it is suggested that the United States may be a party. A party to what? A party to seize somebody else's property? A party to infringe some other country's political independence? Is anyone willing to stand on this platform and say that the United States is likely to do either of these things? I challenge any man to stand before an American audience and say that that is the danger.

"Ah, but someone may seek to seize our territory, impair our political independence. Well, who? Who has an arm long enough, who has an audacity great enough to try to take a single inch of American territory (applause and cheers) or to seek to interfere for one moment with the political independence of the United States. These gentlemen are dreaming of things that cannot happen. And I cannot bring myself to feel uneasy about things that I know are not so. The great difficulty in this discussion, as in many others, is the number of things that men know are not so."

DILLON WANTS 36 CENTS

Dillon, September 12.—A meeting of the Dillon county unit of the American Cotton Association was held this afternoon. County Chairman Dr. J. H. David presided. A report was heard from T. L. Manning, temporary secretary, who was sent as a delegate to the New Orleans convention. A report was made of the membership of the county association and money collected as follows:

Membership, 608; money collected, $3,400. Committees volunteered to go into the districts not yet worked and obtain membership in them. It is believed that 1,000 members will be gained in this county.

Mr. Manning made a strong address and outlined a method of taking care of the cotton crop and to enable the farmers to get their price of thirty-six cents and above. It is certain that Dillon County will organize a corporation very soon to take up all the distress cotton put upon the market. The plan as outlined is that the corporation shall buy all the cotton offered at a quarter of a cent above any price offered by any other buyer or factor until the price of thirty-six cents is reached.

Dillon county will need a $300,000 corporation, and it is believed by almost every farmer that the capital stock can be secured within forty-eight hours. A mass meeting of the farmers, together with all the membership, is planned for Friday, September 19. L. D. Jennings, of Sumter, the originator of the county corporation plan, will be present and address the gathering.
