BROWN-EYED COLORADO GIRL WANTS CAROLINA MILLIONAIRE

Governor's Secretary Undertakes to Find One for Her by Publishing Her Urgent Appeal for Mate.

Columbia, October 13.—Any bald headed, sentimental millionaire bachelor or widower who wants a pretty, brown-eyed little darling to help him spend his money and play sweet lullabies to him, has only to apply to the office of the Governor of South Carolina to get the address of a Western maid who is just "dying" to commit matrimony, providing there is plenty of coin in the offering.

While there has been no advertisement to the effect that Governor Cooper is heading a matrimonial bureau, yet a Colorado girl evidently thinks that he can put her in touch with some South Carolina swain who wants to be loved. The Governor's office received a letter today post-marked Pueblo, Colo., in which a request is made to find a pining maiden of one of the best families of Colorado, a helpmeet in the turbulent battle of life.

The maid is easily satisfied; all she wants is a "hubby" she can love with all her heart and who will love her—and can show one million dollars. In her set of specifications she says that any candidate that applies should be fifty years of age. This is interpreted as a gentle hint that she does not want him to live too long; she prefers to spend the million as a "merry widow."

Governor Cooper is in New Orleans attending the World Cotton Conference and his secretary, James C. Derieux, is handling the matrimonial end of the executive office. Mr. Derieux, however, has not had much experience along matrimonial lines, as he has so far failed to annex to himself a wife. In his desperation he called the capital newspaper men into consultation, but they could not apply; the majority of them are married and all were penniless. However, they suggested a handsome scribe of the Piedmont section, whom they thought might be interested. He is unmarried, but falls under the age limit, and he has not yet, so far as is known, amassed a million "scads."

Mr. Derieux requests the bachelors of the State, who will fall over each other's necks in an effort to capture the Western peach, to apply to him for the name of the fair one, and not to send photographs autobiographical sketches and financial statements to the Governor's office. He has no appropriation for the hiring of an extra stenographer and, in his opinion, the Colorado maid would prefer to receive all documentary evidence direct.

The epistle to the Governor, which is captioned "Hunting for Happiness," follows:

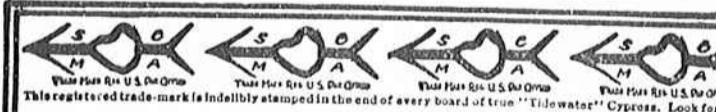

"Hunting for Happiness."
"I am looking for a tall Blue eye 50 year old Husband. He must have a million $. I am small. Called Pretty. Brown eyes. Music Teacher. I never did a Bad act before God in my life. If I find a Person I can love with all my heart and soul better than life and am sure He loves me, the same I will marry. We are one of the best Families in state of Colo. Please send photo and full particulars.

"Please give this to the best looking Bachelor in your State. Thank you."

The letter is signed by a woman who purports to live at Pueblo, Col.

New York, Oct. 13.—Elimination of typesetting, one of the costliest operations of magazine production, by the use of plates made by photographing the original type written copy has been accomplished in the October 18 issue of the Literary Digest, consisting of eighty pages.

This radical innovation which was brought about by the printers' strike in this city, leads the publishers to suggest that "it is possible in this age of marvels that the whole future of magazine production may be revolutionized by the elimination of typesetting."

CYPRESS "The Wood Eternal"

is accounted conspicuously fine for the inside trim of the house, especially for the kitchen. It is not "put on the warp" by steam and other forms of moisture, such as too often infest the kitchen. Then the grain is handsome and it takes a most beautiful finish. Why should not kitchens be attractive? Would it not help solve the servant problem? Cypress lasts and lasts and lasts and lasts—and always "behaves."
