Early Trial in Federal Court Likely
TWO PLEAS OF GUILTY

Half a Dozen of One Hundred and Thirty-five Defendants Appear in Court.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 1.—Unexpected progress was made today by federal officers in preparing the way for an early trial of the 135 men, including United States Senator Truman H. Newberry, who were indicted by a federal grand jury here late Saturday on charges of corruption, fraud and conspiracy in connection with the Newberry election campaign in 1918. Service was secured on a number of those indicted and first arraignments were held before Federal Judge C. W. Sessions today, half a dozen of the defendants appearing in court.

Something of a sensation was caused today when two of those cited in the true bills, but whose names did not appear in the list announced Saturday, came before Judge Sessions and pleaded guilty to counts contained in the indictments. These were William E. Rice, a Grand Rapids printer who this morning pleaded guilty to conspiracy and was released under bond of $1,000 and Allie K. Moore, formerly a Grand Rapids newspaper man and later a publisher at Marquette, Mich., who pleaded guilty late today to four of six counts.

Several others of the 121 whose names had been withheld pending service of the warrants, correctly suspected they had been named in the indictment and appeared voluntarily in court today. They included George E. Rogers, former Grand Rapids alderman; George K. Welsh, Kent county manager of the Newberry campaign, Charles Carpenter, former member of the Grand Rapids health board, and Roman F. Glocheski, said to have been employed at a salary of $150 a month to work during the Newberry campaign among the Polish residents of Grand Rapids. All pleaded not guilty, Glocheski being held in $2,500 bail and the others in $1,000.

That a bench warrant had been issued for Senator Newberry was indicated when it was announced that Charles Potter of the federal court had furnished United States Marshal O'Connor with one for each of the 135 persons indicted.

Speculation as to whether Senator Newberry would attempt to resist service of warrant against him was disposed of when former Circuit Judge James O. Murfin of Detroit now of the Newberry counsel, announced today that the senator would appear in court here next Monday to answer the indictment.

Arraignment of the remainder of the defendants is expected to spread over the entire week but all those named in the indictments, Judge Sessions has announced, must appear in court on or before next Monday, Dec. 8. Trial of the cases will not be permitted to drag, Judge Sessions indicated today, stating that an effort will be made to complete them before the 1920 presidential election.

GETS LARGE SUM FROM LICENSES

Sales of licenses and collections of fines through the office of the state game warden have already reached a figure above any other month and the money is still coming in. Yesterday Wade Hampton Gibbs, chief warden, said the collection of fines and the sale of hunting licenses had brought in $22,000 for November and he expected at least $5,000 or $6,000 more before all November reports were in.

This report is the best Mr. Gibbs has made and shows that his office is on the job every minute. In November of 1918 the figures for that month were $7,482. For the fiscal year of 1919 and 1920 the chief warden predicts a business of $100,000, which will break all records.

Mr. Gibbs said yesterday that the state office was looking after the game situation in every section of the state with live game wardens. In some counties good results were not obtained and Mr. Gibbs went to the scene himself and carried two special wardens with him. One instance was noted where almost no licenses were sold and no fines were collected. The special wardens visited the county and within two weeks over $900 has come into the coffers from that county.

Mr. Gibbs has worked up a splendid organization for protecting the game in South Carolina and enforcing the laws.

THE WILD ANIMALS AND DESTITUTE CHILDREN OF CLARENDON COUNTY

How in the world is there any connection between the game birds and animals and the poor boys and girls of Clarendon County? So, that's your query after reading the above heading? That there may become a very vital and far reaching connection it is the purpose of this article to show. It is possible that every time a game license is bought in Clarendon County there may be a contribution both toward the preservation of game and toward the care and education of poor children. The Game Warden's office exists for the purpose of studying game life in Clarendon County, improving it and protecting it; and part of this purpose is gained, as strange as it may seem, through the sale of licenses. The De la Howe State Industrial School, Willington, S. C., has been established for the purpose of studying, protecting, and improving the lives of the poor children of every county of the state, which of course means this county. There is resulting from the sale of game licenses each year a surplus in the treasury of the Game Warden's office. What shall become of this money? It has been suggested that it be given to the De la Howe Industrial School for the benefit of the poor children of the state. We take such pains to teach our children love for wild animals; now, wouldn't it be fine to think of the wild animals, even indirectly, caring for our children? If the Legislature should decide at its next meeting to give the Game Protection Fund surplus to De la Howe, all the counties of the state would be given free scholarships for their poor children at this school. Clarendon County would have its quota. Such a distribution of scholarships would be the most sensible way of solving the problem that surrounds the lives of the state's indigent children. It is possible that many who oppose the payment of a hunting license fee would feel otherwise about it if they knew that some of that fee would feed, clothe, shelter, and educate some poor boy or girl of Clarendon County. The above is commended to the consideration of all legislators and citizens of this county who are interested both in the game and the helpless child that so sorely need intelligent and sympathetic interest.
