The Poland China hogs pictured here can be sold by their owner for practically any price he may ask. When weaned they were worth upwards of $500 a piece. When fully grown they will weigh over 1,000 pounds each.

It costs no more to raise hogs like these than it does to raise "Razor Backs;" yet they will put on weight at the rate of 1 1-4 pounds per day.

We will be glad to co-operate with any farmer or farmer's boy in bringing a few more "Real" hogs to this neighborhood.

GREAT CAMPAIGN AGAINST MALARIA

Select Geo. R. Wheeler—Dr. Rupert Blue Will Direct it as Assistant Surgeon-General, it is Stated.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Complete elimination of the malaria problem in the Southern States and eradication of the anopheles mosquito, the pest which causes it, are only a matter of time, thanks to steps that have already been taken or projected by prominent members of Congress, high federal officials, State and local health officers in the South and the development organizations of that region which are working along the lines of a program that includes betterment of health conditions and sanitation. And the time required to accomplish these results may be reduced to as little as two years, it is predicted, if the necessary funds and manpower are made available.

In line with its work of encouraging the anti-malaria campaign in the South, as carried on by the health officials and development organizations there the United States Public Health Service is cooperating with the National Malaria Committee. To assist in propaganda work against malaria and its carrier, the mosquito. Surgeon of that work as assistant surgeon general after the arrival of the new surgeon general, (Dr. Hugh S. Cunningham,) from Paris, has announced a subcommittee on education and publicity.

Charleston Man Honored.

George R. Wheeler, of Charleston, manager of the South Carolina Landowners' Association has been elected for membership on this subcommittee, in recognition of the good work done by him and his organization in fighting malaria last year. Other members of the subcommittee are as follows: Dr. Oscar Dowling, State health officer, New Orleans, La.; Dr. T. F. Abernethy, State health officer, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Frederick R. Green, secretary council on health and public instruction, American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill., and Dr. W. S. Ranklin, State health officer, Raleigh, N. C.

Mr. Wheeler has accepted the appointment in a letter to Surgeon General Blue in which he suggests that the subcommittee hold its first meeting at Montgomery, Ala., March 11-13 coincident with the quarterly meeting of officers of the Southern Alabama Settlement and Development Organization and State managers of its affiliated associations.

The anti-malaria campaign in the South has attracted the attention of prominent members of Congress and legislation has been proposed in the national legislature to assist in the work. Senator Harris of Georgia has recently introduced a joint resolution authorizing an appropriation of half a million dollars to enable the public health service to cooperate with the States in the investigation and control of malaria in the United States. A similar measure has been introduced by Representative Overstreet of Georgia.

Besides the federal government and the States and local health authorities and development organizations of the South being lined up in this work, it has been suggested that the Rockefeller Foundation, which has been working on the hookworm and other problems, might be interested in tackling the anopheles mosquito.

Already the federal government has done much in seeking to dispose of the malaria problem and its efforts and those of official and unofficial cooperators in the South have yielded important results. During the war malaria was very largely checked at and around Southern army camps and other branches of the military and General Blue of the Public Health Service, who is chairman of the malaria committee and will remain at the head naval establishments. The Public Health Service has distributed thousands of copies of pamphlets, bulletins and posters in the campaign of education.

Besides dealing with the malaria problem from the standpoint of health and efficiency, the government is also treating it in relation to crop production. Dr. D. L. Van Dine of the bureau of Entomology, Department of Agriculture, has been working on the problem from this angle in Louisiana where the mosquito is being fought by various methods. The annual economic loss due to malaria has been variously estimated at from $100,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. It is pointed out that malaria is a serious factor in connection with efforts to put into use 2,000,000 acres of idle lands in the Southern States.

The mosquito has practically been eliminated from Washington, D. C., and vicinity and malaria has been gotten under control at various Southern industrial towns and elsewhere. Progress is also being made along other lines in the improvement of health and sanitation in Southern States. For example, there was a decrease in deaths from typhoid fever in South Carolina last year of about 37 per cent from the deaths from that cause in 1918, according to the University of South Carolina. The typhoid rate in other parts of the South is also reported to be declining. North Carolina has enacted a stringent law against the insanitary ysurface closet.

HASH WITH ANOTHER NAME SEEMS TO TASTE BETTER

Every Scrap of Meat Should Be Utilized—Chopping Can Be Depended Upon to Make Tough Meat Tender—Recipes for Chopped Meat.

What's in a name? Much, sometimes. For instance, hash. Hash has become one of the seven original jokes. But hash, if well made and well seasoned, is a culinary delicacy. No matter how good it is, however, it grows tiresome if served too much. So the canny meat-saving cook serves her hash in new forms, labeled with new names, and the snicky in her family eat it with a relish.

Sometimes the meat has been cooked, but oftentimes it is tough portions of steak or other cuts which have been cut off before cooking. Chopping makes it tender and also allows it to be cooked quickly and economically.

The following recipes are recommended by the home economic kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture:

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. N. E. Varner, of Hixson, Tenn., writes: "I was passing through the . . . My back and sides were terrible, and my suffering indescribable. I can't tell just how and where I hurt, about all over, I think . . . I began Cardui, and my pains grew less and less, until I was cured. I am remarkably strong for a woman 64 years of age. I do all my housework." Try Cardui, today. E-76

Mock Rabbit
1/2 pound beef and 1 pound sausage, or 1 pound beef, 1/2 pound sausage meat.
3/4 pound salt pork.
3 slices of bread moistened with water.
1 egg.
1 onion. Pepper and salt.
Chop the meat. Chop the onion and cook it—but do not brown it—in the fat fried out of a small portion of pork. Add the bread and cook a few minutes. When cool, mix all the ingredients and form into a long round roll. The surface can easily be made smooth if the hand is wet with cold water. Lay the remaining pork, cut in thin slices, on top, and bake 40 minutes in hot oven. The sausage may be omitted, if desired, and other seasoning used.

Smothered Beef Roll.

- 1 pound round beef.
- 1/2 pound lean fresh pork.
- 1 small onion.
- 1 green pepper.
- 1 cup soft stale bread crumbs.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1 egg.
- 2 cups stewed tomatoes.
- 2 slices bacon.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- 4 tablespoons flour.

Remove the seeds from the pepper and put it through the meat grinder with the meats and the onion. Add crumbs, egg, and salt. Make into a roll, place in a shallow baking dish, pour the strained tomatoes around it, put the bacon on top, and bake 40 minutes, basting with the tomatoes. Thicken the gravy with the flour cooked in the butter. A little seasoning, such as a bit of bay leaf, a clove, and a small piece of onion, improves the tomato sauce. As the pepper and onion are not likely to be cooked as soon as the meat, it is well to fry them in a little fat before adding to the other ingredients. This amount will serve six to eight people.
