

BUICK

POWER, sturdiness and dependability have been qualities of Buick Valve-in-Head Motor Cars from the time that the name Buick first became linked with the automobile industry. Today, in equal measure as in the past, the Buick Motor Company is dedicated to a continuance of the policy that has caused the Buick car to occupy the position it holds in the public mind.

To all that the name Buick has meant in twenty years of automobile history, the new Nineteen Twenty One Buick brings that grace of movement, that refinement of every line and feature, that sheer beauty of design which inspire a pride of ownership in a fine motor car.

The new Buick line comprises seven models, one for every possible demand. Each has the famed Buick Valve-in-Head Motor, as rugged and powerful as ever, yet refined into a mechanism of unusual quietness.

The improved radiator, hood and cowl lines give a finished touch of trimness to the body, yet without any sacrifice of Buick individuality.

A more resilient spring suspension gives these new Buick models a riding comfort as delightful as their exterior appearance is pleasing.

Each of the seven models has its own value particularly adapted to a distinct class of service. All possess those inherent Buick qualities that assure the owner the uninterrupted use of his investment.

SAYS ELECTION OF COX MEANS GOING FORWARD

Republican Candidate Favors "Going Backward" While Democratic Chief Looks Ahead, Gompers Asserts

'NORMALCY VS. PROGRESS'

Senator Harding Stands for Small Minority and Special Privileges, Declares American Labor Leader.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Writing in the current issue of the American Federationist, under the title "Normalcy Vs. Progress," Samuel Gompers president of the American Federation of Labor, says Senator Harding the Republican presidential candidate, has summed up his position as in favor of "going backward," while Governor Cox, the Democratic candidate, has declared for "going forward."

Mr. Gompers also says that the Republican national convention in adopting its platform "turned its back on labor" and declares that "every American worker, every earnest American citizen must strive ardently for the defeat of those who turned their backs upon labor and upon the people generally."

"The two leading candidates for the presidency have defined clearly their attitude toward the great public issues of the day," says Mr. Gompers' article, which was made public today by the Federation of Labor.

"In effect, Senator Harding says: 'Let us return to normalcy;'

"Senator Harding does not use the word 'normal'; he speaks of 'normalcy.' The word is obsolete and so is the condition to which he would return.

Leads Backward.

"Unquestionably in the mind of Senator Harding a return to normal means a return to the conditions that existed before the war—a return to something that is past. It is clear, then, that in keeping with the spirit of the Republican platform Senator Harding's personal desire is to follow a course that leads backward and if elected to lead the nation in such a course.

"Governor Cox proclaims a desire to go forward and a determination to lead the nation in a forward course if he is elected to the presidency.

"Both of these statements are abstractions and of themselves mean nothing beyond a definition of the general trend of thought of the candidates. The important fact is, however, that the platforms or the parties upon which these candidates stand and their own personal philosophies lead inevitably and naturally up to the conclusions found in those two brief utterances.

"The denial of any desire on the part of the American people to go backward to anything that is past has been found in practically every public expression which the people have been able to make in recent months."

Mr. Gompers then reviews the results of recent primaries in a number of States, and continues:

"The interest of the great masses of our people can be best served only by the election of the candidate whose declarations and whose record offer the best assurance of intelligence and integrity in the future. It is vital that there be success for the candidate and the platform which best understands the needs of the people and which most fully and most honestly pledges their satisfaction.

"The Republican convention turned its back upon labor and in so doing turned its back upon all of our people, except for that small minority which finds its occupation in the exploitation of the masses through special opportunities and special privileges.

"Every American worker, every earnest American citizen devoted to some cause of human progress and with a faith in the righteousness of the principles of freedom, justice and democracy must strive ardently for the defeat of those who have turned their backs upon labor and upon the people generally and for the success of those who have attempted to meet with understanding and in a spirit of constructive progress the problems of the needs of the working people and of the great masses of all our people."

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Professor Luero-Gunter, professor of Education in Furman University, was last week elected president of the State Teachers' Association of South Carolina. This is a high honor to Professor Gunter and a striking recognition of his ability as an educator. Professor Gunter took up his work as Professor of Education in Furman University at the beginning of this session. Already some eighty students are studying in his classes. They will note of them devote their lives to teaching in South Carolina, and he is making a very considerable contribution to the educational interests of this State. His duties as president of the State Teachers' Association will be principally the following:

First, to give publicity to the annual meeting in order to secure the largest possible attendance.

Second, to make a program for the general sessions and to assist in making programs for the departmental sessions.

Third, to preside over the sessions of the Association at the time of meeting.

Professor Gunter's well-known efficiency in whatever he undertakes assures a useful administration in this distinguished educational position. Prof. Gunter is teaching four days in the week at Furman University and spending two days in the week among the schools in the State wherever needed to assist. He comes at the request of the superintendent or of the teachers.

Keep Your Blood Pure Nature Will Do the Rest

Did you know that ninety per cent of all human ailments depend upon the condition of your blood?

Nature gives her warnings in various unmistakable ways, so that when the appetite fails, and you become weak and listless and a general run-down condition seems to take possession of the whole body, it is an unfailing sign that impurities will steadily accumulate until your general health will be seriously affected. You should recognize the importance, therefore, of very promptly cleansing out the system, and keeping the blood supply pure and robust.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. at your drugstore to day, and note how promptly it builds up the appetite and gives new strength and vitality. Write for free literature and medical advice to Chief Medical Adviser, 153 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.
