KING OF GREECE DEAD FROM MONKEY'S BITE

Alexander Succumbs to Hurts Inflicted by Pet Early in October—Succeeded to Throne When Father Abdicated Under Pressure From Allies in 1917.

Athens, Oct. 25 (By the Associated Press).—King Alexander of Greece died at 5:20 p. m. today. His death was due to wounds received when a pet monkey, attacked him early in October, the king being badly mutilated.

Throughout last night the heart action grew weaker, his general debility became more pronounced and pulmonary symptoms were intense. Breathing at times was most difficult and alarming and at noon today it was said that the king's condition was hopeless.

Alexander succeeded to the throne of Greece, in June, 1917, when his father, King Constantine, abdicated in response to the demand of France, Great Britain and Russia, the three powers which had guaranteed the constitutional liberties of the Greek people. Alexander was the second son of Constantine and at the time of his accession was not quite 24 years old. His elder brother, Crown Prince George was considered ineligible for the throne because of alleged pro-German sympathies.

In any event, King Constantine nominated Alexander to succeed him. The fall of Constantine had been brought about through the agency of the French senator, M. Jonnart, who went to Athens in June, 1917, as a representative of the three, great powers, on the ground that this step would establish unity of feeling among the Greeks and greater security for the entente forces then operating in the East. Constantine had been accused of pro-German sympathies partly on account of his marriage to the Princess Sophie, sister of the then Emperor William of Germany, and it also was charged that he had not acted honorably toward the allies. Alexander, on the other hand, was reported to be free from pro-German proclivities.

Alexander took the oath of office at Athens in August, 1917, and promised to carry out the policy of his father. This was said to have snocked the entente powers. It soon was reported that he was at odds with Premier Venizelos and had refused to abandon his idea of continuing his father's program. Some doubts were

WHY BOILS COME BACK

The Cause is in the System, Not on the Surface. A Good Stimulant Helps the Blood

Boils, Ulcers, infected skin and muscle swellings are all akin. Drive away the boil and it comes again in another place. Dry up the ulcers and heal the infected places and they promptly return. Reduce the swelling and it will re-appear. The trouble is in the blood, implanted in the system.

External treatments are only temporarily successful. Nothing short of a good tonic will suffice.

SarDraS, an excellent compound of medicinal herbs and roots, an excellent intestinal stimulant will attack the seat of the trouble.

It cleanses the system and blood and drives away impurities. It cleanses the stomach, liver and kidneys and nature does the rest. Common laxatives only leave you in worse shape than before. A tablespoonful taken before each meal will tone up the system and make a new person of you. Contains no alcohol. Try it a while.

raised as to the advisability of permitting him to assume the throne unless she discontinued what was characterized as an obstructive policy.

Reports of lack of harmony between Alexander and Venizelos were circulated in the spring of 1920 but the premier disposed of these in a statement in which he paid tribute to the king's patriotism. One respect in which the king and his premier were said to have been at odds was over the king's morganatic marriage to Mlle. Manos, daughter of a former aide de camp to his father, which is said to have taken place in November, 1919. No record of the marriage was obtainable owing to the fact that it was not recorded with the Metropolitan of Athens, the supreme ecclesiastic authority of Greece.

The young king and his morganatic wife were childhood friends and sweethearts. Alexander asserted that he had a right to marry whom ever he pleased and took his bride to the palace in Athens. This aroused a storm of discussion, which so displeased his wife that in the early part of 1920 she went with her mother and sister to live in Paris, and Alexander visited her there in the following May. It was announced that the Greek constitution did not grant him permission to enter upon the morganatic marriage, and that action by the Greek parliament would be necessary to determine whether Mlle. Manos could become queen of Greece or remain the king's official consort. Alexander's refusal to give up his wife was said to have greatly worried Venizelos and there were reports that the king would not return to Greece. He did so, however, and witnessed Greek operations in Thrace in the summer of 1920, entering Adrianople, which had been surrendered to the Greek troops, maid a great demonstration.

The death of King Alexander gives rise to the question of succession to the Greek throne. Former King Constantine was reported, according to Swiss dispatches of October 17, as intending to take advantage of the situation created by his son's grave illness by returning to Greece and claiming the throne.

About the same time a regency was suggested and Constantine gave his opinion of this as follows:

"Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. I will not think of a regency yet. My plan save those of my people."

Premier Venizelos on Sunday last expressed himself as confident that Prince Paul, Constantine's third son, would not be prevented from taking the throne by his father, as the latter would learn from the coming elections that there was no prospect for his return.
