FALL IS BEST TIME TO CAN SURPLUS CHICKENS

Canned Chicken a Friend in Need to Busy Housewife When Unexpected Guests Arrive—Cheaper and Easier to Can the Birds Than Feed Them—Canning Process Described.

A veritable friend in need to the busy housewife is canned chicken. A few jars of it on the storeroom shelf which may be quickly converted into a delicious dish when unexpected company comes or when other emergencies arise, give the housekeeper a sense of preparedness. From an economic point of view, canning the surplus of the flock is an excellent practice, as it is cheaper to can the birds than it is to feed them until they are wanted for the table. Nor is it necessary to have young chickens for canning, for the older birds have superior flavor and quite as good texture as the younger ones. Two-year hens made a much more desirable canned product than a six-month-old chicken. The best products were obtained from plump, well-fed hens in tests recently made by the Experimental Kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture.

How The Canning Is Done.

To prepare the bird for canning, it should be carefully picked and all pin feathers removed; it should be then singed and washed in water in which a small amount of baking soda has been dissolved. Remove the entrails cut the meat into pieces as for frying, and carefully wash each piece in cold water. The giblets and excess intestinal fat should not be put into the jars. The chicken may be partially cooked before being placed in the jar, being either browned in fat or stewed, but the best results have been obtained when the uncooked chicken was packed into the jars. The jars may be filled with hot water or both, or the meat may be canned without the addition of liquid. The best product has resulted when no liquid or only a small quantity (about 2 tablespoons to a pint jar) was added. The meat in jars to which no liquid was added has kept as well as that in jars filled with liquid, and has possessed a superior flavor. The following method is, therefore, recommended by the Experimental Kitchen.

Pack the pieces into pint jars. As much as a pound of chicken can often be packed into a pint jar. Two chickens weighing, before dressed, a little over 4 pounds each, when cut up for canning will fill five pint jars. For example, jar 1 may contain a thigh, leg, fillet of breast, and saddle; jar 2, a neck, wing, leg, fillet of breast, and two wish bones; jar 3, a saddle, neck, thigh, and fillet of breast; jar 4, a wing leg, thigh, and breast bone; jar 5, a fillet of breast, thigh, 2 wings

CHEERFUL WORDS

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove helpful to hundreds of Manning readers.

Mrs. C. M. Taylor, S. Boundary St. Manning, says: "About a year ago I was troubled with kidney complaint. I had terrible backaches and headaches bothered me. Nervous spells upset me and my nerves were just a wreck. I felt tired and languid and I suffered with dizzy spells. Finally, I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and bought some at Arant's Drug Store. I can certainly say Doan's did me a wonderful lot of good and quickly relieved me."

and a leg. When the meat has been packed into the jar, add a half teaspoon of salt to each, partially seal, and process.

If a water-bath outfit is used for the processing, set the jars on a rack in the bottom of a wash boiler with sufficient water to come 2 inches above their tops. Process pint jars continuously for six hours after the water begins to boil. Seal the jars quickly upon removing from the boiler, or if glass-topped jars fastened by a spring are used, force the spring into position while the jars are still immersed. After sealing invert the jars to test for leaks while cooling.

Reduces Time of Process.

If a steam-pressure cooker is used the length of time can be greatly reduced. Fifteen pounds' pressure for one hour has been found a safe and satisfactory period.

Chicken canned in either the water bath or pressure cooker is a desirable product, comparing very favorably with fresh chicken when used for chicken salad, creamed chicken, chicken stew, chicken pie, or for scalloped or baked dishes.

The chicken in a pint jar is sufficient to serve six persons when the meat is prepared in any of the ways mentioned.

TO OUTLINE COTTON DUSTING PROGRAM

The United States Department of Agriculture will participate in a conference called by the Plant Protection Institute, to be held at the Chemists' Club in New York, December 6 and 7, to outline a program for cotton dusting in 1921. Treatment of cotton with poison dust, principally calcium arsenate, has been of such recent development as a means of combating the boll weevil that often impracticable methods have been employed for its application, many of which were due to improper advice given by representatives of manufacturers who were not thoroughly informed on the problem. The present meeting is to provide a clearer understanding of the work and to outline an educational campaign for 1921, which should result in the farmers having the best advice and supervision possible in their poisoning efforts.

VOTE AGAINST STRIKE

New York, Nov. 14.—Five local unions of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Truckmen today voted not to strike to enforce demand they had made for wage increase of $1 a day.

The men voted to accept the agreement offered by the wage scale committee of the Merchant Truckmen's association which provides that overtime be paid for by the minute instead of by the hour and that the men receive full pay for one holiday only in a week. The agreement is effective November 1.

THIEVES GET POUCHES

Omaha, Nov. 14.—The postal department tonight is tightening the net about the thieves who last night robbed a Burlington registered mail car within the city limits of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Ten sacks of registered mail were thrown from the car. One sack was recovered intact.

SLOW DEATH

Aches, pains, nervousness, difficulty in urinating, often mean serious disorders. The world's standard remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles—bring quick relief and often ward off deadly diseases. Known as the national remedy of Holland for more than 200 years. All druggists, in three sizes. Ask for the name Gold Medal on every box and accept no imitation.

Investigators say no estimate of the loss can be given as in no attempt has been made to check contents of pouches. The stolen pouches were from San Francisco and were said to have contained currency for New York banks. An automobile was used to carry away the loot which was thrown out of the car while the train stopped at a crossing.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Reports that large shipments of money were obtained by robbers who entered a registered mail car in Council Bluffs last night and escaped with several sacks of mail were denied tonight by Charles Woods, chief clerk of railway mail district No. 1 and E. P. Bracken, general manager of the Chicago Burlington and Quincy railroad.

"There were no treasure shipments in the car and the loss can't exceed $20,000," said Mr. Bracken.

DANIELS TO INSPECT

folk Y. M. C. A. Secretary Daniels will leave tomorrow night for Washington.
