HARDING ENROUTE TO THE UNITED STATES

President-elect Inspects Eastern End of Canal

HONOR GUEST AT BANQUET

Merchants Entertain Senator. Mrs. Harding Makes Flight in Seaplane.

Cristobal, Nov. 28.—President-elect Harding left the Canal Zone for the United States this afternoon after a week's visit in which he included an intimate study of the commercial and military advantages and needs of the waterway and exchanged assurances of friendly relations with the republic of Panama.

The steamer Pastores, bound for Norfolk by way of Kingston, Jamaica, left Cristobal late today with the President-elect and members of his party aboard. The vessel will reach Norfolk Saturday. Senator Harding will proceed to Washington before his return to Marion. His last day in the Canal Zone was spent quietly resting.

Inspects Canal
Cristobal, Saturday, Nov. 28.—President-elect Harding completed his inspection of the Panama Canal today with a visit to the fortification at its eastern entrance and calls on several military and naval stations in the vicinity of Cristobal.

As in the examination of the fortifications at the Pacific end of the canal yesterday the President-elect took great interest in small details, asking many questions to familiarize himself with the strategic situation.

During a visit to the naval air station at Cocosolo, Mrs. Harding accepted an invitation to make a flight in a seaplane, spending fifteen minutes over Limon Bay in one of the largest NC type planes used by the navy. The plane attained a height of about 1,000 feet and though it was her first experience at flying, Mrs. Harding appeared to enjoy it immensely.

Entertained by Merchants
Tonight the President-elect was the guest of honor at a banquet tendered him by the merchants of Colon and Cristobal. The affair was the occasion for renewal of expressions of comity between the United States and Panama and pledges of cooperation to promote particularly the commercial value of the canal.

Senator Harding gave assurances of his interest in the development of Central and South American trade and expressed belief that the canal would form an influential factor in the development of world commerce.

The steamer Pastores, on which the Harding party will return to the United States, is expected to sail about 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Hundreds of thousands of homes are needed. To fill this need the work of millions of persons is required. Lumber men, steel workers, brickmakers, cement mills, quarrymen, stonecutters, metal workers and others are needed to produce building materials. Carpenters, bricklayers, stone masons, structural steel workers, electricians, plumbers, sheet metal workers, roofers, painters and others are required to put up the buildings. Furniture manufacturers and all the trades employed in producing house furnishings are needed to make the home habitable.

Hundreds of thousands of men are needed for other lines of labor. Good roads are urgently needed throughout the country. Materials and machinery for road building can occupy the time of many. Men to build the roads can be employed in great numbers. Waterway development calls for the labor of others. There is still much to be done in rehabilitation of the railroads. All these things are urgently needed. It is all constructive, productive labor.

The task before the country is one of financing these jobs and putting the men into them. It is absurd to believe that this will not be done eventually when the need is so great. Mr. Forgan did not analyze the situation in this way, but his statement that "in a few months readjustment will be complete" may be so interpreted. Readjustment is nothing more than the removal of men from unessential occupations and putting them in essential ones. Changes in prices, profits, wages and working conditions are, unfortunately, necessary details.

This fact should be remembered by employers and employees, farmers, bankers, manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and consumers alike. Mr. Forgan says he has often heard the complaint that the retailer is not doing his full share to hasten the end of readjustment. Eastern bankers insist everyone must bear his share of the avoidable losses incident to this readjustment. This, naturally, is a slow process. But in present conditions it is sure.

BETTER TIMES AHEAD SAYS A CHICAGO BANKER

(From the Chicago Tribune.)
James B. Forgan, chairman of the board of the First National Bank, returns from the East with the optimistic forecast that "in a few months readjustment will be complete and business activity will be on the upward trend again." The weight given to this prediction by Mr. Forgan's business activity will be on the unnumberable factors.

Business activity and general prosperity are dependent upon and coincident with universal employment and steady production. When all our people are employed there is a demand for commodities which assures profits and stability for producers. There is enough work crying to be done in the United States to assure general employment when it is apportioned and

Worn Down, Out of Heart

Georgia Lady, Worn-out and Tired, Tells How She Was Helped by Ziron Iron Tonic.

THE personal experience of Mrs. Nannie Phillips, of Powder Springs, Ga., is printed below in her own words:

"I was in a worn-out condition. My stomach was out of order. I didn't sleep well. I was tired all the time. I couldn't half eat, and didn't rest well at night.

"I would get out of heart and blue. I would feel like I was going to be down in bed. Yet I kept dragging around.

"We heard of Ziron, and from what I read, I was sure it wouldn't hurt me. If it didn't help me. But after taking it, I found it really helped me, and I sent back for more. I ate better, felt much stronger. I am sure Ziron is a splendid tonic."

Many people, who are worn down and disheartened, due to stomach disorders and nervous ills, find relief by toning up their blood with Ziron Iron Tonic.

PROTECT COTTON!

Clemson College, November 29.—Farmers! Protect your cotton from weather damage. Don't leave it in the open. Store it in a warehouse, or under other suitable cover.

A series of experiments conducted recently by the Bureau of Markets, have shown that a bale of cotton placed out in the open, flat on the ground with no covering, was damaged to the extent of 370 pounds at the end of eight months. Another bale, placed on-edge, with no further protection, lost 167 pounds. A bale on edge and turned over once a week, lost 110 pounds. A bale placed on timber off the ground and turned once a week lost 49 pounds, and a bale placed on timber and covered with tarpaulin lost but 14 pounds. A warehouse bale of cotton during the same period lost only one pound.

Do you know that in many instances the total cost of warehousing cotton, including insurance, is no greater than the fire insurance rate alone on exposed cotton. Do you know that it will be much easier for you to obtain loans from the bank on your cotton if you have it stored in a warehouse?

Damage in one season alone from exposure to weather has been estimated at $70,000,000. Much of the lower grade cotton, of which there is now such an over-supply, is the direct result of improper handling of the crop after it is ginned. The proper place for cotton after it is baled is in a warehouse of approved type. Not only is it protected from weather damage there, but the saving in fire insurance alone, from the charges made on unstore cotton, is usually sufficient to pay all the costs of warehousing.
